THANKS

to all of those who waited patiently. I am grateful to everyone who helped me through the years, with the information they provided, plus all of the encouragement. It has been my greatest joy to have met so many of my distant cousins, that I never knew existed, as well as some who were unrelated strangers. All of you have been great. I hope we will keep in touch from time to time. God Bless You All.

GENEALOGICAL HISTORY OF THE BULL FAMILY
FROM ENGLAND TO NEW FRONTIERS

DEDICATION

To the two most important things for which I owe my gratitude

FIRST, to GOD for creating MOTHERS

SECOND, to GOD for creating mine

Without them, this History would not have been possible

PLUTARCH'S OBSERVATION

It is indeed desirable to be well descended,
but the glory belongs to our ancestors

SAINTS, KNOWN AND UNKNOWN

Let us now praise famous men, and our fathers in their generations, the heroes of our nation's history.

The Lord appointed them to great glory,
some revealed His majesty in each succeeding age.

Some held sway over kingdoms, and made themselves a name by their exploits.

Some led the people by their counsels and by their knowledge of the nation's

Some were composers of music or writers of poetry.

Others were endowed with wealth and strength, living peacefully in their homes.

All these won fame in their own generation, and were the pride of their times.

There are some of them who left a name behind them, to be commemorated in story.

And there are some who have no memorial,
who have perished as though they had not lived.

Not so our forefathers: they were men of loyalty whose deeds have not been forgotten.

Their line will endure for all time,
and their fame will never be blotted out.

Their bodies were buried in peace,
and their names live to all generations.

Ecclesiasticus 44: 1-14 (Appocrypha)

WHO AM I?

I am your cousin, your niece, aunt, sister, daughter, granddaughter mother and grandmother. Most of all I am your friend. I am the descendant of Jacob Bull, just as most of you are, and I am proud of my heritage.

When my mother died in 1971, it became important to me to try to preserve some of the things she had saved for many years. Wanting to share with others, this seemed to be the best way. Prior to mother's passing I had made a meager beginning on genealogy, and I almost dislike myself when I think of what I could have learned if I had listened more intently to the stories both of my parents told. It delights me however, that perhaps God has destined me to do this. Without His help it could never have been done. And I know mother would have been pleased that I undertook this labor of love.

As many of you know, I have been confined to a wheelchair since 1940 as a result of an automobile accident enroute home from the funeral of my grandmother. So this year will be an anniversary for me of 46 years. No big deal, wheelchair living is as great as one makes it, and for myself it has been great in most respects. Must admit that age has slowed me down a bit, but I still do many things. Can drive the car (it has hand controls), keep up with some of the housework and even cook a meal occasionally if I can tear myself away from the computer.

I have membership in the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Dixie Chapter #35 of Sherman, Tex., and in Daughters of the Republic of Texas, Peters Colony of Denton, Texas with membership #11604. Both of these honors are through my Brinlee ancestors. I hope to some day acquire membership in DAR, but so far have not found proof of Jacob Bull as having served in the Revolution. I know that he did, but there were 3 Jacob's at that time, and wives named Sarah which make it difficult to prove. That is my next undertaking as soon as I finish this book.

Love of sports occupies much of my time on Sundays, especially with football. I knit when I can, and taught knitting classes at home a few years. Handwork is fun and good therapy for anyone. Then there is puzzling, and while resting I usually have a crossword puzzle book near by. My husband often remarks, "don't you ever just do nothing?" We don't watch much T.V. unless it is educational or entertaining. There is enough violence and sex in the world without having to deliberately subject oneself to watching it performed.

My very best friend has been with me 38 years as a husband, and 9 years before that as a boyfriend. He is the blessing that few people ever experience. Everyone calls him by his middle name "Callie", but his first name John, which means "Gift of God" is as dear to me as he is. Through all of the time spent (and money) to see this project to conclusion, he has encouraged me all the way. Now that he has retired (June 7, 1985) we anticipate more time together.

Callie spent 4 years during WW II, serving Uncle Sam, part of the time in the South Pacific. He has been employed since high school as a carpenter, and with the Denver Public Schools for 22 years. Prior to that he was with Hallack & Howard Lumber Co. of Denver (for 15 years) a business established in 1867, and was the largest planing mill in the West. They were bought out in 1965 by Boise Cascade. As a matter of interest my husband machined out all of the material which made up the interior of the Air Force Academy, and the pews in the chapel there, located at Colorado Springs. His job was to read blueprints, and layouts, make patterns, detail plans and set up woodworking machinery. Many of the finest structures and the workmanship too in Denver the past 3 decades has been a part of his labor.

We have been blessed with a lovely daughter and 4 grandchildren, as well as a fine son-in-law. I must not forget that we also have a new kitty this year, after we lost our other one from old age. His name is Moses, a beautiful pedigreed chinchilla persian.

We are proud of our daughter who has accomplished so much in the past few years. She is an R.N. having graduated from nursing in 1970, and is also licensed as a Critical Care nurse. She has specialized in that field as well as coronary, and now travels each spring and fall presenting seminars in many large cities. Her husband Bill (Talkington) teaches 1st Grade where they live at Pueblo, Colo. and will soon earn his Masters degree from Southern Colo. State College.

It would take a volume to expound on the grandchildren, a trait that most grandmothers have. Our oldest is Nordyka a lovely 14 year old girl, who grows prettier each year. Then there is 10 year old Monika who is as dark as her sister is fair, with long hair and blue eyes that melt a heart. Callie is named for his grandfather, and is 9. He is Grandma's sportsman, loves football, and all the others. Then there is the youngest David almost 8, who is in 1st grade this year and his teacher is his Dad. I asked him what he called him in class and he said, "I call him Mr. Talkington." David loves grandma especially, and is always close when they come. He has a bit of a raw edge sometimes, but at least he has a mind of his own...and uses it. They are fun to be with, and Christmas is all year long with them. All are welcome in their home. Of course, we get weary when they are here sometimes as they all talk at once, and each has a story to tell, but we miss them when they leave. They asked me once "Grandma, why do you always cry when we come, and when we leave?" I reminded them I am happy twice...when they come, and when they go. God Bless them all, always.

NOTE: Since I did the first part of this, much has happened. In 1983 I had an accident while going down our driveway, chair tipped over and I went flying. In the process both legs were broken, which meant 2 months hospitalization and 6 months at home with 2 nurses. So a delay on the book. From that time on, I have worked when I had a good day, often keeping the computer at my bedside to type when I had a "down day". I had to do the index entirely by hand which took a lot of time. I can no longer do other handwork, as my arms finally gave out after all the years I have pushed my "buggy", I do not drive anymore, and we now have a van so I don't have to get in and out of my chair. Life goes on, and I still have my fighting spirit left.

EXPLANATIONS

All descendants for whom it was possible to obtain information have been given a number. They may be listed more than once, either as a child or as the head of a household, but the number they receive belongs to them only.

Each generation is divided as follows: Jacob^{3} (John^{2}, Jacob^{1}) to simplify in locating the generation to which each belongs. For example, Jacob^{1} is of the first generation and the father of John^{2}. John^{2} being of the second generation is the father of Jacob^{3}, etc. It can be further easy to assist you to locate each ancestor in the following manner. Each male descendant will be shown with his original number, and in parenthesis is the number of his father. Thus 10 (1) would mean that child no. 10 is the son or dau of no. 1. In this way, one may take any such number and by turning to each number as shown in parenthesis, locate his own direct line.

Realizing that further research may bring out information not known, and at the same time correct records now believed to be true, let me state that it does not reflect on anyone in the past who have given of themselves to provide the information they have. Any reference to persons or places which may appear to some as being of a scandalous nature, is not the intention of this compiler. Rather, an attempt was made to give the facts as they seemed to be, or as they were related to me by others, with no thought of being injurious (or insulting to the memory) of anyone. If there be error in this instance, may I stand as corrected, and offer my apologies.

All records which may be available or which are KNOWN to exist, are not contained in this book. Undoubtedly there are many someplace...in someone's attic, cellar, old trunk, or paper carton where mildew and dust will destroy. Others lie on private library shelves becoming fragile and turning yellow with age, due to the reluctance of some in sharing their records. These are the "unpublished materials" which will eventually find their way to the trash heap, flea market, or antique dealer who, for monetary reasons only, has possession of them. It saddens me that someplace in some shop are the old Bibles, letters, postcards, pictures, and other memorabilia, for which a descendant has searched endlessly, but will never be able to trace their lineage more than one or two generations, and will never know their own identity as a result.

BUT, there are many who have tried to preserve what they could for the future, as we well know from the sources now available. Genealogical libraries and Societies, Archives, and other record keeping agencies are numerous. Anyone who has ever worked on Genealogy knows how important these facilities are.

To those who say "I could never locate my ancestors", it really isn't as imposible as one would think. Everyone is probably recorded somewhere, it just takes time and patience, plus correspondence and a lot of research, even with very meager clues. Of course it takes a bit of luck, and I was lucky to have so many who helped with their own individual lines.

The name Bull" was given by a King of England to a man for bravery in conquering a bull with bare hands after seeing another fail. (Kettie Bull Watson) # 269(162) page 85.

John Bull is the name used for England and the English people, just as Uncle Sam stands for the United States and its people. The nick-name John Bull was used in the 1600's. But John Arbuthnot, a Scottish writer, fixed the popular idea of John Bull. In 1712 Arbuthnot published pamphlets advocating the end of the Spanish Succession. They were re-published the same year as "History Of John Bull". In this book, John Bull, representing England, appears as a jolly, honest, plain-dealing, but hot tempered farmer. Sir John Tenniel, the farmer's cartoonist of PUNCH magazine in the 1800's pictured John Bull as a dignified gentleman. The John Bull commonly seen today appeared in the drawings of Sir Francis Carruthers Gould, published in the Westminster Gazette during the late 1800's and early 1900's. Gould pictured John Bull wearing a "tile" hat and a swallow-tailed coat. His trousers are tucked into riding boots, and the British flag sometimes appears on his waistcoat. (I.J. Sandness)

There was another John Bull in the late 1500's and early 1600's who was an accomplished musician and composer in England. He was hailed on the Continent for his musical accomplishments, and appointed musician to the King's Court. Little of his works remain however, except in manuscripts in England. Then, according to tradition, another John Bull in a group of seven brothers, sailed from England in the early 1600's to make their way in the new promised land. The accomplishments of this John Bull varied greatly from the musical salons of the courts of gentle royalty. He was a rugged pioneer who fought the Indians, became an expert gunsmith and farmer...with many landmarks which bear his name. (R.L. Shirley, "The Roving Reporter: of the Northwest Alabamian)

July 13, 1635
HENRY BULL, age 25 embarked in the JAMES; Joseph May, master. Transported to New England as per certificate from the Minister of confirmation to the Church of England as concerned religion. Not a subsidy man.

September 11, 1635
THOMAS BULL, age 25 embarked in the HOPEWELL; Thomas Babb, master. Transported to New England as per certificate from the Minister and Justices of conformity in religion to the Church of England, taking the oath of allegeance and supremace. Not a subsidy man.

(Note: Although many persons feel that the Immigrant ancestor from which our line descends is Isaac Bull who came to Virginia in 1635, I have not proven this. Therefore, this book DOES NOT begin with Isaac. He may well have been the father of Jacob whom I have labeled as the FIRST GENERATION).

JOHN BULL born in England, came to Salem, N.J. 1678/79 with his wife Anne and four children, Thomas, Sarah, Anne, and Richard. Having received West Jersey lands from the estate of Edward Byllynge, he came to begin a new life for himself and his family. He died at Salem in 1699. His children were:

1 Thomas, b Eng. 1671; d 30 Oct. 1722

2 Sarah, b Eng. 1673; m (SAMUEL?) GREEN

3 Anne, b Eng. 1674

4 Richard, b Eng.1677; d 1722 Newtown, N.J.; m SARAH HARRISON

5 John, b 1680 N.J.; d 1715 Greenwich, N.J.

6 Mary, b N.J. 1682

7 Jacob, b 1683 N.J. d 1756 Baltimore Co., Md.; m RACHEL WARDEN

8 William, b 1686 N.J. (went to Virginia)

9 Elizabeth, b 1687

10 Katherine, b 1689

11 James, b 1692

Jacob Bull was 16 when his father died. He removed to Kent Co., Delaware with his sister Sarah Green for a time, but soon returned to live with his brother John at Greenwich. It was here that he met Rachel Warden. Whether they were married here or in Maryland, is not known, for the Warden family went to Maryland about 1715.

The above information was sent to me by Mrs. Leon Cowell, Rt. #1, Memphis, Missouri 63555. She had received it from Shirley Skeers, 4990 Franklin Blvd. #2, Eugene, Oregon. Shirley originally received it from a Frances ?, surname and address unknown. Thus you can determine that as of the present time, we have no positive proof for the ancestry of JACOB BULL. Many believe he was the son of ISAAC BULL as shown on the previous page in the list of Emigrants to America.

Jacob Bull purchased land in Baltimore Co., in 1718, continuing to do so until he had over 1,000 acres. He was a vestryman in St. John's and St. James Parishes in 1735.

Among the many pieces of land owned by Jacob Bull was a tract called Cecil's Adventure, which contained about 260 acres. It may have derived its name from Cecilius Calvert, the 2nd Lord Baltimore (son of George Calvert).

NOTE: In the following will Jacob does not mention his wife, so she may have been deceased. His vast amount of land passed into the hands of his children, whom he names. Some think that Jacob was born in 1665, while others have given the above date, which I am inclined to agree with, in light of the birth dates of his children. The Bull genealogy is confusing and conflicting, but perhaps further reasearch will clear up many of these mysteries, someday.

That the title of ESQUIRE (Esq.) was formerly a candidate for Knighthood, acting as attendant and shield-bearer for a Knight. In England a member of the gentry (gentleman) ranked just below a Knight. The title "Sir" was used before the given name or full name of a Knight or Baronet as Sir Walter Raleigh. Now obsolete is the term Lord, previously signifying a man of rank.

John Bull owned stores in Baltimore and was a Planter and large land owner in Baltimore Co., most of his land having been inherited through his father and father-in-law. From his will and that of his wife Hannah, we can determine that they owned about 600 acres of land, a considerable amount for those days. John did not mention his daughters in his will but Hannah did. Probably since he had land to leave to his children, and it was common that a father leave it to his sons. Most daughters would acquire land and other property through their husbands.

Some persons believe that John and Hannah also had a son named Edmund. I find no record of such a son, but he may have been deceased prior to the death of his parents.

Many of the Bull's were gunsmiths. There are JOHN BULL rifles known to exist. In 1973 my husband and I went to a gun show at the Albany Hotel in Denver and talked with a man there who had a display of frontier firearms. He said he knew of two John Bull rifles, and wondered if we were interested in buying one. Then added that unless we had a lot of money, to forget it. He also stated that we would be more likely to see one of them at the annual gun show, which is held in August in Houston, Texas. However, he did give us one important clue. He said that it would be signed on the breech.

Susan Vail Bull is believed by some as NOT being a child of Jacob and Rennis Bull. From Vol. I, "Historical Southern Families," by John Bennett Boddie is the following: Susan Vail Bull was almost certainly the daughter of Jacob Bull and Rennis of Warren and Columbia Counties Georgia. There were Bulls in Harford County Maryland from 1734 to 1778, and in the latter year, William Bull, Jacob Bull (son of Jacob), and Jacob Bull (son of John), took the oath of allegiance in that county to the American cause. It is uncertain which of the Jacob Bulls in Harford County in 1778 was the one who moved to Georgia, but he was probably one of them. Jacob Bull, the father of Susan Kendrick, was living in Columbia County Georgia from 1794 to 1798. In two deeds in 1796 he calls himself Jacob Bull, Sr., indicating he had a son, Jacob, Jr., and in three deeds from 1796 to 1798, he made deeds of gift of slaves and property to his son Jesse Bull. After the death of Susan Bull Kendrick, her husband (Jones Kendrick) married, on 26 August 1830 in Wilkes County Georgia, Mrs. Nancy M. Powell, the former Nancy Marshall Williams (12 Nov 1791-26 Dec. 1855) dau of Drury Williams and TABITHA MARSHALL. She had been married previously to John R. Anderson and later to Nelson Powell, both of Wilkes County. Jones Kendrick and his two wives are buried in the family burying ground on his plantation in Wilkes County."

There also seems to be a difference of opinion about #40 above. However,from the Bussey Book, he is shown as the son of Jacob, who married Mary Galloway Divers. I believe that the information sent to me by Edward DeKalb of Ames, Ia. showing his lineage, is the more correct that the Elisha who married Mary Divers was a son of William (# 73). To add credence to this thinking is the way in which land passed down from Jaocb(#1) to son Abraham (#6) and on to Abraham's son William (#73). Brad Slattery of Md. who did some research for me, also feels the same. Although dates would not support this, it does seem possible.
#10 Jacob Bull was a Landowner. He was an inhabitant of Bush River Lower Hundred on 15 Aug. 1776, age 46. He served in the Revolutionary War and enrolled in Captain John Love's Company on 24 Sept. 1774 and also in the Company of Jacob Bond on 9 Dec. 1775. His wife Ranrice (from Parish Records) was the granddaughter of Edward Bussey who married in 1701 to Martha Evans. Martha was a daughter of Obediah and Ann Evans of Calvert Co., Maryland, and a granddaughter of another Obediah Evans who came to America in 1667. The name Bussey is well known in history. The aunt of Rennis (Martha Bussey) was married to Abraham Jarrett. Abraham was a Minute Man during the Revolutionary War and was born ca. 1735. Most likely the person who was the Registrar of Wills in Harford, Co.

I was given the date of death of Jacob bull as 16 Nov. 1798, yet it is a contradiction from the Boddie book (cited above) which states the following: Jones Kendrick, in a note in 1816 concerning his administration of the estate of John Willis, Sr. in Wilkes Co., Ga. says, "In the spring of 1815, while I was in the service of the U.S. (War of 1812) Mr. Jacob Bull received for me from sundry persons the sum of $331.75.

William Bull was the 27th person to take the oath of fidelity from William Smithson. At the November 1774 term of court, there was an appropriation of ten thousand pounds of tobacco to defray in part the expense of building a bridge over Little Falls, with John Beale Howard and Robert Bishop appointed managers. The court appointed Jacob Bond, S. Henry Wilson, Sr., William Amos, Sr., and William Bull to view the road from Hickory Tavern to Howard's Ford, where the old road did formerly run by Thomas Smithson's, Daniel Durhams, and Daniel Preston's. (Note: The fact that tobacco was to help in the cost of building a bridge, with William Bull and Daniel Durham being a part of this undertaking, makes me wonder if this is where BULL DURHAM tobacco originated).

From Maryland Records
Colonial, Revolutionary County, Church from Original Sources, by Gais Marcus Brumbaugh Volume II Lancaster Press, Inc. Lancaster, Pennsylvania (1928)

"From the returns of the Worshipful Abraham Whittaker on 24 March 1778, Jacob Bull of John took the Oath of Fidelity, being the 111th person." We cannot be sure that this applies to THIS Jacob, for there was ANOTHER Jacob of John (#56). But when you look at dates I believe it to be THIS Jacob as stated.

Jacob Bull left Maryland after the close of the Revolutionary War and moved to Washington Co., Tennessee (at that time it was Washington Co., North Carolina). He was there in 1790. Before he left he sold his property and freed his slaves. From courthouse records of Harford Co., Maryland is a deed of sale in 1785 of Jacob Bull of John, where he deeds property, and on "the same day did Sarah Bull, wife of Jacob of John sign away her dower rights in this property." (Note: The dower being that part of a husband's property which the wife, as a widow inherits for life). Twice before Sarah had done this, in 1780 and 1783. One slave by the name of Hannah refused freedom and Jacob brought her and her husband with them to Tennessee. She was up in years and insisted on coming with her people.

Evan Shelby of Baltimore (first Governor of Kentucky) had established a Trading Post prior to the war at the sight of Saplin Grove (now Bristol,Tennessee). Supplies were brought from Baltimore to the Post, probably having been purchased from Jacob who owned stores there, and perhaps the reason why Jacob moved to the Watauga, having heard about it from Evan. Evan was later killed by Indians.

Watauga Country as it was originally known in eastern Tennessee was a rather isolated section first settled in 1769, the first permanent settlement west of the Applachians. For a good many years, most settlers going to other frontiers passed through the Watauga settlements, probably because they had kinfolk there. Some moved further west, although many remained several years before doing so. (Note: For anyone seeking family lines in Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, and Texas, they would do well to check as one of their important sources the records of east Tennessee and the Watauga.)

On February 15, 1792, Jacob purchased 225 acres of land from William Bean, Jr. for sixty pounds of current money. Located in Washington County on the Watauga River, and more commonly referred to as HOLSTON COUNTRY, it was the sight of the Bull home until around 1830 when Jacob sold out and subsequently moved to Grainger County where he died within a short time. It is thought that they moved to the home of their son Elisha at Grainger County (on 1830 census in household of Elisha was one female between age 70-80, probably Sarah Bull, his mother). Jacob's son John Bull had apparently gotten into some financial trouble or other difficulty, so Jacob sold the homeplace to help him out. His son Elisha secured the remaining bit of land the same year, supposed to contain about 100 acres. From the records at Jonesboro dated 1 February 1830 is the following, "in consideration of a bond given to him (Jacob Bull), for the maintenance of he and his wife during their lifetime, all the land and improvements where Jacob Bull lives (adjoining Alex Dryer, Abram Miller, and John Crouch), including all the land remaining in an old grant not heretofore conveyed to John Bull and Abner Miller". This was taken from Elisha Bull's Bond. Several times Jacob sold the land, first to his son John, then John sold it.

The homeplace on the Watauga was a large two-story log house, one of that size being rare at that time. Located near a big spring where they could do the wash and hang their clothes on nearby rocks to dry, it was considered one of the finest homes in the country.
After Jacob and his family lived on the frontier for many years, he sent his sons and some of their cousins back to Baltimore to buy goods and supplies. The boys were instructed to purchase from their uncles and visit their kinfolk while there. Upon arrival they hunted up the stores and homes of their relatives, and that night they walked by the beautiful houses, but could not get up enough courage to make themselves known. The next day they bought the supplies from the uncles and headed home for Tennessee. Their parents were indeed saddened that they had not seen the relatives, but they said, "we were just backwoods men, and everything was so different."

The Bull family were Methodists. They were visited by Bishop Asbury, for in his journal dated Friday April 8, 1790 is written, "after receiving great kindness from dear sister Nelson, we came to Brother Bull's who wrought for us gratis in shooing our horses. Thence we went to Brother Gott's, and to Brother Easley's" (presently Kingsport, Tennessee). The Nelson home was at the edge of present Johnson City, Tennessee which was the seat of early Methodism in Holston Country.

Francis Asbury, the first Methodist Bishop along with Bishop Thomas Coke had founded the first Methodist College in the world for higher learning. It was located in the first district of Harford County Maryland at Abington and was named for the two founders "COKESBURY". Bishop Asbury was present June 5, 1785 to lay the corner stone and preach the foundation sermon. The church had been built the previous year, close by Otter Creek and Otter Point, with deep water where large vessels could load and discharge cargo. Bishop Asbury was the College Superintendant in 1787.

Later the Bull family attended the Read meeting house on the edge of Morristown, after their move to Grainger County. This meeting house stood just across the road from the CROCKETT TAVERN where Davey's father ran the Inn, and where Davey later said, "times were hard here". The meeting house burned during the Civil War, and just a bit nearer Morristown the Liberty Hill M.E. Church was organized in 1848. Two sisters of Mary (Read) Bull are buried in the churchyard there, Caroline (Read) Morris and Sidney. The Read graveyard is where the Read Meeting house once stood, and although no one knows for certain since no markers have been found, it is believed that Jacob and Sarah are buried there also.

Named for his grandfather who died when Jacob was but a month old, followed by the death of his father a year later and his mother Hannah only three years after that, Jacob never remembered his parents. Both were in their thirties when they passed on, leaving three daughters and two sons, of which Jacob was the youngest. Families were large, his father was one of eleven children and his mother was one of seven. Thus Jacob did not lack for aunts, uncles or cousins. Who it was that raised him is not known. By the time he reached manhood he was a respected and prosperous landowner, a good neighbor willing to be of service to all, often loaning money. but expected it to be returned.

At the end of the War of Independence the world around looked good.

Roads and bridges were being built and tobacco never looked finer. Their social standing no doubt followed that of his parents at least. From the will of his mother we have some idea of the fashion of the times, and styles changed little from generation to generation.

A well dressed man sported a three cornered hat, long open coat, fancy waistcoat, knee breeches and stockings. The women were corseted, and over their hooped skirts, their dresses were low-necked and narrow waisted, similar to those as described by his mother Hannah that she bequeathed to her daughters. They were made of silk and calico, and the" Peticote" was often quilted. By the time Jacob's daughters and daughters-in-law came on to the social scene, they shed their corsets and hoops, wore high waisted, flowing and revealing "Empire" dresses, that came into vogue during the Napoleon era.

Sarah was a widow, The chair which Jacob brought with him to Tennessee and which is now in the possession of a great great granddaughter Mary R. Perry of Bristol, belonged to the first husband of Sarah. (See p. 34 and the letter which tells about the chair). Although it is not known for certain that Sarah's maiden name was Vincent, it seems likely, but we do know that she was not Sarah Love, since it was Miss Love who married the son of Edmund, also Jacob Bull. These 2 Jacob's were cousins. See pages 9 and 24. Mary said there was a George and a Thomas Vincent not far from Boone's Creek, where Jacob Bull first lived. George had land a bit further down the Watauga to the south in the section known now as Gray Area (Gray's Station). The Vincents were Methodists, and attended Acuffs Chapel near Bountville. They were active in the State of Franklin movement.

NOTE: PASSING MONEY .
In 1779 when this bond was written, there were a number of currencies in use. Continental money was of no value. Philadelphia money, gold, silver, Spanish coin, or Johannes coin, and even British money were acceptable. We can determine from the above Bond, THAT JACOB BULL WAS THE SON OF JOHN, but which John? 18(3) or 56(14)? It is evident that he could write, for his signature was very plain and no "mark" was made instead.

All children born in Tenn.; except #145, born in Ala.

John Valentine Bull was born just after the close of the Revolutionary War on Valentine's Day(which may be the reason for his middle name). John and Fetnah were married at Grainger County Tennessee wnere he operated a Stage Coach line near Bull's Gap and the Bean Station on the Post road. He was an expert gunsmith.

It may have been that the young couple met and courted here, for the Bean family had lived in this area for quite some time. The two families of Bull and Bean had already been joined in a sense when John's father had purchased the land on the Watauga from Fetnah's father. However, as was stated previously, Jacob Bull sold the homeplace and moved to Grainger County before 1830.

We will never know the real reason for selling out, but it is my own opinion that Pleasant Bull, the oldest child of John and Fetnah, may have been at the bottom of the "financial difficulty" mentioned by Mary Perry. By 1827 John was in Alabama with his family, Pleasant was in Austin Colony, Texas by 1832, and the letters which he writes to his parents present a picture of heartache and repentance. Tennessee was their "home" and where their roots were. It is doubtful that they would have left without good reason. Plus, there was a tension between John and his brother Vincent, for Elijah Bull (son of Vincent) said he once saw his uncle John offer his father a dollar in settlement of an old debt, but that Vincent knocked it from his hand and walked away. For whatever reason, family ties were obviously broken.

The move to Alabama with seven children must have been an experience to remember, especially if traveled by steam passage. To get to Russellville in Franklin County, they would have traveled via the Holston River to below Knoxville where the Holston meets with the French Broad and the mighty Tennessee. Along part of its winding route, the Tennessee River did not always offer safe or clear sailing, and any unkindliness was offset by what lay in store for travelers on the narrows below Walden Ridge and Lookout Mountain and in the Muscle Shoals area in the Great Bend. The Shoals were probably the most famous and costly river hazzard in all of Eastern North America. They begun at the mouth of the Elk River and continued to Florence, Alabama. In that harrowing distance of nearly 40 miles, the river dropped more that three and one half feet to the mile with a resultant fall of more than 150 feet. If so great a waterfall were stood on end, it might be higher than the Niagara.

At the time they first settled at Russellville, it was Walker County, having been formed in 1823 from Marion County. Perhaps they had relatives there. Pleasant writes to an Uncle Russel Scrogin at Moulton (about 30 miles east of Russellville in Lawrence County) in 1834. I have not been able to establish how they were related. In one letter he mentions "Aunt Nancy and Cousin Emaline". Who were they?

From tradition, it is said that they had a beautiful home where they farmed near the Sipsey River in what is now Winston County. Their two story home later was burned down, believed caused by a "pipe smoking woman". John took small pine saplings, split them, and hollowed them out and clamped them back together. Water ran by gravity into the spring house and into tubs and vats where they kept their milk cool. The spring house provided water for all uses and was located in the yard where they did their washing. At the back of the house was a large pecan tree, said to have been planted by John's daughter Rausamond. Many of the later generation recall seeing this tree although it has since died and other homes have been built in this location.

John V. Bull died near the little village of Bear Creek, Alabama where he is buried alone - no other grave is in the area. I have a newspaper picture of the grave. It is surrounded by a low fence which appears to be made of galvanized pipe. Although said to be well tended, it looks like there are weeds and brambles and wild flowers, one resembling a Colorado columbine, but does appear to be a place of peace and confirms the inscription on the headstone, "Resting til the Resurrection Morn". Much has been speculated about this grave. R. L. Shirley, the "Roving Reporter" of the Northwest Alabamian gives the following account.

> "The grave is just off the Bear Creek-Hackleburg cutoff road. Legend says that when John died, his Indian wife, according to her custom, had her husband's body carried across a stream of water (Bear Creek) from where they lived, which was a step made to free his spirit and keep it from returning."

A later account stated that John had married a Spanish lady remembered only as Miss Bean, that family records show she was once scalped by Indians, but survived. With no reflection on the reporting of Mr. Shirley, it should be cleared up that all of the above stories are false. Fetnah Bean Bull was neither an Indian, nor was she Spanish. Her brother, Peter Ellis Bean, did however marry a Spanish Senorita (Magdalena de Falfan de los Godos), and her aunt (Jane Bean) was killed by Indians near Bean Station at the age of 32 and is buried there. It may be that family stories were related and grew, rather like the game we played as children "I packed my grandmother's trunk".

On the 1850 census of Marion County, Fetnah is shown as the head of the household with two daughters, Rausamond Anderson Bull, age 36, and Hannah Rosannah Bull, age 27. She had a property value of $1,000.00. In 1853, Fetnah went to Texas with her sons Elisha and John Wesley, daughters Mary and Rausamond. There is nothing to show that Hannah was with the group, but I believe she was married between 1850 and 1853, and we know that she did go to Texas, and that she was married to Joe Stanford, but although they were said to have gone to Hunt County, there are no records at the present time as to what became of them. The old family Bible gives only her birth/death date. Rausamond remained a spinster and was loved by all. The nieces affectionately called her "Aunt Rausy". She is believed to be the oldest person to file on land during the Run of '89 in Oklahoma. She died at Roger Mills County and is buried at Belleview Cemetery near Crawford, Oklahoma as are other family members.

Fetnah Bean Bull was the daughter of William Bean, Jr. and his second wife Elizabeth (Blair) Shaw. The Bean family is well documented in many historical publications. The "Lives of Peter Ellis Bean",by Bennet Lay, is one which everyone should read even if they have no connection to this family. It would make an exciting movie or T.V. Show.

In 1857, Fetnah died at Leon County Texas, probably at the home of her son John Wesley. She is buried at Marquez, Texas, but no headstone has been located. Fetnah had a mission for making the move so far from her beloved Tennessee, but it was never accomplished, neither by her nor any of her children.

William Bean, Jr. (father of Fetnah) was one of the King's Mountain Men. His brothers were gunsmiths and silversmiths. Bean Station is named for this family.

Clisbe Riggs m/1 to MARTHA EMALINE THOMPSON. They had three daughters, Caroline, Emaline, and Jane Elsie Riggs.

Clisbe was a gunsmith and died between 1856/1860. Other records say he was Dr. Clisbe Riggs. In my files is a letter which tells that Ellis Riggs died as a result of an accident while "shooting fish" in the Holston River, where he climbed a tree and fell about seven feet and broke his neck. Ellis was born 17 May 1789 and died in April 1848 at Grainger Co. Tenn. The Riggs line is confusing, for like the Bull's, so many were given the same names, and it takes much more research in order to have records accurate and correct.

Above children are true and correct as far as is known. Elisha had no issue that I know of by his second wife Louisa Ladd, but there is a headstone next to his and Louisa's with "J.L.B." and no dates on it.

Elisha Bull, like many others, was a gunsmith. I have done a lot of research on this family due to the old letter written by his daughters to their cousin Elisha (#143). It was so interesting that I wanted to find out all I could. Although I have contacted few descendants, my conclusions are as correct as could be made. Elisha Bull served in the War of 1812, for which service he received a pension until his death. He moved to Coffee Co. Tenn. in August 1875.

The letter of Elisha's daughters is beautiful, the handwriting is especially so. They were written in the days when families were separated, often never seeing each other again. All of them remind us that they were people who knew the meaning of love, and that they were hoping someday, "they would meet again". The poetry was written from the heart, often with fancy drawings, or surrounded with borders composed of hearts.

Elisha was born at the old Bull homesite in Washington County

Tenessee. He married Sarah Davis in 1816, and this marriage is recorded. She was the mother of all 11 children, her birthdate and date of death are unknown, but she was not on the 1850 census, so was obviously deceased by then, for in Grainger County is a record of a marriage of Elisha Bull to Louisa Ladd on 20 February 1851. I believe this is the same Elisha, and that Louisa is his second wife. Reason being that they were married by the same Minister of the Gospel as the children, namely Josiah Rhoten. When I found the record of burial at Coffee County Tennessee of Elisha and Louisa Bull with dates on the headstones, it further concluded that I was correct in my previous assumptions.

It is my hope that if anyone has information concerning this branch of the family, they will get in touch with me. Likewise if anyone knows more of the connections regarding George, Jacob, and Elizabeth (brothers and sister of Elisha) I would like to hear about it. At the present time, I know nothing more about them other than what I have shown. I believe George stayed in Grainger County, but Jacob probably moved. Surely someplace are decendants who would recognize the names of their spouses. Eventually we may be able to add to this line.

Vincent Bull was the youngest child of Jacob and Sarah. Since it was common for one child to have the mother's maiden name I believe (as (as do many others) that Sarah gave hers to this son. Aside from this, we have no proof that her name was VINCENT, but she was not Sarah Love, (see p. 19). However,in all of the Bull lines, I have not come across another Vincent Bull. It was common practice that given names were shared by more than one in most lineages, so it is surprising that it was not repeated. One must be part detective in doing genealogical research, but one must also use logic, and in this case, there seems to be no other logical conclusion. Kettie

Bull, in her letter, said that the name was VINSON, but I feel that was from Bible records and, depending on who recorded it, the spelling wasn't always correct. We do know that there were Vincent's in Maryland and hopefully we may find a link to them. There are a lot of them still in the Baltimore area, possibly descendants.

Vincent was raised in Holston Country at the old homeplace on the Watauga. Lydia could not speak English at the time they were married, and the phoenetic spelling "Setseller" is recorded. She was said to be of Dutch or German ancestry, and had at least two sisters who married brothers. One was Katie who married William Estes, and the other was Betsy who married Jim Estes (there are many Estes families in Grainger County).

After Lydia and Vincent married, they returned to the old homeplace, to the home that was to be theirs one day. It was here that Lydia said she was happier than any other, and little wonder, for she as a bride probably had charge of the lovely big home. Although Jacob and Sarah were still living, they were advanced in years, and welcomed the young couple to help care for them.

When Jacob had to sell out, it meant that Vincent and Lydia would have to find a new home. Before going to Morristown where they settled, they first went to McMinn County on the Little Tennessee where new homestead land, known as the"Hiawassee Purchase", had opened up in 1819. Always referred to as the "Purchase", Lydia said the rattlesnakes were so numerous they had to burn pine knots at night to keep them out of their cabin.

It must have been a great loss to part with a husband at such an early age as Lydia did. Vincent was but 37 years old and there were six children to raise between the ages of two and fourteen when he died. The family was also very poor as evidenced by the Inventory of his property after his death.

The remaining 54 years of Lydia's life were spent in rearing her family until they left home. Her latter days she lived with or near her son Elijah, along with her two spinster daughters, Elizabeth and Mahala,(Aunt Liz and Aunt Hale).

According to nieces and grand-nieces, Aunt Liz was very serious and distant, while Aunt Hale was the favorite with the children and grandchildren....she always took time to play with them. They said she was a lot of fun. They both smoked pipes once a day, after supper. In summer, Aunt Liz would sit on the wood pile and enjoy her evening pipe.

Of Vincent's son Elisha, very little is known. He is believed to have lived in Grainger County. Mary Bull Humpston said "I've heard they were 'high livers'. Why, they even kept a barrel of brown sugar in their cellar".

Mary Perry has, in her possession, the ladder-back, split-bottom chair. According to Lydia, this chair was brought from Maryland by

Jacob when he came to Tennessee. The story is that the chair belonged to a sailor whose wife had the chair made for him. It seemed that his custom was to drink too much ale at the Tavern when ashore, and he would come home, sit by the fire, go to sleep, and fall out of his chair. So, his wife had the chair made with high arms to keep him from falling out. She was tired of picking him up off the floor. The chair was given to Lydia and, quoting Mary, "When the grandchildren would go to visit Lydia, she would grant them a special privilege and would allow them to sit in her chair. The last years of her life, she was drawn with rheumatism, unable to walk, and sat day by day in her chair. The menfolks would carry her in her chair to visit her son Elijah Bull and grandson William Bull." (Mary Humpston remembers seeing them bring her to their home)

It is this chair which gives rise to the assumption that perhaps Sarah Bull was married twice. See the letter from Kettie Bull Watson which follows. I have no proof to offer that might clear up this dilemma, if there is one.

Lydia is buried at Wesley's Chapel Cemetery in Sevier County as well as daughters Elizabeth, Mahala, Sarah, (and husband Harmon Cox) and Lydia's sons C.Rufus and William (who died of the flux). The information I have about Vincent and his family came to me in a bit of an unusual way. While looking through one of the Genealogical magazines a few years ago, I found an ad for someone who was researching BULL. I answered the ad, and after many letters back and forth with Margaret Cate of California, I learned that we had a mutual connection. She said she had a manuscript from a distant cousin written in 1963 and would loan it to me to look at. This manuscript was the work of Mary Read Perry of Bristol, Tennessee, the great granddaughter of Vincent. To my delight, she showed that her grandfather Elijah had married a widow by the name of Mary (Read) Thompson. No one can imagine the thrill I got, for I had the old letter written by the cousins to my great grandfather, and they had told him about "Cousin Elijah marrying the widow Thompson". From this ironic coincendence, I could locate the parents of my ancestor, thanks to Mary. Through further searches and correspondence the list grew, generations were added, and now there is history to be enjoyed. And I owe it all to Mary Perry. There are many others,of course, and they too are acknowledged, but I want to say that this was the first stepping stone into my ROOTS beyond that of my great grandfather.

The following letter written about 1950 tells about the old chair which Jacob Bull brought with him from Maryland to Tennessee. It is believed from this letter that Jacob may have been married twice, or that Sarah had been married before she married Jacob. I believe we proved this on page 19 that she was a widow. I have no proof for this assumption, and I wonder if Sarah was a widow without children. Evidently so. If not, then perhaps John Valentine Bull was a son by her pervious marriage, although I doubt it very much. The letter below was written by Kettie Bull Watson to Mary Bull Humpston at White Pine,Tenn. Kettie was still living in 1973 at Dyersberg,Tenn. and was past 90 years old. (She died in April 1975)

Dear Mary
The "arm chair" is the nearest thing I can give you to work from in Maryland. As I remember being told about it--Goes like this. Jacob Bull's wife's first husband was a sailor and drank so much that she had the "arm chair" made for him to sit in when he would be at home.

So they must have lived near the ocean. I haven't thought hard enough to recall anything to make me sure if the sailors wife was Jacob Bulls first wife, and mother of his children, or if she was second wife and the first wife was the mother of his children. I can't remember Grandma Bull (Lydia Sitzler) ever speaking of any half brothers or sisters in her husbands family.

And how Grandma Bull fell heir to the "arm chair" I do not know...here is something...Grandma talked about...that "The Old People" intended for Vinson and she to have the homeplace (that he was the youngest child) but the oldest son John Bull came back from Texas and got the old people all torn up...(my note: John never went to Texas, although his son Pleasant did).
So if the wife living at that time was not the mother just a step-mother...looks like grandma would not have included the two so closely together concerning the sons; and I can not think of a time she spoke of any difference of opinions of the old people...also she seemed to speak of them in a manner showing she liked one as well at the other.
Could it be we have been under the wrong impression that Jacob Bull was married twice...maybe it was just his wife that was married twice.
And again by the chair being brought with them to Tennessee one naturally would think the woman who had the chair made was the wife living with him when he moved to Tennessee. So if he was married twice I believe both licenses would be recorded in Maryland (maybe somewhere near the coast). And they must have been getting old by Grandma talking about them setting free all their slaves but two a man and woman to wait on he and his wife. And I think she said the darkies were old and buried in the family grave-yard. Our orchard as somewhere back in my brain wants to say...how maybe she said orchard, or as a child I pictured the family grave-yard being in the apple-orchard.

In those days, just how far they hauled, by wagon merchandise from Boston we don't know, but that as I remember some one telling was done by a cousin.
You remember uncle John Cox (Puncher) he married a cousin to my father, and I think her name was Liza Bull her fathers name I don't know.

The only church name that comes to mind is Bethel(a Baptist church near where Jacob lived near Morristown). Grandma's name was Lydia Sitzler and her sister Katie married Jim Estes. Fathers first wife was Susan Easterly. I think this and am not at all sure I spell the names right just give them as they sounded to me.

The two story log house and the spring with such clear water and the large limestone rock is very clear in my memory for she talked so much about the spring and how she could lay her clothes on the rock and stand on one to rinse her clothes. And I keep thinking of an orchard, but can't come clear on that. Some time they moved to the Purchase, another word I give like she called it. It was somewhere they were setting up new land, I suppose, for she told of how they had to keep burning pine knots all night to keep the rattle-snakes from coming in the house.

From the name being spelled Sarah in the record of births I guess if as we thought one wife was named Sallie, it would be recorded as Sarah. (My note: I feel certain that Jacob Bull's wife WAS Sarah, and her nickname was Sally).

Aunt Liz was with you a good deal and as she was next oldest to Pa seems she would have remembered her grandparents so you two get together what she told you.

Zelma (wife of Carrol Bull in Baltimore who gave the records from there, as per M.R.P.), mentioned Vincent Washington. Don't know where she got that idea, for I do not recall that name any where. Set her right on the name Vinson Granade. (My Note: Again there seems to be some difference of opinion here, for from other accounts I believe Jacob's youngest was Vincent Garrard). Am sending this as for two day & have not thought of more. Just came in off the yard work, been thinning dahlias.

Write me Love from Kettie

On the back was written:

Mary how I want to go with you, that old place is one have always longed to see since Granny told so much about it. Hope you find the ground the house stood on and the spring & rocks anyway.

NOTE: Mary Read Perry says she visited this area before the TVA Dam flooded the area, and that the description with the rocks, etc. fits this place exactly.
She believes that Kettie (Bull) Watson (granddaughter) had the family bible of Vincent Bull.

GRAINGER COUNTY, TENNESSEE

Grainger County Tennessee occupies an area of little more than 300 square miles between the Clinch and Holston Rivers. The surface is made up of parallel ridges and narrow valleys running northeast to southwest. The highest elevation is Clinch Mountain, near the middle of the County,. The valleys are generally very fertile in soil and mineral springs are abundant.

The settlement of Grainger County began about 1785 south of Clinch Mountain at the head of Flat Creek. Bean Station, located at the crossing of the great thoroughfares leading from Kentucky to the south, and from Virginia and North Carolina to the west, was one of the best known places in Tennessee for more than half a century prior to the advent of railroads. It became a favorite stopping place for travelers and drovers taking their stock from Kentucky to the Southern markets. For at Bean Station in 1813 was the hotel, an institution which gave this area much of its celebrity. A race course was eventually laid out in the vicinity and the village became a focus point of considerable importance.

The first church in the County was established by the Baptists at the mouth of Richland in 1788. The first Methodist Church organized was probably County Line Church, so named because of its location, between Grainger and Hawkins Counties. Organized in 1794,it was frequently visited by Bishop Asbury. Presbyterian congregations were not formed at a very early date.
The first courthouse was in the town of Rutledge in 1801 (Clairborne County, an original part of Grainger). The jail was at the back of the courthouse.

PLEASANT MARSHALL BULL of John was probably one of the most beloved and illustrious persons in my own direct line. He was the brother of my great grandfather, Elisha Rufus Bull, the oldest of eight children born to John Valentine Bull and Fetnah Bean. Because his life was one of adventure, and was so parallel with that of his uncle Peter Ellis Bean, I became intrigued by all of the letters which he wrote after he left his home in Tennessee and went to Texas as a young and daring man. I wonder if he had heard about the promise of the West through the stories which had obviously come through his uncle to his mother. In memoirs of Peter Bean, he mentions having visited his sister Fetnah and he probably also wrote letters to her. Little doubt that the excitement escaped the notice of one so young as Pleasant. He was born in Grainger County Tennessee in 1808 and was raised in an atmosphere of devotion to home and God. Many a heart was broken when he set out from home for the western frontier. His parents must have suffered a great deal of anguish as you will note from the letters which follow, for they never saw him again.

Except for the old letters which are in fragile condition and difficult to read, we could not be sure that Pleasant M. Bull ever lived. The letters to which I make reference are nearly 150 years old. They are written in ink, but would not photograph for reproduction. What a pity!

It took a good magnifying glass and a great deal of patience and time to copy them just as they were when written so long ago. The words were spelled phonetically and the punctuation was not always correct, but the meaning is still there.

It is clear that Pleasant M. Bull was taken advantage of, but the circumstances will always remain a mystery. How sad that one who was so noble and who believed in a cause and fought for it could not have lived long enough to see his dreams come true and realize his ambitions and goals in life. But only the fact that he was truly a Christian man brought up by parents that loved him and believed in the rights of freedom and brotherhood were the very reasons for which he had his being. THESE are the causes which most of us would like to lay claim to and cannot. THESE are the persons who formed the western frontiers with those who fought the good fight and whose names are written in the BOOK OF LIFE.

Following the letters which Pleasant wrote to his parents are those of his fiance Marion (Alsbury) Martin. She had hoped that his parents could come to Texas and claim his headright and donation land, but as you will see, this was not possible.

Dear and benevolent Father:

I take this opportunity to write a few lines to the best of parents hoping you may receive them possessing the same blessings of health &c. I am in tolerable health at present thanks be to the allwise ruler of the universe. I have spent the season so far about twenty miles from the Sea Coast, my situation at present is neither prosperous nor discouraging. I have just witnessed the marriage of eight parties on yesterday the ceremony performed by the Catholic Priest, his mode of baptism is to wet his finger in a bowl of water and make a cross on the forehead then wipe it off with a towel, for baptism he has two dollars for marriage twenty five. He is pastor over all the colonies at present or those that are to be made hereafter. He is a very plain man of a venerable mind. I wrote to you to send me a letter to the Sabbin Post Office, I have had no chance to send to see whether you sent one or not nor cant have. I want you to send me one to Brazoria, Austin Colony, Texas pay the post or I cant get it from New Orleans please write me as quick as convenient, give my best regard to all my friends This is a fine country, but it is not worth my while to say anything about it knowing you will never come hither, a young man is entitled to choose his land, also married men a young mans portion is four thousand four hundred acres, horses here are very cheap, they may be got for from five to ten dollars a head, such as sell in the States at thirty five to forty dollars. Honey bees are spread all over the forest, does amazingly well, I have hunted very little and have found ten or twelve trees, some had ten gallons of honey in them. Grass is fine here, I see some places in the woods that looks like a vineyard the vines hang loaded with grapes as large as Muskedines and of a fine taste. With a few words, its the best Country I ever saw. As to the laws and Government its not best but they are milder than I expected. I have but little time to write, tell all the children I remember them, perhaps I'll see them some time but I dont know when. May we have a fair wind and Jesus be our pilot through life. Nothing more at present but your unworthy son.

Pleasant Bull

Dear father I gladly embrace this oppertunity of sending you a few lines I am well at present hoping you are not destitute of the same blessings I have wrote to you several times i've recieved no answer what can I surmise that I am not worthy of your Respect I agree but I shall say no more upon that subject my tender Respects for brothers and sisters I can never part with if I should ever recieve an answer from you I hope you will forget my former conduct and forgive a truly penitent and unworthy son hoo now adores his parents tho far distant father I now write to you what I never expected to do dont condem it before considered nor place prediguice on the throne of your mind give reason her sway let your thoughts not be partial

this country has bin misrepresented it is certinly a fine country worthy of a better name there is a colony just opened called the Upper colony all who has seen it gives it a fine name I expect to visit them parts this coming summer If they be equal to my expectations I shall settle there if not I shall go to the interior of texas if you could conclude to come to this country you would I think stand a better chance to settle your children on land of ther own. you can draw upwards of four thousand acres of land Jacob and Russell upwards of one thousand a piece I think it is an object worthy of notice My native country never has bin half as generous to her subjects I dont see that tha have showed any liberality at all tha have sold her land at the highest market tha give the poor no chance like this country if you are settled and contented live there and be happy if not listen to Reason. you have several objections to this country one is the Roman Catholic Religion another is you think this country is filed with the outcast of other nations and another is it is too far to think of moving if ever I get to heaven I expect to see spaniards frenchmen Romans Italians and Roman Catholic priests in the uniform of heavenly soldiers hoo has acted well there part on earth. and as to the settlers of this country speakin in general tha are a kind and obligin people tha are not a set of bandits as tha have been called far from it tho in our country you you may have had as many crimes. the journey that people think so far is not so hard steam passage from Florence to Orleans is not much from there to the mouth of the Brassos I came in four days it has been made in less emigration has been stoped ther is a petition sent on to Saltiero the capital of Texas to annul the act the people have the greatest confidence in answer of ther Request and I have no doubt but the law of emigration will be Re established If you could send me a favorable answer I will be able to give you a better discription of the country in the next letter or by next fall if nothing happens more than I expect ther has been talk of war in these parts but I think ther will be nothing of it it was caused by a few troublesome men and some misunderstanding between parties

I would make some enquiry of persons but perhaps it is not Recommendable for me so to do your will give me all the information you can I hope. let me know whether you can come to this country or not and how James and John Pruitt is a comin &c.
if you write to me direct your letters to Brazoria Austin Colony Texas.
a gunsmith of your character would do well here I saw one of your guns in this country one of your thirty five dollar guns She belongs to the nephew of old Brit Bailey I have frequently heard him say that one hundred dollars would not take her ther is a great cry for good guns and gunsmiths

Dear mother i've not forgot you your pious injunction I still remember I still recollect that clouded morn we parted words I could, I could not utter but tears dimmed my sight which feign I could have hid and acted as manly part but my affection was too strong for me to (?) what a solemn day it was for me may I never experience such another Mother what think you of this country fling by pregiduce and come I dont think you would ever Regret your trip as to evry thing but Religion I dont see why we cant serve god hear as well as thare truth is christian society hear is scarce but I think it will alter for the better shortly the catholic Religion will be tolerated then will Christianity bloom and bear in texas the fruit of everlasting blessings the temples of the most high god will be raised and seated on the Rock of Salvation i've saw Methodist preachers hear and heard them preach

Dear father and mother may the showers of the lords blessings attend you in your latter days is the Prayer of your absent son

N B Remember me to my Brothers and Sisters I hope to see them all safe in texas if it is the will of ther parents sweet little Emma and Hannah give them my love Rufus and John my soul respects Cousin Emmaline and Mother, I still Remember with cincerest friendship
Give my compliments to Walter I Respect him

Yours until death

Dear Mother Brothers and sisters I gladly embrace the present opportunity of sending you a few lines I recieved your kind letter on the 4th day of April 1832 dated November 6 1831 which gave me great satisfaction to hear you was all well &c. I am in tolerable health at present hoping these few scrolls may find you all enjoying happiness ther has bin a great deal of sickness the last season colery was very fatal I saw several cases mortality showed in its true colors
I am now living in Brazoria a small town on the Brassos River near twenty miles from the sea coast I have tolerable prospects if I am blessed with health I have ben twice near the grave once with fever and last spring with colera both times I never expected to rise from my bed but it pleased providence to restore me to health praises be his as to the political affairs of this country I know but little. Stephen F. Austin is now in Mexico a trying to get some laws repealed and a State Government perhaps he has already succeeded from his last letter which was favorable this is a fine country give my Respects to my friends if I have any give my love to Aunt Nancy and Cousin Emaline let me know what has become of James Earp if he ever came to this country write more than you did before let me know what has transpired since I left home. Mother I think it is my duty to make one more enquiry I never expect to see you any more I want to know how affairs are with Nancy Payne I cant know by writing to her but I think you are the proper one to let me understand write to me as quick as you can direct your letters as you did before I wrote often and recieved but one letter

I trust we will meet in a mansion above where troubles will cease and trial no longer be.

Your affectionate absent son

Dear parents I Recieved your kind letter dated April 1st which gave me great joy being the 2nd I have Received from your hand I am in tolerable health at present hoping these few lines will find you in prosperity &c You Requested me to be candid in writing about this country as to giving a discription of it I am not capible but what I have saw I can use as much candour as any man. people make fine crops of cotton corn and other produce Stock does extremly well all the trouble &c is to herd them and brand them tha increase much faster than where you live
As to the health of the country parts is healthey and parts is sickly I have lived in the sicklyest part of texas ever since ive bin hear east of this place 30 miles is a creek called Chocolate byou I think to be as healthy as any part of Alabama. it is open to the Sea breese. no swamps nor stagnated water to make it els than healthy
As to the political affairs I no but little Religion is tolerated emigration is allowed and often Repeals too tedious to mention Stephen F. Austin our embassador to Mexico is detained and accused of treason what will be the conciquenes we dont no should tha assassinate him Mexicans and Americans will have to bleed on the plains of texas which I cincerly hope may not be ther troops have bin drove from texas onc and it will never do for Mexicans to tyrantise over a people who has bin Rocked in the cradle of liberty no the people of texas will stand a pillar if shaken not to be Removed from the Sabbine to the Colorado ther is thousands of undaunted spirits

perhaps causes unthusiasm but I speak truth
you spoke something of moving to texas parents if I could perswade you to come to this country as quick as time coud fly I would not do it now i'll use no soft words I would be glad to see you see you in this country doing well.
No country can promis more than this nor fulfill its promis better. you say the boys talks of coming if tha should ther best time to start is in October or december tha should bring a good gun with them and sail for this place if tha come by water which is much more convenient
I expect to Remain in this country for some time yet perhaps for life I did think some time ago to have gone in to Mexico but have declined that Idea. If you can write to me often I am sometimes meloncholly and oft in trouble still my Sun Shines through the clouds of grief and Restores my soul to peace You spoke something of Miss Sary Allen I am cincerly sorry that any misfortune has happened to her. give her my Respects and well wishes it is not in my power to do more the ambisious passions of youth has fled give place to those of Reason and truth were I to draw my own likeness it would be a Sun burnt peasant standing a loof from all Society
I have told you in my other letters that the people of texas was peasible and friendly but within six or eight months tha have not bin so enterly three or four men has bin hanged for killing ther fellow-cretures ther is now a young man condemed to die for killing a man and I Regret to say that I think he will die innocent he was bused and knocked down before he Resisted his opponent. so ses report
Mother I hope to meet you in an assyllum of Rest and happiness where the scene will change for the better no mor but your absent and effctionat son Pleasant M Bull

Dear uncle I recieved your kind letter dated June the 2nd last which gave me great satisfaction to hear of you and friends in good health &c you Requested me to let you know the situation of this country. As Regards the improvement and population it has bin prosperous for two years past. Cotton is cultivated to perfection and yealds abundant at this time hands are picking a hundred pound a day. when its the best time good hands will pick from two to three hundred a day I am now on a farm and has bin for the last twelve months as to political affairs of texas the prospects is dark. the Mexican States now mourn the down fall of ther freedom ther constitution is no more San Ana is declared dictator and has established a central government
Texas stands alone and has not yet acknowledged his power how long it may be so is not known. Soldiers are approaching our border and armed vessels has appeared on our Coast Texas united has nothing to fear from Mexico but alass she is not and I fear she will not until it is too late Some citizens are willing to submit to a militry goverment and all the horrors but the major part I think will oppose San Ana forces when tha appear as to my own sentiments I give them freely was evry man in Texas to submit I would not my interest my life and my all I will Risk before I will submit San Ana has demolished some six or eight of our best inhabitants he has detained Stephen F. Austin for better than two years he has wrote several times that he would start for home in a few days but still he is detained a prisoner in Mexico I think two or three weeks will bring on hostilities perhaps a shorter time God send the threatening cloud may waft away and bring a long Sun Shine of peace

December 24 1835

Dear parents I embrace the opportunity of sending you a few lines hoping they may find you all well I am enjoying good health at present I am just off a campaign against the Mexicans I left home the 26 of September last no doubt you have heard of our difficulties with our brethern the Mexicans. we had a battle on the 28th of October last ther was ninety two men ordered to look out a place for the main army to encamp two miles below Bexar or San Antonio ther was six more and myself that was ordered to take possession of a ruined church near six hundred yards from our camp next morning proved to be very foggy about nine oclock when it cleared away we were cut off from camp by the enemies cavalry who commenced a fire on our post who retired to the main body in camp tho tha soon ceased firing and set on ther horses appearing to wait some event. in about two hours from the top of the church I discovered the infantry forming to make a charge on our camp there appeared to be about two hundred with two field pieces never will I forget the feelings I had for the space of fifteen minutes as in a solid column tha marched up to the charge which tha done in order and opened a heavy fire on our men which lasted near one hour and a half when tha sounded the retreat I then left my position and joined our men in camp I walked over sixteen of the enemy dead we had taken one canon and a number of small arms the only injury we sustained was one man mortally wounded dont suppose we were idle no the next day the Mexicans reported upwards of a hundred loss we had another engagement the enemy lost thirty or forty of ther men a number of mules and horses we had two men slightly wounded which I was one the last engagement was the storming of Bexar we made the attack on the fifth of the month with two hundred and fifteen men we fought five days and nights without intermission on the fifth morning after the attack they hoisted the white flag we took thirty two pieces of canon and about sixteen hundred soldiers out of a fortified town. General Cos ther commander and all of his officers is on parole of honor never to raise arms against Texas again. Remember me to all my friends

your unworthy son
P M Bull

N B we lost in the storming of the town four men and fifteen wounded the enemy one hundred and sixty besides the wounded.

Following are references to the preceding letters which I have made.

BAILEY'S PRAIRIE is a local name for a broad sweep of the Gulf Coastal Plain, below Houston. Here settled J. Brit Bailey who, according to reports, was an eccentric character. He died of cholera in 1832 and is said to have been buried in a standing position, his rifle on his shoulder, and a jug of whiskey at his feet. The site of his grave is lost in a jungle of live oak trees, but even today, Negroes of the vicinity tell of a ghostly light that sometimes flickers and dances around the prairie. They believe it to be the spirit of old Brit guarding his own.

Page 47 THE CHOCOLATE BAYOU, about 33 miles from Houston is said to have been named by Stephen F. Austin when he surveyed his first grant. For a considerable time it was a route for shipping to inland points. South on State Highway 36 is Brazoria, with OLD BRAZORIA being about a half mile to the left on a shell road. It was once an important part of Austin Colony, chosen as a town site about 1826. Named for the Texas river BRAZOS before the Texas Revolution, many leaders in the movement lived there.

The first clash of the Texas struggle occurred October 2 1835 when an assortment of farmers at Gonzales defeated a Mexican force who were sent to take the town's cannon. A volunteer army gathered. They had acquired squirrel guns, hunting knives, butcher knives. Smithwick, a soldier there, wrote, "I cannot remember that there was any distinct undertaking as to the position we were to take toward Mexico. Some were for Independence, some for the Constitution of 1824...and some for anything, just so it was a row. But we were all ready to fight."

On October 9, a force of about 50 Texas volunteers captured the important fort at Goliad and seized $10,000 worth of military supplies. Stephen F. Austin was appointed Commander-In-Chief of the Texas army on October 10, and on the 12th they marched toward San Antonio. Numbering about 700, not even the eloquence of Sam Houston could turn them from their purpose.

Page 49 SAN ANTONIO was besieged by the Texans. On October 28 about 90 men led by James Bowie and James W. Fannin, Jr., defeated about 400 Mexicans who had surrounded them at the old Mission de Concepcion near Bexar. The engagement lasted less than one half hour.

Meantime, a consultation met at San Felipe on November 3 and issued a declaration of causes of war. A provisional government was adopted.

In the United States, young men were reading with interest a poster sent out by Sam Houston: "Volunteers from the United States...will receive liberal bounties of land...come with a good rifle and come soon. Liberty or death! Down with the Usurper!"

Page 49 There was a great frontiersman in the rugged Texas army who heard the soldiers murmuring. At an order to lift the seige of San Antonio, Ben Milam's voice suddenly rang out, "who'll go with Old Ben Milam into San Antonio?" The answer given to him was a Texas classic. They went with Old Ben Milam (he was only 44) into Bexar. On December 9, 1835, they took the city, but Milam had been killed. This historical battle which began December 5 under his leadership brought about the formal surrender of General Martin de Perfecto de Cos.

Early in March the following year (1836) when it was feared that the Mexicans would again invade Texas, Pleasant Bull took leave of his fiance and friends (to settle affairs) and join the Army once again. On the 27th of the month, the Mexicans massacred 371 Texans (including Capt. James Fannin) at Goliad. This incident was undoubtedly a good cover up for the two GOOD SAMARITANS (Col. Hall and Col. Austin) who supposedly found Pleasant on the road near death and they in turn sent him by wagon to his fiance. Minus, of course, his personal belongings and his horse. Less than a month later... Pleasant was dead, Hall and Austin had disappeared (they were not at the battle of San Jacinto) and the Bull family was never able to prove anything. Pleasant Bull will not be recorded in any history books. I feel certain that Hall and Austin were at the bottom of it all. The letters written 20 years later by the girl to whom Pleasant was engaged to marry, gave the details and exposed them for what they were, and the headright and bounty land which Pleasant Bull was to have received fell into the hands of others.

The Bull family heirs did all they could to recover what should have been theirs, but in 1897...over 60 years later, a statement was issued that the Bull family had fraudulently made claims to land for which they had no rights, and the case was closed for all time. (See letter which follows)

The circumstances with which Pleasant Marshall Bull came to his final battle, when the curtain of life came down and he joined his parents "in the mansion above, where troubles ceased and trials were no longer", closed for eternity that he ever lived. Buried at sea in Galveston Bay was a brave and good man, who awaits the Resurrection Day.

Perhaps the pen knife with the name of "Marion Alsbury" on the pearl handle are even today in possession of some descendent of William T. Austin, and it is my hope that these "pieces of history" have become cherished tokens to those in who's hands they have befallen.

Following, is a letter from the State General Land Office; Andrew J. Baker, Commissioner of the General Land Office; M.E. Gross, Chief Clerk.

Austin, Texas Feby, 6, 1897

Hon. W.L. McGaughey,
House of Representatives,
Austin, Texas

Dear Sir: Replying to the enclosed letter from Mr. E.R. Bull, I will inform you that it appears from the records of this office, that Duplicate Certificate No. 30/67, was issued to the heirs of Pleasant M. Bull dec'd by the Commissioner of the General Land Office Aug. 26, 1872, in lieu of original headright certificate No. 253, issued to said heirs by the Board of Land Commissioners of Brazoria County for 1/3 league of land Feb. 1, 1838.

This certificate was located in a survey of 7,992,352 sq vrs in Williamson County, and the survey patented to the heirs of Pleasant Bull dec'd July 26, 1873, but the vouchers upon which the said duplicate certificate was issued being fradulent said duplicate certificate and the patent being issued by virtue thereof, were cancelled Sept. 13, 1882. This duplicate certificate was obtained by one T.E. Tullis upon fradulent evidence, and it appears from the records here that a judgement was rendered by the District Court of Williamson County in a suit institutd in 1880, by the heirs of Bull, in which it was held by the court that the duplicate certificate is a forgery as well as all the conveyances of same. Tullis it seems acted as agent for pretended purchasers of the certificate from the heirs of Bull, and the patent was issued upon his application, but was never delivered by this office to anyone. There is an opinion of the Attorney General dated Jan. 22, 1883 in which he advises against the delivery of said patent in view of the fact that it was obtained upon a certificate issued upon fradulent evidence.

The records also show that a survey of 640 acres was made June 13, 1854 in Denton Coounty by virtue of Poe Certificate No. 271 issued to Pleasant M. Bull by the Adjutant General April 2, 1851, but this survey became forfeited for non return of the warrant by July 29, 1872.

These are the only claims disclosed by the records of this office as having been issued to Pleasant or Pleasant M. Bull.

Very respectfully,
(signed) Andrew J. Baker
Commissioner

Following are the letters which were mentioned above, written by Marion Alsbury which are self-explanatory.

Richmond, Fort Bend Co. Jan^{ry} 28th 1855

Mr. E R Bull

Dear Sir,

Your letter of December 31st came to hand two days ago, the reception of which was quite an agreeable surprise, I should long since have written to you or some one of your Family if I had have known where to write but a short time before your Brother's death he told me that his Parents had moved from Tennessee to Alabama, but did not tell me to what Country and such was the confused state of affairs at the time of his death and for some time after that I never could find any of his papers or letters by which I could learn your addresses.

Your Brother took an active part in all the war here, up to Christmas 1835. New Year 1836 hostilities had ceased to all appearances, and your Brother engaged to oversee for W D C Hall, for the year, but early in March it was ascertained that the Mexicans were invading our Country every man that could leave home went to the Army all four of my brothers went leaving My Mother Sister and Myself in the care of your Brother Who had several other Families in his charge besides a great many negro's belonging to Colonel Hall...Capt. and Major Smith, as General Houston had to retreat before the superior force of the Enemy...he ordered that all the Families should be moved east of the Brazos River, consequently one of my Brothers came home the last of March and took us to Galveston Bay about 50 miles from the Brazos while your Brother freed himself of all incumbrances and started to the Army; in the meantime Col^{n} Hall and Col^{n} William T. Austin were moving their Families to the Bay and on their way they found your Brother very sick. they had him put on a wagon and brought him over to our house, a few days before that he had taken leave of us at the Bay in good health and spirits, when he left us he had his watch a very fine gold one,...a pearl handled dirks-knife...an ivory handled pen knife which I had given him with my name carved on the handle, besides his gun and pistols and breast pin, when they brought him to us he had nothing but one suit of clothes and his pocket-book which was empty, as him and me had been engaged to be married for some time he had given me his watch but as I did not wish our engagement known I had requested him to wear the watch until the fate of the country was decided when we were to be married, and when my Brother asked him how he came to be so destitute, he replied that they (meaning Hall and Austin) had taken his horse and everything he had with him on the road after the Mexicans drove us from the Bay, we got on board of a schooner bound for Galveston-Island, Hall-Austin and Families were on the same boat, it was then and there that I saw Mrs William Austin wearing his watch, it was on the 20th of April that we landed on the Island; it was believed that the Mexicans would take the Island so my Brothers engaged our passage on a boat for New Orleans before we left, your Brother sent word to Colonel William T Austin, to send his watch Austin replied that he would bring them when he came ashore but he did not come, and we started to Orleans on the 21st April, and on the 24th a few minutes before he died he requested me (in the presence of several) to get his watch from Austin and wear it for his sake. I was absent from Texas three years, during that time at my request, my Brother Thomas J Alsbury asked William T Austin for the watch he replied that whenever the estate were administered on that he would produce the articles, and that is the last that I have heard of it. I do not know who got his horse nor do I know how matters stood between him and Hall, who can tell you more about that than I can. It is my belief that your Brother owned a third of a league of land which he got for coming to the Country-and also six hundred and 80 acres he was entitled to for his services in the Army you can ascertain by examineing the records in Brazoria County I think it would be worth your while to come over and make the attempt to recover whatever he had and I will give you all the assistance in my power which will be to write to Hall and Austin on the subject all that I now have which he gave me is a gold ring with his initials in it-a silver pencil and his pocket book which is old and worn out I keep it because it was his, I also have two of his letters and a lock of his hair a part of which I would send you but I would rather hear from you again first, though you are a stranger to me. It would afford me great pleasure to see the Brother of one who was dearer to me than my own life and I assure you for your comfort and your Mother if she lives that all that could be done was done to save him, and to render his last days comfortable and happy, it was eight years after his death before I seen another man that I could love, and I believe that it was a partial resemblance to your Brother that first interested me in his favor, one thing more I will mention to you, when I was first engaged to your Brother he gave me a book entitled Pollach's Course of Time which he said was a gift from his Mother, I lost it together with everything else when the Mexicans run us from the Bay if you will come over I will give you all that were his except his letters and ring I live at Richmond Fort Bend Co please write to me how many brothers and sisters you have, are you married,how old are you, excuse me for being so inquisitive-and write whether you can come over here and when I may look for you My Husband sends his respects to you and will be glad to see you, I have written to you as I would to a Brother-do not fail to answer this and believe me to be your Friend and well wisher.

Marion B. Martin

NOTE: A few years ago, I put out a search for the book which Pleasant was given by his mother and is mentioned in the letter of Marion Alsbury, and located it.
The author, Robert Pollok (1798-1827) was a Scottish poet, born at Muirhouse, Eaglesham, Renfrewshire, studied at Glasgow for the Secession Church, and in 1824-1825 wrote feeble, "Tales of the Covenanters", and in 1827 "The Course of Time", a poetical description of the spiritual life of man. Meantime, seized with consumption, he set out for Italy, but died near Southhampton.

Richmond August 1st 1858

Mr Elisha Bull

Dear Sir, Yours of April 18th came to hand a few weeks ago, Sickness in my Family has prevented my writing to Austin or Hall, my knowledge of them together with circumstances convince me that they would treat my letters as they have treated yours; there are no living witnesses that I know of to their having your Brothers private property in their possession at his death, and even if it could be proven and you were to see them they could very easily make it appear that he was indebted to them as they had considerable dealings with him some time previous to his death. I know of no property of his besides his head-right, that you can get unless it is his donation land, 6 hundred and 40 acres which was due him for his services in the Army in the fall of 1835 at which time he served faithfully and fought Bravely in every engagement between the Texans and Mexicans at San Antonio, he was one of Colonel Milam's Men, to whom the Mexican General Cos, surrendered on the 10th December 1835 after 5 days of hard fighting; two of my Brothers fought with him, one of them is dead and the other is in California but if your Brothers Estate has never been administered on You can get his donation land by coming here where there are a number of Gentlemen who were well acquainted with him in the Army; they can certify to his Identity and the Justness to his claim

You wish to know something about my children their names etc. My three oldest are buried my fourth; George Rhiley is 8 years old goes to school is learning very fast, my 5th Louisa Marion, was 6 years old in May last, She will go to school this fall. My 6th William Erastus, was three years old, last Tuesday the 27th of July, he is a pretty fair sample of Young America. I know of no news that will interest you, only that our Town is still improving the Rail road from Harrisburg to this place has been in operation about three years the Cars come in evry day except Sunday, they are extending the road from here to the Colorado, they are also clearing out the river below here so as to make it Navigable in low water, we have a good Methodist Preacher also a a good Presbeterian Preacher who is Principle of the Accademy here we have the Orders of Free Masons also an Order of Templers and Odd Fellows Mr Martin and myself both belong to the Methodist Church and to the Temple of Honor our Election for State Officers comes on tomorrow and though the electioneering Spirit runs very high here our Elections generally pass off without any fights or fuss, though our Town is on health Location we have had more sickness this year than common on account of the excessive heat, and the abundance of Fruit we are all well at present if you ever come to Richmond inquire for our house as you would for an old acquaintance, we will be glad to see you, Mr Martin unites with me in respects to you, give my respects to your Relatives and believe me Your Friend and well wisher

Jahugh's wife Lula was born without sight in one eye. She was last confined to a wheelchair as the result of a broken hip.

Carrie had lost sight of one eye as a child, having gotten something in it while on a "see saw." She was bedfast for the last 32 years of her life and was attended by her brother-in-law Dr. Roby. Everyone loved Aunt Carrie. She and John always seemed to have a lot of company.
They had purchased land from Carrie's father just north of his place where there was water. They all used the same spring. After she became confined she had a farm bell tied with rope to the handle near her bed. She would string beans, churn, knit, sew and even care for the grandchildren from her bed. They would put her food on the same plate with the children's and she would feed them as she ate.

She probably suffered from a heart condition, since she could have no salt, but she loved her cornbread, and her "pone" was always tasted first to make sure it was without salt.

When the Tories came during the CW and did all of their looting, she managed to recover a silver spoon they had dropped while taking her things. As a final act, although he was advanced in years, they took John's father (Jonathan) and he was never seen again.

JACOB WASHINGTON BULL

Jacob Washington Bull moved from Tennessee to Alabama with his parents and family while still in his teens. He lived most of his life in Marion County and engaged in farming. It was in this locale that the parents of Margaret (Hezekiah and Ezilla Frederick) entered on Jan. 3, 1825, near Bear Creek. They settled where the town of Hackleburg now stands. There was not a town of Bear Creek however until Allen's Factory went broke and stopped running. Jacob helped build the railroad around Bear Creek, after he was married in 1880, and the post office was then changed, thus this city still remains. During the Civil War there were many anxious moments and a constant fear of unfriendly soldiers roaming about. Once the Tories came down the long lane to Jacob's home riding stolen horses and driving stolen cattle. When they saw Jacob's cows coming in for milking, they took them too. They then searched the outside premises, digging up the grave of a pet dog believing that money might be buried there. They took Margaret's petticoat and filled it with sweet potato seed, but on turning aside momentarily, Margaret grabbed it and dumped it onto the floor.

Once during this time, Jacob rode his horse to Florence, Alabama for groceries. He purchased sugar, but on arriving home, found that it had been mixed with so much salt, it had to be thrown out. He, at one time, traveled by horseback toward Atlanta where he purchased seed corn along the path of General Sherman's march to Georgia, and possibly may have been a scout for Sherman at the same time.

Jacob's house was always referred to by the children and grandchildren as the "Home Place". It was probably typical of the times with a spring house, outbuildings, and many comforts. They never owned a clock, and it is doubtful that they owned a cook stove, cooking probably being done on the open hearth. They raised their own food and butchered their own beef for meat, probably hogs too, and perhaps had a smoke house which was common. A favorite drink was made of parched bran sifted from cornmeal and served hot. North on Jacob's land was a place where pottery, earthen churns, and jugs were made. They dug the clay from above his spring. Allen's Factory was the post office in 1850, a small settlement of but a few houses and general store. So named for the Allen's Factory where rope and thread were manufactured. It was run by a water wheel on the creek, the dam base made of logs is still imbedded in the creek. When the railroad came though after 1888, the town name was changed to Bear Creek.

From the 1850 census, Jacob had real estate valued at $200.00. In 1860, the value had increased to $400.00, and his personal property was valued at $1,000.00.

Margaret Frederick Bull was a Baptist, although she had never been baptized, and Jacob was a professed Methodist. Margaret always contended that "a house divided against itself cannot stand", and was probably why the family attended the Old Union Baptist Church located about four miles southeast of Old Factory Church (Methodist) and graveyard, and some five miles east of the homeplace. Later in sight of their home to the north was another church and large cemetery called Mount Home, originally Free Baptist, later Methodist, then Primitive Baptist, and finally Church of Christ. It had also been called Lumbull Church, so named for Columbia Bull, wife of John Jacob (#204)

Jacob W. Bull was a great hunter. He set traps for small game, and often without shoes, he would heat a plank to take with him to stand on and keep his feet warm when the weather was cold. Reports say that he killed 80 deer, five panthers, and 11 bear in one year and even owned a pet bear at one time.

After the death of her husband, Margaret went to visit her daughter Rosamon and other (Frederick) relatives in Texas. Her son, John J., and wife Columbia took her by ox cart some 25 miles to meet the train at Russellville, not realizing she would never return to her native home. She became ill not too long after and as a result of suffering from "dropsy", Margaret died. She is buried next to daughter Mary and Mary's husband John Johnston, in a lovely and serene location where the Bluebonnets grow abundantly. The marker on her grave is inscribed, "God's Finger Touched Her and She Slept".

I really know little about this family as to how they lived, schooling, and various other enterprises. Most of what I have was sent to me by Mary Barnett of Brimingham, Alabama, a granddaughter.

It is known, however, that R.S.S. Bull was a skilled gunsmith, and no doubt probably a farmer as well.

An excerpt from the will of Jesse Beene, Will Book A; Dallas County Alabama (1821-1849) Recorded March 21, 1845, executed May 26, 1845:

"I give and bequeath to my three sons above named a Rifle gun each, of the make of Russell S.S. Bull.... the Rifles, I wish them to keep in good order and condition as long as they shall live and to defend their country with them if required, and when they die to dispose of them to some one of their sons or some member of the family which has descended from me.....
I also bequeath to Jesse Beene Winston, my namesake, son of Maria and William O. a fine rifle gun of the make of Russell S.S. Bull, like those made for my sons, engraven on the box "Jesse Beene to his grandson Jesse Beene Winston....."
Of the eleven children born to Mary and Russell, daughters Mary Isabel died at the age of four and Susannah was twenty eight when she gave birth to stillborn twins just before her death. Three other daughters remained unmarried. Nancy Jane was buried at the City Cemetery near Haleyville and Hannah died in California in a rest home. Her body was cremated and the ashes were sent to Nola Bull at Bear Creek, Alabama to be scattered over the same cemetery.

John Jacob was nearly 12 when he died, his death caused by pneumonia, from going to church barefoot when his sisters objected to him wearing his old shoes with the new suit of clothes which he had on, that was hand spun and hand woven.

The letter which follows was written by the daughter(#214)of R.S.S. Bull to her aunt Rausamond(#141). Fetnah at this time was near 40 years old, and her aunt was 70, both of them spinsters (perhaps they understood each other). Fetnah may have been living at home with her mother who would be 66 at this time; and her father having died. Cousin Caroline mentioned, (#202) and if you recall it was stated that she had been ill 32 years prior to her death. When this letter was written, Caroline continued to live 11 years more.

Fetnah E. Bull

Note: In the upper left-hand corner on this letter is embossed "Columbia". Probably naming the town of Columbia, Alabama although that was a long way from where the Russell Bull family lived.

The following article was sent to me by J.C. Bull of Pauls Valley, Okla. a few years ago. There is no date on it, but it probably came from a paper in Haleyville, Ala. Perhaps the Northwest Alabamian.

FACTORY FALLS NOW IN HISTORIC PAST

The South was recovering from the Civil War and industry had just begun drifting across the Mason-Dixon line when L.M. Allen built Allen's Factory on Bear Creek in 1868.

He came with his new bride from the valley of Russellville to a house situated on the laurel covered hills of Marion County. The house , just above the site of the factory, was built from logs cut from nearby woods and in the style of that day was built with a dog trot down the middle.

The neighbors came and helped erect the house and white washed it with lime, as did many early settlers in lieu of painting in this era.

In the early days of Marion County there were few industries and Allen"s Factory was a real boost to the economy of the county.

It was built on the tumbling waters of Bear Creek and was powered by water. L.M. Allen began the mill on a capital outlay of $20,000...no small amount in these reconstruction days of the south. The mill boasted 640 spindles and employed 30 people.

The factory produced skeins of cotton yarn which was peddled by ox cart all over Alabama. The small mill used 280 bales of cotton annually, which was more than the community of nearby farmers produced.

There was a small swinging bridge built from one side of the falls to the mill site which has only been torn down in recent years when the cables became frayed from too much use.

L.M. Allen married Bertha Jones, daughter of Judge Jones of Florence, and they had two children, a son who died in infancy and a daughter Nellie, who grew up and married James A. Andrews of Florence, whom she met while in college. Their son, L.C. Andrews and his wife Vivian still live on the site where the original house stood.

Ancient oaks rustle in the wind that blows a cooling breeze off the creek, and the scent of mountain laurel and iris makes a heady wine as one makes the trek to the bottom of the gorge.

There the waters of the dam ripple over moss crusted rocks and the feeling of timelessness embraces one, as the birds whistle their mating call here in their wilderness trace.

A love of these ancient times and pride in family history is reflected in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Andrews who are both retired.

A grand piano which was given to her grandmother Bertha Jones, on her 16th birthday dominates the living room of the Andrews home. It is 115 years old and its mellow tones tell their own story of the artists of this day.

Pictures of Mr. Andrews great grandparents on their wedding day are prominent in their key positions over the fireplace. The artist who painted these early likenesses of the couple is celebrated for also having painted the portrait of Lincoln which is displayed in the Capitol Archives in Washington.

The Andrews welcome people from all over the nation who come to visit this historic site. And they say that many lovers of nature come this way during the spring and summer months.

In the spring the mountain laurel makes the mountains pine with its iridescent blosooms and the Sweet Williams and violets vie for their place in the sun.

In the hot summer months the still waters of the creek run deep and the shaded pools have their share of sun perch and crappie who rest on the bottom of the stream.

In the autumn, Indian Summer comes in with its red leaves of maple and the mist of golden rod lies hazy over the land. There is no trace of the bustle that used to run rampant over the hills of Bear Creek when the county was young and Allens Factory was a thriving industrial center.

And there is only peace in the mountains that have seen a thousand seasons.

JOHN WESLEY BULL

J.W. Bull was numbered among the pioneers of Erath Co., dating his residence there from 1859. He spent his childhood at Grainger Co., Tenn. and Marion Co., Ala., attending the common schools and helping his father with the farming. After the death of his father, Mr. Bull was married at Grainger Co. and lived there prior to going back to Ala. and the eventual move westward to Leon Co., Tex. in 1853 with a group consisting of his mother, his expectant wife, 4 children, all under age six and two unmarried sisters,(Rausamond and Hannah) brother Rufus, and youngest sister Mary and husband Jake Underwood, along with 5 of their sons.
As they crossed over the Sabine River into Texas on Nov. 8, 1853 Jane gave birth to her fifth child, a son Solon Bull.

By wagon train they traveled. The trip must have been tiring for Jane and for John's mother, but she was a comfort at the same time to the grandchildren. I believe they had a reason for making this journey. When the family learned that it might be possible to recover the bounty land of son and brother Pleasant, there was no choice to be made. Perhaps his mother was eager to see the "Country" he had written home about, 20 years earlier.

In Leon Co. Mr. Bull owned and farmed 60 acres of land. In 1859 after the death of his mother two years earlier, the move was made to Erath County. The family of children now numbered 9.

On the farm of John Meek, John pre-empted 160 acres of wild land to develop. It was nearby Pony Creek that Mr. Bull built their home, a log cabin located close to a spring and where the family grew.

Three of his children had married by 1872, when the erection of the large stone house began. An Irishman by the name of Pat Gannon, who was a stone mason was the builder, along with John's son Solon, who learned the trade from Pat.

It was a two story house, made of stone dressed on the face side, quarried from a hill about a quarter of a mile away. There was a fireplace at each end of the east and west sides. At the rear, and to the right side was a well, and to the left of that a well house. Further left was the kitchen house also made of stone. The whole of it was enclosed by a rock wall. The front of the house had a porch on one half, and a room on the other half, with a door opening into the main room and also a door into the small room. Likewise at the rear of the house itself was a small porch on the right and a room on the left. Several years later the porches were enclosed to make rooms, and another porch was built on one side with an entrance door.

This must have been a home to please any family. Jane no doubt was happy here, although she missed her father, her sisters and her brothers, back in Tennessee. She too was missed by them as we read the letters her father wrote. I do not know if they owned slaves, some say they did, and others say not. Many of the Bull's did, however.

The date of when the house was built was chiseled on a larger stone, which was fitted into the wall of the chimney, about where the second story started, on March 17, 1872. When the porch was built on the side, the roof almost covered the place where the date had been inscribed, but upon close inspection it could be read easily.

The large log granary, located a short distance from the yard was probably near to full most of the time. Jane possibly had a garden from which she could put away canned fruits and vegetables, and a root cellar to hold some of the things. They raised their own livestock, which served their table well. Southern cookin' was their style, no doubt. Can you imagine the excitement on holidays when the family gathered?

The pre-empton rights were evidently authorized, and one of the last land grants of public land in Erath Co., was made.
It reads in part as follows:
ORMAND I. DAVIS, GOVERNOR OF TEXAS,
grant to John W. Bull in Erath County, on Pony Creek, 13 and one-half miles east of Stephenville, one hundred sixty acres. Following a description of the land the document was dated October 25, 1871 at Austin, Texas; and filed in Stephenville Feb. 8, 1872.
No. 257; Vol 39 John W. Bull, 160 acres.

This house was given an historical marker several years ago. John Bull donated the land for the cemetery nearby, which is referred to by many different names, Bull/Underwood, Pony Creek and possibly even the Seale Cemetery, since it is located on the Seale Ranch (formerly the Underwood Ranch)in Hood,County. To reach it take hwy. 144 going south to where it intersects with hwy. 377, at the red light near the public school grounds in Granbury, Tex. Then take the F M road #51 going west for 15 miles. You will come to a sign which says "Paluxy". Continue for 1 mile and take the gravel road to the right for about 3 miles. Keep to the left, and when you come to a cattle guard you will enter the Seale Ranch pasture. You will pass an old farm house shortly on the left, but stay on the gravel road, until you reach a larger white house with red roof on the left..which is the Seale Ranch Headquarters. Passing further, the White Stone House will be on the left, but a short distance ahead. There a gravel road leads off to it.

Much of this information about the house was written by V.J. Maloney, and also how to reach it. That was 1972, and things may have changed, so make inquiries from the oldtimers.

Mr. Bull who is buried in this old cemetery along with his first two wives, was a respected and public-spirited, progressive citizen. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and politically a Democrat. Although during the war he was exempt from conscription as being one of the persons on the exposed section of a frontier county, he did not hesitate to meet an emergency, if called upon. He was wounded in the thigh at the Battle of Dove Creek while serving with the militia. As he was being carried away for treatment, he was heard to remark "they had an enormous load carrying A BULL".

This story of the Indian Raid as mentioned above was sent to me by Inez Berlier (granddaughter of Daniel Smith) as told to her by her father, (Charles Wesley Smith) having learned it from his grand - father.

"At the settlement of Chalk Mountain, the Indians came on a moonlit night to steal horses and whatever else they could carry away. All the men 16 years or older gathered , and drove them off following them out west to near Big Springs to a creek they called Dove Creek. The Indians got to high ground , with the settlers taking refuge in a plum thicket. One Indian was shot in trying to slip down and steal a horse. With his back broken, laying in the hot sun and bleeding, one of the men dragged him into the shade and tried to give him some water, but he hit them with an arrow shaft. Although weakened he fought on, and spit on anyone who came near. The ensuing battle continued and it was then that John was wounded, a broken thigh from being shot. Night came, and the fighting stopped. The group decided to return home. They made a sling from a blanket tied to two of the riders saddles to carry the wounded man. Two men were sent back to get the under drawers that had been removed from John, joining the others near daylight. They said the Indians had taken the clothing, but it was believed they bedded down instead and didn't go back for them at all."

The white man would often stake a horse to a tree, dig a pit and cover it over so when an Indian tried to steal the horse, he would fall into the pit, and they could dispense with him.

AMELIA LILLIAN BULL (#227)

A mystery is about to unfold. I had all of the children of John Wesley Bull and Jane Easterly for a long time, EXCEPT Amelia. I was told that her father said he would disown her if she married John Smith. He evidently did, for in his family history he named all of the children, but her. Stories came to me through several sources about the death (or murder) of Amelia. Nothing seemed to fit, for each story differed in one way or another. Eventually through Ruth Bull Eagar who told me that Amelia's granddaughter still lived, I contacted Grace Sievers, and she was kind enough to write and give me the story as follows. Nothing was changed other than punctuation for clarity. See also SMITH

March 26, 1983

Dear Lola,

I hope this can help but excuse the writing mistakes.
#1 I don't see much even with transplants, seems like my eyes have always been a lot of trouble, just too big! things fly into them ha! And my right hand has been broken. Very hard to hold a pen...but here we will try.

I expect you know more about the Bulls than me or Pauline (Murl's) girl will ever know.

As you know in every well adjusted family there is a spoiled brat and black sheep...well Grandpa John Smith was both, as you may know...always the Smiths and Bulls were wealthy people and the Smiths I know now are still that way.

John Smith was a handsome man so I was told by his sister in Tex; he had red curly hair...6 ft tall. but he would not work chased women drank and just plain mean. I could never see why good looking Amelia Bull "ever fell for him," but I know he was a con artist, and wanted her 700 acres of land. She was the image of Ethel Bull . So Dad always said Grandma Amelia was strictly a business woman. She was a map maker and surveyor for the State of Texas. They had "her house, a big one that was home but for her work shop she had a log 2-room house out in the woods where she worked on big tables. No one could remember ever seeing her sew, cook or keep house, they had people who did this for them. Dad thought he was born in the log house...her all alone too, and anyway she never left him...he could always remember her holding him as they rode together, and she had a pack horse she led with their supplies. Wherever night over come them, they camped out rain or shine...they be gone for weeks at a time. Well just maybe she was not a house wife, but she was loved by all of John Smith's folks.

Then one day when Dad was close to 5 years old they came home and John Smith and an Indian girl was in her log house in her bed so ingrossed in Sex they did not hear her and Dad come into the house. So she took him (Dad, who was Wesley Smith)and set him on her horse, took her quirt off the saddle horn and went back in. The Indian girl run away, but with Grandma Amelia Honor came before anything else & she cut him to pieces with that leather quirt. Dad said she beat him until he could not walk, and I guess so...for I seen that bloody shirt at his sister Parlee near Leonard, just before we come to Okla in 1915. Also seen the small trunk of clothes that she was taking with her when she was killed.

Now back to when Dad was five years old...he later remembered it all. All my life I have been psychic, and I had seen him cry so many times, missing his mother, I felt so sorry for him...for as long as he lived he missed her...he just worshipped his mother. About the time she beat the water out of Grampa John, a young Mexican came into the country and was staying there working about the place and doing the cooking, he never would leave the farm for anything. He had killed 2 people in old Mexico and he broke out of prison and killed two guards to get out, so he was on the loose. The deal was of course that Grandma and Grandpa never got along after the incident with the Indian girl. Grandma planned to leave and get her brother George Bull and Green Bull (#235) to bring her back to get Daddy. But the Mexican had fallen for Grandma. He should have known not to try anything with her, so she took the quirt to him as well. Then she thought her life was in danger with them both. So she took Dad with her to this little place of Delby, Tex. out on the west side. In those days it was only a stop in the road. But he remembered she took an ax and cut his initials deep into a big oak tree. She stood up on her horse to do it. "M.W.S." He said she always called him Wes. Then she buried their small black iron wash pot, and he remembered she had him walk to the pot west from the tree so many times. And remember I said I had seen him cry so many times from the time I was small... and I always told him, "Daddy, the 2 angels I know will show me where she is." For the very first thing I can remember is 2 angels with their hands on top of my head and telling me "do not be afraid, we will be with you always and lead you." They are with me yet.
Well in March 1911 Delby (west of Leonard about 8 mi. I think) was in need of a wider road and bridge as cars were coming in style then.

Well me and Van (my brother)...he was so small I always had to look after him...we stood by a big oak tree to watch the road building. Dad was running a gin for cotton bailing at that time. I looked up into this big big tree and seen M.W.S. (by this time I was older and reading good). And I heard my Grandma crying in the ground. Somehow I knew it was her. So I went home and told mother "I know where Grandma Amelia is. She was shocked. "Show me," she said. I showed her and she said "go tell your Daddy to come home... let someone else run the gin." Well I went to the gin and he came home. Mother said "she heard your mother crying by the tree," We all went over and then it all came back to him when he was 5 years old. He stepped the ground off several times, and called his uncle Webb Smith who was John Smith's brother.

Well that night they dug, unearthed the black pot and Land documents in glass fruit jars that she had sealed with babbit and lead. The pot had rusted but the lid was still sealed on. They brought the pot home and opened it. There was $1200 silver dollars in it and the 700 acres of land all deeded to Daddy,(but John had made his 2nd wife sign Amelia's name on the deeds and sold it all).

Well, Dr Linus Watkins, son of Aunt Emily Smith Watkins, had Dad put it in the bank ...by his or with his account.

Also in the pot was a small jar of beautiful black beads . Dad said she always wore 2 strands of those beads and often let him play with them while they were out on their survey work. And he said he knew she was dead, as her letter to him had said that she would come back for him if she wasn't killed trying to get away. (MY NOTE: I think that Amelia was enroute to get her brother George and Green Bull).

Well that was on a Friday and Monday A.M. the men were back working so again I was by the big tree early. There were 2 men who had 4 mules hooked to a wide scoop, to scoop up the dirt with. They went down and as they came up with the dirt Grandmas skeleton was sitting on the scoop of dirt, and black beads went everywhere...of course I yelled, "that is my Grandma" as I ran to the men working. Somehow they had tied her long high boots so that her feet were still in them, someone gently lifted her out, and said to me "go get your Daddy quick, and don't tell a soul." I run as fast as I could run to Dad in the gin and told him, "they got Grandma out of the dirt...she is on the scoop. The men said for you to come now." So he did. They found a small bottle still sealed with all those glass beads, the toes of the boots had them, so she must have put the bottle inside of her boot. One thing, she always wore a corset. The staves were rusty, but still there. She had been wrapped in a very heavy Indian blanket, some remains of it were still visible. Daddy cried so hard. By the black beads he knew it was her. Her grandpa had given her the beads when she was 16.

Dr Linus Watkins came from Leonard and took the remains to determine cause of death. The result said "Buried alive." I told Dad I would find who did it, but I know she was stabbed in the neck as I have seen the blood. Up til 1911 I had never seen John Smith, but I told Dad that "a man with red hair, and another man with black hair and short body, and black mustasche, they did it. I'll find them and you can be happy."

Well he got her a nice casket, wrapped her skeleton in yards of ivory white satin, and me and Dad and Dr. Linus Watkins buried her at Leonard, Tex. But Dr. Watkins was afraid it would hurt his practice if they put her name on the stone as no one in Delby knew her then, so they put on the stone, "A Woman, Name Unknown." But I told Dad, "well the angels knows her name, God and you now know no where she is.

The years passed. Every time I was home I told Dad I would find the man who stabbed her in the neck. In 1926 my first husband and I had moved to Meadow, Tex. and John Smiths sister Emily Smith Watkins had lost her husband (from old age) and she had broken her leg, so we lived in her big house, and I took care of her. Every month she sent me to the P.O. to get $50.00 money orders. The next day she would have me go mail it to Alurez, in Mexico City. I asked her once "why do you send those people money every month?" She said, because they are poor.

One day, she said "someone is at the door." I opened it and there he was...I said, "so it's you, so it's you." I knew it was the man who had stabbed my Grandma, so I said "sit down."
I went outside, bolted the screen and got my two edge butcher knife, slipped it to his side, grabbed his hair, and I told him "you no good...you killed my Grandma. I know how you did it, but you tell Aunt Emily here how you did it or you won't have no head. Get talking Now." He said that Grandpa John made him stab her and she fought like a lion. They had already dug the hole off the road and knew she would have to pass it, to leave. He said no way could they get her boots or corset off. So they undid her long black hair and put an Indian wool shawl and blanket over her head, and he added that she was the only woman he had ever loved, but she beat him to a pulp for telling her that. He said he was sorry, but John said that if he did not, he would call the Mexican government to come get him and he knew they would kill him. Well, I told him to go and "don't let me see you black mailing my Aunt Emily again."

When he was gone, I took a back route out of Meadow and called Dr. Homer Watkins in Lubbock, Tex. and told him to get his bro Walter Watkins and their attorney to come that night the back way, that their mother was in great danger, and they came. She had a trunk full of money orders that he had got off of her, and she told her sons she was so afraid of him, and what he had done in Old Mexico. Well, that night, the three went and got him. The dr. gave him a knock out shot and they took him to the prison where he had shot the 2 guards. They told them what he had done in the USA. They put him in front of a firing squad the next a.m. (2 shots to the heart, 2 shots to the head.)

Now to get the other murderer John Smith. I had aunt Emily's son Walt Watkins to call my Dad, and my Dad came to Lubbock. He found out the details. So he went to Dallas, looked up his Dad...who was drunk in park. Dad gave him a good beating, made him admit everything then threw him off the bridge into the river in the park. Someone fished him out, for he lived for years after that, but knew nothing. No, I have no regrets of sending them both to their punishment for my Dad went through a living hell for years because of them and their meanness.

So if the Bulls are left who always wondered about Amelia, now they do know.

Love to all,

Grace Sievers

ELISHA RUFUS BULL

Elisha Rufus Bull was my Great grandfather. I know little about his childhood. He was born in Grainger Co., Tenn. and moved with his parents at about the age of six to Ala. At the age of thirty in 1850 he was still living in Ala. although I did not find him on the census, only his mother and two unmarried sisters. Three of his brothers were also still in Ala. at Marion County. I believe he went with the other family members in 1853 when they made the move to Texas by wagon train, primarily hoping to see what could be done regarding the estate of brother Pleasant Marshall.

I regret that my mother told me stories of her grandfather Elisha, but I was too young to care, or remember. The family traveled around a lot for each of their children were born in different areas of Tex. He was a farmer most of his life, and in 1898 before statehood came he moved the family to Okla.

In search of land that had water, Elisha found a man in trouble by the name of Hamilton who owned a water right but he had killed another rancher named Cooper, and had been sentenced to the penitentiary. Elisha bought the water right and moved about 1900. At that time it was Day Co. having been formed from the Cheyenne-Arapahoe Lands in 1892. When Okla. became a state his sons filed on the land to make it their own. They received a patent as follows: NE quarter of the SE quarter of section 7; the W half of SW quarter of Section 8; and NW quarter of the NW quarter of section 17...all in Twp. 16; N of Range 24 west of Indian Meridian in Okla. containing 160 acres.The creek which runs through this property was named Bull Creek. On Apr. 13, 1907 the Heirs of Elisha Bull acquired the land, and the Patent Record at that time was signed by the President Theodore Roosevelt. It was later bought by Elisha's son James G. from his brothers and sisters, the remaining heirs.

Elisha died on the farm , to be followed in death 2 years later of Adeline. She was one of 9 children having 4 sisters and four brothers, loved by all and a woman of great faith. As with many families, times were hard for them, and without their confirmed religious beliefs, life would have had little meaning.

Elisha was a devout Methodist. They attended the Camp meetings, an important part of their lives, which were social gatherings at the same time. Often, families traveled great distances to gather in the open country or sheltered groves to hear the Gospel preached by the Circuit Rider. Dressed in their finest, and carrying their Bibles, it was a time of getting together...the women to gossip, and catch up on the news of other family members and friends from whom they had been separated. The men discussed politics, the crops they had raised, and the marketing of these products.

The "Blood and Thunder" preaching at the revival echoed for miles. Morning and evening services were held at the gatherings, which lasted all day, and often for several days. There were box suppers and bazaars, much like our county fairs in recent years (minus the religious atmosphere). Many a romance bloomed and blossomed at these gatherings. Men and women listened to sermons from separate benches, and were expounded on the moral standards of the day. The preachers were well meaning, but many were uneducated, even possibly illiterate, but one thing was certain. They knew the Bible. Elisha knew his Bible well, and he lived it. It was said that he had read the entire book through many times in his life, from beginning to end. As the head of such a large family, perhaps intolerable at times, he demanded respect and discipline, including that all were to be at the table at mealtime, and not a fork raised until the blessing was recited. Silence was often observed so that those present could concentrate on the evils of the world, and the works of the devil. Prayers were said upon retiring each night.
The story has been told that in his latter years, often confined to his chair, he would sit near the open door (there were no screens then) and with fly swatter in hand would knock a fly to the floor to be gobbled up by a pet chicken that followed him about. He would promise his girls a yard of new muslin if they could find a fly in the house. He never paid off for he drove a hard bargain, and a deadly aim.

Although Elisha was 18 years older than his wife, she might even have lived beyond the two years after he died, but she somehow got a splinter in her foot, and died of blood poisoning. They now rest "near the bend of the river"in the cemetery near Crawford, Okla.

Elisha evidently had asked Sarah Thompson to marry him from the letters which follow. I believe she was the Sarah who married Elisha's cousin John Bull #154

JULY the 2nd 1848

Rufus I have received your letter and It seems that you think it folly to write to me for this reason that I will not answer you. In the first place I will tell you the reason I did not answer your letter. I was informed immediately after I received yours that you had written two other letters on the same subject to two other girls and I think I am enough acquainted with human nature to know that you could not be sincere In every case and I thought probably I was one with whom you were jesting as you never mentioned anything of the kind when you were in my company. This the reason and as to laughing and making sport over your letter I never did It and I have It yet in my possession and I never looked upon you as described in your letter I would just tell you In a word that I am above that you wrong me in writing to me as you have you dont know me far be It for me to sport with honest hearts or fond intentions and I hope you are honest for this reason that I would not write to any other than an honest hearted man If I knew it and with this belief I will speak open and plain to you I had little idea when you were in this Country that I occupied a place In your affections and I had No idea that you would think anything more about me on this subject at least but as you have expressed yourself as you have I feel in duty bound to write you my feelings as near as I can now.

Rufus I am not acquainted with you consider all these things and you will at once see that I am placed In an embarrassed position on taking the whole In to consideration I cannot make you any promises though you were to come to this country not but what I would be glad to see you and your friends would be exceedingly I know for they very often speak of you and their love for you but I would not that you should put yourself to any trouble on my account for no consideration without there was some probability of affecting by It I will do it candid with you on this subject write to me if you should get this letter or I will not know whether you have received It or not write how you are all getting along as it regards your health and particularly if you intend coming In this fall I will now close but not without making one request I would not that you should entirely forget the girl who is bidding you an affectionate adieu

I only ask to be remembered
Oh remember the girl whose mind has oft traced
In the mirror of fancy your form and your face
Though rudely between us the proud waters swell
Still remember the girl who now bids you farewell
When your hand shall be pressed by the one you adore
When your memory revisits the scenes your hand passed O'er
When sorrow and trouble your bosom shall swell
Then remember the girl who now bids you farewell

S.J. Thompson

Please to correct all the errors which I have made for I have written this at intervals when I would steal from the busy bustle of life

Addressed to Mt. Hope, Ala. from Pikeville, Ala
Sabbath Morning 19 July (no year)

Elisha R Bull as you seem anxious for me to write you I take up the present time in doing so and I would gladly tell you the reason why I have not written before this time (were it not for the feeling of friends)I have had my feelings injured not a little but enough of this...after expressing your gratitude at the reception of the letter you received you then stated that you would be glad to see me...Well Rufus...if I were to judge from what you wrote to your cousins according to the best views I have of things I would say that you were not anxious you say that you would come to this Country but the people would say that you come to see Sarah and for that reason you would not come, they knowing that I had received many fond letters, they are few and far between that knows much on that subject in this part of the world I assure you...your own dear friends are nearly all that know anything about it you seem to be ashamed for persons to know that you are paying your respects to Sarah you need not fear anything you come to Tennessee before my eyes ever looked upon you and dont give me that as a reason why you cannot come and see your friends...You need not think that I will make sport of you or laugh as you hinted...why should I there are no reasons or grounds for laughing and I hope I am higher minded than that and if you never come do as you said before live as happy as you can and I will try to do do so too and I will try not to mar your peace further for I have no joy in doing so if I know it or secret happiness and why do you talk so you have no grounds for talking in this manner remember

My pen is black my pen is steel
My heart is hard but it can feel

And now Rufus let me talk plain and candid to you for I have never talked otherwise (as you have bourn witness) I have been a close observer from your first letter I own to the one that is now before me and if I was to do my best I could not say that you were sincere somehow the way you express yourself always has a tendency to make me doubt this I cannot help but my unbelief in this matter cannot affect your sincerity If you were sincere you say you never attempted anything but innocent affection for me and that you think more of me now than heretofore and give the reasons why...that you find me honest and true ...I can account for that...the sentiments you hinted at you would like to hear explained I did not say that I was sorry the why and wherefor is not necessary to give as the matter stands but I would like if you know the whole matter as It has been and as It is now but I have not time and I feel a delicasy on the Subject anyhow...but I will tell you this much I am free any and all engagements and you are the only one I hold correspondence at this time be you assured of that and when I cease to write to you I feel that I have written to the last one of your sex and I am now seated away from the house under a large apple tree which the late storm has blown up from the roots and its boughs and beautiful branches are thrown prostrate on the ground there to wither and die..Emblem of my future earthly prospects but

Why mourn over blighted prospects now
The lost O! why deplore
For if our hopes are all oer thrown
Earth bliss is born to die
Then do leisure prospects mourn
JOY LIVES ON HIGH ON HIGH
Oh there no mournful changes come
Unknown chill sorrows night
There fadeless flowers undying bloom
THAT KNOWS NO MORTAL BLIGHT
Here storms and tempest toss and rend
My weary struggling bark
And toils and troubles without end
ARE FELT UPON MY HEART be it so

You sent me a lock of your hair as a keepsake...It shall be for one...it is so much like you I shall not forget you.

Years days and months have passed by
Since first I gazed upon thee
But when the lock of hair I saw
Each feature come to memory
Fond memory now still firmly holds
Thine Image in its silent cell
And back my mind is swiftly bourn
On memorys page I dwell
Fond memory can I now forget
Its closely woven ties
For it is memorys tide that murmurs sweet
And brings such melodies

Rufus you said you would hang your harp (did she mean heart?) on the willow tree but I will hang mine on this withering tree

And here I will sit while it gives shade
And think of one whose words to me are like arrows he has made
I want you to pardon my scribbling if you please I would have done better situations and circumstances were against me .

adieu

Elisha R. Bull Elam Spring October 3rd 1848

Before I say anything at all I will first ask your pardon for not answering your letter sooner It is not for want of respect toward you that you have not heard from me before this time but circumstances have been such that it is not convenient but now I have just seated myself for the purpose of conversing with you by letter I received yours about four weeks after It was mailed your Cousins Adeline and Hannah brought It to me and I could not help feeling glad when I looked and saw who it was from I immediately sat down read and laughed and was sorry at the same time because you said you could not come to Tennessee while I remained single...now I intend to punish you for that assertion for you will never get to see any of your cousins without they go to you for it is not my notion to change my name and if It was I would put it off just as long as possible because you are mean and I live in hope that you will never get to see Nancy's letter because she would not let me read it for I read yours to her as you requested and relative to the letters you wrote to me about .. I am perfectly satisfied on that subject...I believe for what cause It was told me there were some suspicions about you relative to when you were here so I was informed...but it is all nonsense.

Rufus Rufus
I have been a little funny in the above lines but I must now talk serious to you the subject of which we have been conversing upon is one of Grand importance and It ought to be one of the best considered acts of Life as It is a lifetime business and involves the happiness or misery of the parties concerned for life therefore allow me to say to you that I have well considered the subject and what I have said is not the Impulse of a moment but from calm survey of my own feelings taking into consideration everything my conscience tells It will not do...I could say many things to you and keep you in suspense but I disdain to trifle with an honest heart and I write to you believing that I am addressing a man that has a soul what I mean by this Is a gentleman In the fullest sense of the word you say that you will still remember me

O am I still remembered
Remembered too by thee
And do you still think of the girl
Who lives in Tennessee

Rufus I will keep your letters as I have done as a memento of you not but what I could remember you without them but I prefer keeping them I stop I pause must I bid you farewell forever I must I must be it so we part forever let the past as nothing be

Adieu Adieu Adieu

This next letter was written to Elisha R. Bull (# 143) by his cousins, the daughters of #65. The one enclosed with it and decorated with hearts and poetry is really something. Handwritten in ink and beautiful penmanship. You will note that these girls were married not too long after and even Sarah J. Thompson married shortly. She said she wasn't going to change her name, and from the deep love she seemed to have for Elisha...she got the BULL name after all by being wed to John Bull.

February 24th 1849

My dear and ever affectionate cousin I am very sorry to hear you are so lonesome In consequence of the marriages that have taken place but exceedingly glad to hear that during the time you enjoyed yourself finaly and I can readily account for that when you tell me you were In attendance with a lady of fine taste and not only so but you liked her very well and that you Intended to know whether she likes you or not I expect she loves you so I dont doubt it for a moment but that ought not make you think that Sarah is obstinate I think that Sarah dealt honestly with you I dont think she would do any other I gave her the note you sent her and she said she was sorry and when she thought that the son of man was betrayed It gave her some consolation but to return Oh dear Cousin dont take on so about your sister and brother and go to bed and take your rest and try to dream of Rebecca every night and my word for It you will be a happier man do write to me quick and tell me how you and Rebecca made It you say she dont use deceit she has some respect for you and I just know she has for it is common in all Countries for the girls to love the boys but do you be enough for her Talking to her and tell her you love her like Thunder but she will blush and tell you she dont believe It after a while and if you will be right smart you will steal her affections for I have known many a pretty girls affection stolen and the thief go unpunished all their lives and you need fear no danger Crockett like go Ahead Ahead but Rufus you talk so curious about marrying sometimes you say one thing about It and then you talk differently do talk to us seriously about It and tell us if you ever intend to marry I think you are odd sure enough and if you intend to come and see us anymore you know not the fun we could have tell Cousin Russell and wife and Cousin Mary and husband that I wish them more joy than I could write down In a week or month and I hope they may live long in the world and finally live In heaven together where I hope to be permitted to live with them forever tell Cousin Rosa to pardon me for not writing to tell her I love her none the less and she has not written to me tell her I begin to want to hear of her marrying I often think of the many pleasant hours we have spent together and O how sweet is the memory of it to me still but the thought that It will never return creates an ache ing void the world can never fill tell Aunt fetnah if I never see her on earth I hope to meet her In heaven give all my best and warmest love and tell Cousin Jacob to come see us again he may find another Eliza for ought we know and now I must give you news about Cousin Elijah he was married the 15 of this month to Mary Thompson a sister to Caroline Morris also a cousin to Sarah she has three children her youngest is quite small we were all at the wedding as you may suppose they look quite happy indeed and I doubt It not but we are all single yet the boys plays about here strong I tell you on sundays and some looks serious mind I tell you and I must close by saying that we are all your affectionate Cousins

The marriage of Mahala Bull to John Perry was performed at her home by Uncle "John Cox." John had just returned from Texas where he had been working with Rufe and Aut Cate and his brother Tom Perry. He met "Jennie" while visiting his grandparents THOMAS AND REBECCA (LAWRENCE) CATE, and his uncle George Cate and family. They were married six weeks after John returned. Following the wedding they went down to Mt. Harmony, his old home to visit relatives, and then on to Texas. They were there for about 3 years, but due to the climate, the doctors advised them to return to Tenn. as Jennie had had several attacks of malaria. They lived for a time with Grandpa Bull (Elijah), then moved to John's old home place in Knox Co. Later his brother Will Perry bought a farm on the Holston River(they were living here when the bridge was built over the Holston on the old Strawberry Plains Pike), Jennie cooked for some of the men who built the bridge and Lionel, Vera and Edith were the first to cross over on it...the engineer took them.) It was at this place where Lionel, Vera, Edith, and Lawrence were born. From here Jennie and John moved to Knoxville, then to Mr. Camp's place at the edge of town. John's cousin Bob Cate had a distillery and farm on the Rutledge Pike at the foot of Black Oak Ridge. The family moved there and farmed this place until about 1906, when they bought a place on the ridge above the farm. Here they stayed until 1925, selling out and moving to town (Knoxville). The following August John Perry was hit by a car and died. Three of the boys then married and two lived in Florida. Vera and Edith bought a farm in 1931 in Sullivan Co. Jennie and Mary went to live where Mary now resides. Lionel later came from Florida and has 30 acres of the original 60. He lives just across the field from Mary. Jennie was buried at Mt. Harmony with her husband John. In 1963 Vera, Edith and Mary were still in Bristol, but Mary is now alone there since the death of her sisters. Lionel lived in Bristol in 1963, Clyde lived in Knoxville, with Robert, and Lawrence and families were in Tampa, Florida.

NOTE: I think Perry, Pryor, Mary Catherine (who m Wm. Cannon Williams, or Mary who m Professor W.S. Bryan, b 1857 and who was the principal of Dumplin H.S.), Manerva, and William B. Cate were children of Madison Cate and great grandchildren of Joshua Cate. Someone may be able to clear this up.

270 Vincent Bull

Mary Perry said he probably had a son. They lived in Washington or Oregon and Vincent was drowned in the Columbia River. As a young man, Vincent was allowed more freedom than the other children of Elijah. When his name was mentioned, someone would say, "Vincent got in with the wrong crowd." He drank himself to death. Lawrence Perry father of Mary) always said that Elijah was too easy on him, and being a child of his old age, he overlooked much..until it was too late.

271 Samuel Phelps Bull, b 18 Nov. 1877; d 28 Feb. 1881
This child only lived 3 years He was probably named for his uncle Phelps Read, brother of his mother who died in prison during the Civil War and is buried at Annapolis, Md. He was a 1st Lt. in the 75th Tenn. Regiment (Confederate). His sister Mahala loved this little boy a great deal, he died before she left home, and it was her job to take care of him. He is bur at Oakland M.E. Church graveyard beside Mary Read Thompson Bull and her infant son Noah W. Bull.

Mary Adeline Read - William G. Thompson
Knoxville Register; Knoxville, Tenn. November 4, 1840
Wm. G. Thompson married to Miss Mary Adeline Read
October 22, 1840

Mary Read was the daughter of George Gideon Read and Charlotte Jarnagin Read. Both her parents died before 1840. Her father Gideon, in his will: "To my beloved sister Adeline Riggs, unto whose care I recommend all my daughters." He willed "To my daughter Mary Adeline one feather bed and furniture; 1 colt worth $75.00 and money enough to furnish her with a new saddle, bridleand blanket, and a bureau of the same value as Caroline (her sister) to be given her by my executors. Also, he states that when his youngest child (Sidney Jane) has reached the age of 18 years, his property was to be divided among his children. Sidney died at the age of 15 on July 18, 1847 and the settlement of the estate was made in 1850-53.

This will signed Sept. 24, 1837 and recorded Nov. 10, 1837. From Grainger Co. Court House; record book no. 1; page 272.

William G. Thompson died sometime around 1848-49.

Children of William Thompson and Mary Read (Bull)

1 William Gideon Thompson, was in the Civil War, and never returned Kettie Bull Watson said that she remembers the widow of William Thompson coming to visit her father (Elijah Bull); and that this lady had married again and would bring her children and spend several days. She would sit and visit with Elijah and always called him "Pa". This distressed Kettie, she just couldn't figure out how this lady could call her father "Pa". She said they would talk and talk about the war , and both would cry. Kettie said when they started to cry, she would pick up her dolls and go up to Old Grandma Bulls house to stay with her and Aunt "Hale" and Aunt "Liz".

2 John Thompson, married Susan (Mollie) Cate, the (sister of William B. Cate who married Addie #262). Susan, b 30 Jan. 1855. It seems that John and Mollie were the first to move west, then her brothers Rufe and Aut, and cousins John and Tom Perry.
Mollie's brother and John Thompson's half sister Addie Bull Cate soon joined them. John Perry returned from Tennesse and married "Jennie" (Mahala Jane Bull) who was also a half sister of John Thompson. Then they too went to Texas, but returned about 1884. John and Mollie Thompson, had four children: Lena, Lettis, Guy, and Grace. I don't know who they married.

3 Sarah Thompson, (sister to William and John) was a great singer! She was a very bright, capable and impulsive girl. She must have caused many disquieting moments in the household of Elijah Bull. Besides being a great singer, she was also a great "speller." No one could spell her down. The Bull children and Sarah attended school at Cate's Cross Road's school house. It was a log house, with open fireplace that burned great logs, and there were places in the logs for windows with shutters to close when it rained. It was here that a most amusing incident occured. The story is told that one day at school Sarah asked the teacher if she might go home. She was just bored with school, but said she was sick. Given permission to go, she gathered her books, put on her wraps and left the school room. Sarah was soon forgotten and the spelling class was called. It was not long when a very difficult word was given out. The word went up and down the line, and the entire class failed. But in the ominous silence which followed, in a loud voice under the schoolhouse, Sarah Thompson spelled the word!

She fell in love with a Mr. Stuart. About all that was remembered about him was that he had been a "soldier", and that her stepfather Elijah Bull, did not approve of him. But Sarah laid her plans and with the help of her half-sister Addie, she ignored her stepfather's advice. "Twas on a beautiful moonlit night, Mr. Stuart came to the orchard (just across the road from the house) and whistled for her. He of course was horseback and brought along a horse for her. Sarah and her Mr. Stuart then rode to the nearest minister and were married.

At that time, it was Sarah and Addie's job to prepare breakfast for the family. Addie had cried all night, and when Elijah Bull called several times for the girls to come get breakfast, and no one came, he climbed the stairs to their room. He found Addie sobbing and Sarah gone. Elijah was very hurt over this. Sarah and her husband lived in Virginia.

Children of Elizabeth and John Trotter

1 Lemuel B. Trotter, m MADGE. They were from Byington, Tenn.

Mary Perry said they always called them Uncle Lem and Aunt Madge, as he was more like an uncle to them than the real uncles. "We saw them more often and they visited us several times a year. Aunt Madge had been married to a doctor in St. Louis, I believe. So she had some money and they bought a clothing store on Gay St. in Knoxville. They had a lovely home over on Hill St. My mother and I would visit her, and spend the day. She had an electric automobile, two seater, and would take us back up town in style. They later moved to the country near Farragut school. Aunt Madge had the most beautiful china, and said she would will me some cups and saucers, but I never got them. "

2 Adelia Trotter, m Melvin Elijah Bull (see page 83)

3 Amos Trotter, m GRACE. They lived in Chicago.

ELIJAH BULL

Elijah Bull received his education at John Ward's school house and was converted at Read's Meetin' House (Methodist). (This church was founded and was built by Phelps Read, the grandfather of Elijah's 2nd wife.) He was teaching school at the time of the death of his first wife a year after they married and their son followed her in death 3 months later. He said his only worldly possessions at that time were his clothes and a few books. He also farmed, and in the fall of the year he would hire on as a drover to drive stock. From the rich farm lands of East Tennessee and Kentucky to Charleston, S. C. they drove hogs, cattle and sheep. Great droves of hogs and cattle were driven via Bean's Station, crossing the Holston river to Cheeks Crossroads, just east of Morristown, over to the French Broad river, up the French Broad gorge and over the mountains to the Carolinas. (Read" The French Broad", by Wilma Dykeman.) They were paid so much for each day on the drive. Elijah was a great walker and could be home two days earlier than the other drovers. He said he had plowed the fields where the present Morristown now stands.

After his second marriage, they bought a farm about 5 miles southwest of Jefferson City at the foot of Bay's Mountain. In 1853 the estate of Gideon Read (Mary's father) was settled and they received a few hundred dollars which helped greatly in buying the place at Bay's Mtn.

They lived here during the years of the Civil War with Elijah's mother Lydia, and his two sisters Elizabeth and Mahala lived with them. Elijah worked at the Federal Salt Peter Works at Mossy Creek in Jefferson City. Here in the Oakland Community their home was near an old log school house, and across the road was the Oakland M.E. Church.

It is believed that Elijah's brother Elisha lived in Grainger Co., but little else is known about him other than tradition that "they were high livers, and even had a barrel of brown sugar in their cellar.

Aunt Sallie (Elijah's sister Sarah Bull) and her husband Harmon Cox remained in the area, and they are both buried at Wesley's Chapel. We know nothing more on their line. They probably had children, but I don't know who they were.

During the Civil War Elijah had a busy time. It is doubtful that any school was held. Stock had to be hidden and brought out by night to be watered. In their home they had a false wall to one of the rooms, and behind it they stored the flour and meat and other provisions. Sometimes it was Confederate troops roaming the countryside, and other times the foraging parties of the Union Army. Aunt Hale once forgot and left the bars down to the woodland where the stock was hidden. Confederate soldiers saw this, and going to investigate they drove off all the stock. In the group was a beautiful little mare, highly prized by Mary Read Bull. Another time the Confederate soldiers came and one of them went to a bureau drawer and picked up her watch...she demanded that he put it back in the drawer and he obeyed. Jennie (Mahala Bull Perry) said that she remembered one time when the Union troops came and asked for food. She said the officer in charge picked her up, and she being only 3 years old, was so taken by the shiny buttons on his uniform that he cut one off and gave it to her.

After the war Elijah and his family moved to Dumplin Valley, buying a 180 acre farm, located partly in Sevier Co. and partly in Jefferson Co. The county dividing line ran through and between the house and barn. It was a log house already on the place, where they lived, but in the 1870's Elijah built the new house just across the road. Then on the hill above, he built a house for his mother and sisters Aunt Hale and Aunt Liz. Not a day passed that he did not go to see them and to see if they needed anything. The farm produced enough food for the large family of children and step-children. He paid his hands in meat, flour and meal.

This large two-story white house was a beautiful home. A rock fence enclosed the front yard, and to the southeast was a garden. Flowers and vegetables grew side by side. A large silver leaf maple grew at the side of the rock fence to the left of the front gate. One summer day following a heavy rain, one of the girls had a young man call on her, and while putting his horse to the hitching post, he stuck the end of his riding switch...which he had broken from a limb as he rode along...into the soft ground just inside the rock fence. It sprouted and grew to be a lovely tree.

Just back of the house was a large spring, bubbling out of the limestone rocks. Here the girls practiced their spelling and studied their Sunday school lessons, while they churned and molded the butter. Washing of clothes was done here at the big spring under the shade of cedar trees, where soap was also made, and where the kettle and tubs were kept ready. It is without a doubt that the girls who went west with their husbands and families must have had many homesick days when they thought of the home they had left behind. The big spring, the large comfortable rooms, plenty of food, milk and butter, and the smokehouse full of bacon and hams. A security they did not find on the frontiers of the west.

Elijah was known as one of the most honest and respected men in his community, and as a successful farmer and provider of such a large family. Besides his mother and two sisters, there were the three Thompson step-children, seven of his own children by his second wife, three children by his third wife, plus the other three children belonging to his third wife...making a total of 21 persons including himself and wife...all living under the same roof more or less. Quite an assortment of families. But they lived in harmony and got along well together. He sent them all to school, what schools were available...Oakland, Cate's Crossroads school house, and Dumplin. Some of the younger children attended Carson-Newman in Jefferson City and New Market. When his daughters married he gave them each $50, a lot of money in that day and time.

After Elijah's son-in-law Dr. Watson, bought the homeplace later, Kettie's mother Lydia went to live with her and the doctor in west Tennessee, after which nephews Lemuel and Buford rented the place and lived there many years. Then it was rented to Amos Underwood who later bought it.

The following story was told that bears repeating. Elijah Bull had a very fine horse, but it had one fault. It would not work double. Needing one that would work double, he decided to sell it and buy one that did. A man came by and purchased the horse. paying a good price for it. Elijah kept quiet while making the sale, never mentioning that the horse would not work double. That night he didn't sleep, and the following morning he saddled his horse and went directly to the man's house, whereupon he explained and attempted to return the money, saying he had sold the horse under false pretense, and adding "I was not honest with you." The new owner assured him that it was all right, that the horse suited him fine, for he only wanted a horse that worked single.

A devout Christian, Elijah lived his beliefs day by day. In a time when there was strict denominalization, and living in the Dumplin Community under the shadow of the Old Dumplin Baptist Church (he was a Methodist), it was a severe blow that about half of his children upon reaching adulthood, became Baptists, although he always forgave them. When his daughter Addie joined with the Baptists, they sent word to Elijah to come and see her baptized. His only reply was, "I have already seen her baptized."

It was said that he would always stop his work. put on his black coat and walk through the fields to attend morning services, but would never sit up front with the Baptist bretheren, because he didn't think it was right when he did not believe as they did. Though he was often invited to sit with them, he always refused. However he was always asked to lead in the prayer, and this he never refused. Prayer must have been the secret of his life, for the fruit of the Spirit was so evident...love, joy, peace,longsuffering, faith, gentleness, meekness and temperance. He was a Godly man, with high standards and righteous principals. It is just as well that he did not live to see the desecration of the Sabbath, and the lawlessness and disregard so prevalent of these times. In his day were the things he held so dear as coming from the hand of the Almighty, and they were RIGHT. To those descendants of his they can be proud of their ancestor.

Below is a letter written to John Wesley Bull and Jane Easterly by Elijah Bull. John and Elijah were cousins. (see #142)

Morristown Tennessee September th 29 1846

Dear Cousin

I embrace the present opportunity of writing to you a few lines to inform you of my situation at present first informing you of our health we all enjoy tolerable good health at present except Sarah she has been tolerable low with the fever she has been confined to her bed over two weeks but is now on the mend Dear Cousin i did not writ to you concerning my marriage as free and extensive as i mite have don and perhaps not as much as was my duty to do Cousin if I did wrong in not writing to you more than I did forgive me dear cousins Jane & John dont slite me and Susannah for i can truly say that when you (missing word on a fold) to you bouth cousins i yet love you but i dont feel that strong christian affection for you i wonce did are at least it dont seame to me that i do but dont think that you are the accashion of it for i dont feel that love towards my christian friends as I wonce did but Oh Jane could I but see you happy in love of god you and Susannah as i wonce saw you bought at Sulphur Springs campground on thursday evning in 1844 and feel as i did at that time my soul would be glad for I loved God and people better then than I do now I dont enjoy religion now as i wonce did yet I feal that i want to enjoy religion I know I would see more satisfaction than I do though as much as I complain Som times the name of Jesus I love and feal a desier yet to serve the lord Som times I crave very much to be more enlightened and to be more strengthened in the truth and the knowledg of the truth as it is in the lord cousins Strive to grow in grace and in the knowledg of the truth as it is in the lord I still live at my Mothers and Susannah at her fathers we expected to move this fall and very likely will move as quich as we can cousin John when you writ to me I want you to take time and write much tell all a bout how you are giting along and whether you are settel are not and cousin Jane I want you to write for we have bin together and converst (words on a fold) I would be glad to see you again I want to see you both We all would be glad to see you Nothing more at present

But remaining your friend

FAMILY HISTORY BY JANNIE A. BULL MINTON KENNEDY
OCTOBER 24, 1968

Shared by her daughter Mary Minton Bennett

My father's name was Russell Valentine Bull. They called him TINE. Mother's name was Sarah E. Jones. Papa was born in Alabama, Mother was born in Missouri. Both sides of the family had been here for many years. Papa was English, and Mama was mostly Pennsylvania Dutch.

They had never lived in Ochiltree Co. until we moved there, to find "living" water to water stock as Stock farming was Papa's living. Neither parent homesteaded in Ochiltree Co. They bought the land from Diedricks I am sure. D.C. Kettle was living on it.

My parents died in New Mexico, father in 1912 and mother in 1940. They sold the place at Ochiltree in about 1908 to Montgomery, after father had added more land to the original purchase. I was married by then, Martha was about three years old, but Mama and Papa moved to New Mexico from there. I was twelve when we moved to Ochiltree, coming up late in August of 1898. We stayed looking the country over four or five days until September 3rd. There was a hard frost, and we left the same day to return to Stephens Co. to bring back our things. I was the oldest of the three girls.

Jannie A. born June 19, 1886; Mary C. born May 10, 1891; Salla C. born January 30, 1896. I'm not sure if Salla's birthday is 30th or 31st, but one day makes no difference. We were all born in Stephens Co.

Papa had talked to people about places to buy, so we went to Ochiltree instead of another direction, starting out to what is now Dumas in Hansford Co. where Ann lives now. There was no water and people didn't have the equipment to dig wells 300 ft. deep. We couldn't get living water. They had wells, but they were a lot of trouble. In Stephens Co. we lived on Hubbard Creek, and in Ochiltree on Wolf Creek.

The only horses we had were the three we brought pulling the covered wagon, the rest had been sold in Stephens. Our new home was a half dug-out and half log house joined together. After we got there Papa built a long room joining the dug-out,then partitioned the one room. While doing so, we lived in the dug-out and the covered wagon. We used the two rooms adjoining the dug-out for storage, and here we stayed a year or so, while Papa built the frame house.

For fuel we used cow chips and what wood we found on the Creek which had dried and broken off. We got the water from Wolf Creek, carried by bucket, and were able to water the stock from the Creek. Papa bought two different places...the O.J. Randolph place which had a little half dug-out on it of two rooms, and which joined the land we had. He ended up with a section or perhaps a bit more. Our supplies were gotten from Canadian (about 40 mi.) and from Lipscomb, using the team and wagon that we had moved in. Our neighbors were the Kelly', Barton's, Bell, and Fryer families. Dr. J.J. Davis was our doctor in Lipscomb, although Dr. Newman practiced there too he attended none of our family, and later moved to Shattuck.

Besides the three horses we had when we moved, we brought with us a black cat near seventeen years old, that was later killed by coyotes.On the way to Ochiltree we found a chicken who wandered into camp, and he became a pet to us. We felt bad when an owl got him.

We didn't raise any feed for the stock; we bought cake. It was made of cottonseed and came in huge slabs of various sizes, maybe 2 by 3 ft. You had to chop it with an axe, which barely made a dent in it, to feed it to the cattle, who did a lot of chewing to soften it before they could swallow it. We had native grass, but no way of cutting it to put up hay, so we alternated the pastures and turned the cattle on good pasture for winter forage.

The Wolf Creek School was two or three miles from the farm. We took a horse and buggy, tie him up after feeding him, then untie him and ride home from school I started the 9th grade there, going to school from 1898 to the spring of 1903. A.S. Parrish was the teacher that year. He owned cattle, and when the bad storm hit that year, school closed so he could take care of his stock. Although it was early in the year school never opened for the remainder at all. Church was held in the school, a non denomination service. The preacher (I can't recall his name) rode with Dr. Beardsley, who was from St. Louis and come in the summer and stay several days for health reasons, and who drove a tiny pair of sorrell mules to church. Our social activities were Sunday school meetings, singings, and basket dinners. We also square danced in the area and had plum pickings and horse racing, which we loved. We ran ponies, some with blood of the Indian pony that were bay in color of a red-grey. We didn't have rodeos much, just the singing and prayer meetings and the all day dinners. People would take food and stay all day, coming in covered wagon with a team. There were few buggies. Albert had one and I think Dee and Ethel Eubanks. Most all families hunted some, mostly men and boys, for hawks, rabbits and coyotes. No big game, but we had antelope in our pasture, and never killed them. We didn't have sheep. The women had a lot of quiltings to keep everyone covered. A protracted meeting is like a revival, where everyone goes and stays at camp.

I recall some of the things we brought with us from Stephens Co. The pots and pans, clothing, bedding and some chairs. Papa made me a little chair the day after I was born and we took that with a small rocker we had bought. I don't remember any straight chairs. We also brought Mama's sewing machine, a New Brunswick.

Also the pump organ and a writing desk. The weather was bad when we left and it took 9 days to travel loaded, and we had our first real hard freeze. We girls slept in the wagon and Mama and Papa slept under tarps beneath the wagon. Meals were made in the cast iron dutch oven, the biscuits especially, and Mama also had a skillet. We sold the land at Stephens and the stock to William H. Green, who was not as hindered about the water problem, for he had a lot of land adjoining our place and could move cattle to other water sources.

In Ochiltree Papa had about a section, maybe more which included the Randolph place and where D.C. Kettle lived. When we first arrived, we had only boxes and stools that Papa made from wood bought in Canadian. On our first trip to Ochiltree we went through Lubbock to Amarillo. Judge Beale there wanted Papa to buy 3 sections, and it could have been a real fine place, but it had a water tank dependant on rain fall, and there were no water pumps then, and a only a few windmills which were expensive. Papa bought 14 head of cattle and one red road bull. Cattle were mostly Durham mix with whiteface Hereford.

I married Albert J. Minton, November 22, 1903, in the middle room which was the bedroom of the 3 room house.He was from Kansas City Missouri and was living in the county visiting his sister Mrs. Eubanks who lived near Wolf Creek School. Two of the Eubank boys (nephews to Mr. Eubanks) named Dee and Hank were also going to school there. All three of our children were born in Lipscomb. We moved there about 1908 when Albert went into the drug store business, buying out Dr. Guthrie. The store contained a fountain. Just prior to this Albert was ranching in Lipscomb Co.
Papa had a brand for cattle "rx" written in longhand. About 1903 I had a "U" inserted with a small size capital A:
Albert's brand was the same with an inverted "U".
We used these brands only a short while, we didn't have many cattle.

I searched several records and places to see if I could learn the cause of the early death of Evard Bull (#333), son of Solon. In correspondence with Mrs. J.F. Reeves (Emma Barrett) who has done a book on the Keahey family, I mentioned it to her. Her reply came to me as follows:

"My family pioneered around Pampa, close to Amarillo, Tex. In my early childhood (I'd guess about 1910) I recall a tragic happening in the Bull family. On Christmas eve a bunch of young cowboys came to town, got drunk and nearly broke up the Christmas tree. The next morning as Mother was fixing breakfast we children observed something in a snow fence corner across the road from our house. My father was Dr. A.E. Barrett and he found a young man who had been shot and was unconscious from loss of blood and exposure. The Sloans lived across the street and down about a block, but that block was their fenced cow pasture. The two girls slept downstairs and they were awakened during the night by someone trying to break in. Mr. Sloan called out and warned that he'd shoot if the intruder didn't go away. Evidently the boy was crazy drunk and paid no attention to the warning. Mr. Sloan did shoot through the door, and didn't know until we found the boy, that he had hit him. It was easy to trace him all over that end of town by his blood on the snow.

The boy was brought into the house and after some time we found out his name was Bull. His mother and sister came (I think from Lefors) and they were lovely people. The boy died about nightfall. There may be an old newspaper account telling more about this, and where he was buried."

Ruth Eager of Cottonwood, Ariz. called me recently, and I mentioned this story to her. She was a cousin to Evard (their father's were brothers), and she said it was a correct story from Mrs. Reeves.

S.A. BULL KNEW PIONEER FIGURES OF THE PAST INCLUDING BILLY DIXON, BAT MASTERSON, TEMPLE HOUSTON... AND ATE WITH BILLY THE KID

(By Arthur C. Johnson)

Out of the past, riding the wings of memory, limmed against the purple hues of a western sunset, pass in review the rugged figures of pioneer days, as S.A.Bull of Dalhart, recounts stirring events of their careers. Echoes can be heard from the distant thunder of myriad buffalo hoofs, cattle lowing on the plains, and the savage war cry of the vanishing American.

Billy Dixon, Bat Masterson, Pat Garrett, Billy the Kid, Temple Houston, Jim East, Cabe Willingham, Col. Goodnight, O.H. Nelson, and other heroic figures , step forth through the curtains of time and ride again as they once did in the wildneress.

When the battle of Adobe Walls was fought in Hutchinson Co., not far from Dalhart, June 27 1874, S.A. Bull was over on the Washita river in the Indian Territory helping to trail a herd of cattle from Erath Co., Tex. into northern New Mexico. Continuing north they struck the Arkansas river at Hutchinson, Kan. and followed it into Colorado and on to a location near Dawson, N.M.

Dixon, Masterson and others joined them at Dodge City and went with them. They had fought at Adobe Walls. It was Dixon himself who told of the famous Indian battle, and how he had shot the Indian leader and discouraged his followers. In 1878 while passing through Tacosa S.A.Bull had supper with Billy the Kid, famous killer, who also happened to be passing through. "I didn't think much of him," Mr. Bull said "he wasn't so smart looking."

He was also acquainted with Pat Garrett, John Poe, Charles Sirringo, W.T. Hughes, Jim East, Tom Emery and others known for their courage and skill in gun-play and who were selected by Littlefield, Goodnight and Crisswell, the cattlemen to stop the depridations of "The Kid" among their herds. After eight months of pursuit these men effected his capture, after which he escaped from jail killing two guards. Pat Garrett took to the trail that ended in death for the famous outlaw.

In 1879 Mr. Bull worked for Col. Goodnight for a time, and for several years traded horses and bringing them into the Panhandle form settlements on the Brazos river. In 1893 he bought a herd of 1,000 horses through and selected ranch quarters south of Dumas where he remained until about 1903, where he then went to a ranch on the Las Animas river east of Trinidad, Colo. A few years later he moved over on the Beaver river in Cimarron Co., Okla. and was running several thousand head when the bad winter of 1911-12 hit. He said it was the worst winter he had ever seen, the temperature reached 33 degrees below zero at Hurley, a short distance north of Boise City, and the climax came with the awful blizzard on Feb. 25 bringing death to cattle in unnumbered thousands.

Mr. Bull was born in 1853. Although the snows of 77 years have come and gone, he is a familiar figure as he moves about the streets of Dallas, visiting his many friends who enjoy the stories and anecdotes of the pioneer generation that rapidly passed.

Written about 1932.

SOLON A. BULL, OLD-TIME CATTLEMAN AND BELOVED CHARACTER, PASSES TO HIS REWARD

By Ethel Orford, Jester Okla. (niece of S.A.Bull)

Part of Dalhart left the Panhandle Plains of Texas July 10, 1932, with the leaving of Solon A. Bull. The picturesque old cowboy passed away at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, bound for the last roundup around the Crystal Throne. Like scores of other leavetakings, dating back much longer than most of his old cronies could remember, perhaps, when the trail herds had milled nervously, the grand old man went away with a smile on his lips and a song in his heart.

Telephones bore the message of his departure from county to county. Boss or waddie, it mattered not, out on the ranges, forked ponies and were gone over the hills seeking the others, that they might come to Dalhart to pay their last respects. It was just another round-up, but this time no one was laughing, no rivalry with lariat and saddle pony. Instead a note of sadness showed on the faces as they gathered with heads bowed to pay a final tribute to the noble old pioneer and builder of the West.

Hero of Indian battles, center of some of the historical highlights in Texas cattle history, Mr. Bull was a rare sort of character. Though he had risen from cowboy to ranch owner, from a babe in a prairie schooner to a man of power and influence, he embodied the spirit of the old west, the open-hearted generosity of the cowboy, the pungent, the striking language of the range rider, the fearlessness of the old Indian fighter that he was. He had his views, and he spoke them. Unremittingly he labored for his favorites without thought of reward. He gave instinctively to those less fortunate. For friendship there were no lengths to which he would not go.

A Man Among Men

As the day opened in Dalhart, the old man with cane in hand, started his rounds, and his old bronzed face, surmounted by his Stetson, would wrinkle into s smile as he greeted his many friends along the way, "Good morning, good morning," came the southern drawl. Then he'd crack a joke or two, and was off to another place.

His shoulders began to stoop a little in his declining years, but he carried his 79 summers well. His eyes were bright with an unquenchable fire. Life never ceased to interest him. He always lived in the future. What younger men were doing, he was doing too. He joined in politics with enthusiasm, where his power and influence were felt. Friday, the day he took ill, he was up at 6.30 and down town, campaigning for some of his favorites in the coming Democratic primaries. That day he was busy, up and down stairs, checking this one and that one. That evening he felt badly; that night he became worse. Saturday noon his condition was critical. Heart disease claimed him at last.

John and Jane Bull, parents of Solon A. Bull, emigrated from Alabama to Texas in 1853. They came in a prairie schooner. Just as they crossed the Sabine river from Louisiana on Nov. 8, 1853, Solon was born. He was the fourth of 10 children. His father settled in Erath Co. engaging in farming and stock raising. At 21 years of age, Solon made his first trip to the Texas Panhandle, trailing a herd of cattle to southwestern Colorado. Back he came through northeastern New Mexico and the Panhandle, tarrying about six months, working on ranches.

In 1876 he was united in matrimony with Delia Tandy, at Glenrose, Texas. Shortly afterward he located temporarily in old Clarendon, but worked on the range in Red River Valley, New Mexico.

Large ranches were being established then on the north and south plains of Texas. Demand for cow ponies was increasing. Annually for some years Mr. Bull supplied this demand, making his home in Young Co. from 1885 to 1893. As more ranches were established and demand grew, he finally bought the famous Figure 2 herd from John Reynolds in Shackleford Co., and moved them to Moore Co. in the summer of 1893 where he lived until 1901.

In this Figure 2 herd was some exceptional blooded stock, with strains of the Arabian. The Figure 2 horses were fleet, sure-footed, small and wiry, just what cowboys needed for round-ups and cutting work. Mr. Bull kept from 1,500 to 2,000 brood mares on his Moore Co. range, which included parts of Hensford and Hutchinson Counties. The territory was all unfenced. Cowboys traveled for miles to get a Figure 2 horse.

Moore Co., originated shortly before 1893, was like other sections near the notorious Oklahoma strip, infested with bad men. Mr. Bull was drafted to tame them. He did, in two terms as Sherriff. Another time he served as Commissioner. He and Col. Goodnight were old cronies, buddies on the range together. Mr. Bull helped him establish and protmote Goodnight Academy, at the town of Goodnight. All of Mr. Bull's children were educated there. The academy was a junior college, and the only one in the entire section of the country. Marshall McEllhaney, its first president, was an outstanding character. He rounded the students in like the cowhands rounded their herds. He was an accomplished educator, and a learned man.

Mrs. Bull's health weakened in 1901. Her husband had disposed of his Moore Co. holdings, and they went to southeastern Colorado for her health. There he found mostly irrigated farming and raising of alfalfa for a time. But the smell of the branding shute, the tang of the dust-filled prairie air, raised by the thundering hooves of cattle, remained dear to him, and about 1906 he took charge of and operated the Company M Ranch in Cimarron Co., Oklahoma.
With advancing years he disposed of his larger holdings, but continued as a stock farmer, until he retired in 1934 and moved to Dalhart. He had however, maintained a home there for 18 years, which he visited frequently.

Among his other countless experiences, the merest mention of which would form a volume, was that of knowing John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln. History students will remember how the possee trailed the actor, and how it burned a house in which a man had been seen entering it, and how later, proof was established almost beyond a doubt, that Booth had lived to die a natural death. Mr. Bull knew him in Oklahoma.

Three of his children preceded him in death. Surviving him besides his wife are two daughters; Mrs. R.M. Henry and Mrs. Frank M. Tatum of Dalhart; a son L.D. Bull of Canyon and seven grandchildren; also two brothers, Jake Bull of Lipscomb, Tex. and George Bull of Jester, Okla. A son, Cave was killed several years ago on a tractor near Dallas.

The old-timers will miss him, perhaps more than the scores of younger men who knew him intimately in Dalhart. Those who bore him to his last resting place, who on other occasions had shared his blankets on the range under the stars, were chosen from this group. They were W.E. Jarrett, W.O. Culbertson, W.E. Farwell, R.C. Johnson, D.F. Cessnum and Joe Langhorne.

They later moved to Lipscomb Co., Tex. where Jake operated a farm and ranch known as the Bates Ranch, south of Lipscomb. I believe it was owned by his son-in-law Arch Merriam. Regarded as one of the early frontier type citizens who helped to develop the western country, Jake had borne many hardships, but was always ready to assist his friends in any way to further growth and development. He was a life long friend of Temple Houston, then prosecuting attorney of Day Co., Okla. who resided in Woodward.

Dear little girl I hardly know how to answer such a letter as I got from you last evening for I dont know that I fully comprehend its meaning I was glad never the less to receive it I am sorry to hear of Bob Howells misfortune and sorry to hear that stock and crops were doing so badly and still more sorry to hear of so much sickness

As to Mr Lige Taylors abuse I suppose he gave us that only in imagination There is one or two questions will ask first why you write so coldly Second what makes you think I will not come back for I certainly will go back if I live. Miss Nettie I traded for the very pony for my little dark eyed girl to ride it is the best traveler I have ever seen Shal I bring it or not tell me is Lute K and the Brunson boys going west or not is Bob Combs ready to go yet what has become of Miss Freeman
I am riding broncos some and horse hunting I am going south on a hunt next week Nettie dont wait so long before answering this letter for I had thought well my little girl has forgotten or has ceased to care
I must close for I have no more to write that would interest you at all and I guess this will be dull to you
So no more at present from yours devotedly J.E. Bull

on the back of the letter:
Your presence bright shall be my shrine

Mother Dear:

I will drop you a line, I suppose Aunt Alice will forward it to you. We surely are haveing dreadful hot weather and it rains all around us and it doesn't reach here. We still haven't had the thrashers. I think they will be here Monday.
Archie stayed until Monday morning, and I got their breakfast early and sent them on.
Saturday afternoon Brad took Burle and I to visit Wards. Of all welcomes I ever received, I think I was most welcome there. Mr. Ward kissed me like I was his own child. Bradford went across the river to see the Wallaces, so Grady was a happy boy to go along. They are all coming to see us when Archie is here again on Saturday & Sunday. The old place is just like it always was only older and more worn. When we went to the ship to see Brad and Grady off, just whom should be our audience but old "High Walck" and Paul Sanford. Of all wrecks our old place is the worst. The little old apple trees have not grown very much.
Lizzie and Jake brought Hollie home on Sunday afternoon. I think Lizzie is a Comly girl. Poor grandmother tortures them like she does us. Grandpa took Bob and family down there and will give Bob what he makes on the place so Lizzie said.
I've had a letter or two from Millie. She stood the trip fine and is feeling better. That shows that everything is in her mind. I think she was just scared here, and the hot weather too made her worse.

I want you to be sure and find out what a furnished five room bungalo would cost in El Paso. I am so tired of Mildred just dragging along like she does. I know if I was with her I'd see that she gave herself a chance to get well. I think a change there (or some place) would be good for Lela and espcially Son, and maybe she would get well enough to marry that boy. He has already postponed the wedding. Of all the problems and tortures she is it but I am willing to worry thru a year to help her get well. I don't think she is very enthusiastic about me going it would keep her from dances and interfere with her pleasure too much, but if Archie will let me I'll take the children and go and get them in school and make her get well if there is such a possibility. I imagine it would cut our expenses a lot too, especially if I could lease our home. So mother if Lizzie knows anything about rents, find out, or write to some real estate man in my name and address and tell them what I want. I am sure she can offer some help.
We have been putting the pet turkey to roost at the hen house but he will not stay out with them in the day time or eat with them. We have about 24 little_____out of two settings. Some of the eggs haven't hatched, I think I shall throw them away.
Oil is going down every day. I know Archie is awfully blue and heart-sick. He and Fred Garrison are getting some leases out here at McLane (McLean).
Mother there isn't any need of you rushing thru your trip. Let me know if you need any money and I will send you some. The wheat is sold and dad can get it for me. So go on and enjoy yourself.
Ethel Parker has gone away from Los Angeles.
Love to all, and hoping you have a good time.
As ever

I believe I was named after Lola Bull Rorabaugh. I have a picture of her when she was young, and she was a beautiful lady. She was the last time I saw her too, when she and daughter Maxine visited us about 10 years ago. Maxine is a lovely person. I wish we had been able to know each other more through the years. I have a letter that Lola wrote to my mother in Dec. 1969, where she told of the 2 oil wells that had been located on their ground. She said, "They claim it is shallow ground, and won't last long, but it will be good while it lasts." I have often wondered how well they produced, for there was never better people that should deserve something out of life, and my mother was very fond of Lola and Lewis. I have many nice letters from her after my mother passed away.

My father filed on the land, on which we lived (180 acres). My grandmothers, Francis Boykin Bull, and Arminda Shockley Haston each filed on 90 acres across Elm river from his farm. Uncle Star (Z.A. Haston) had the farm north of us. Cotton was the staple then and I guess it still is.

Our farm was far enough out of Mangum, Okla. that it took us almost all day to drive there with our team and wagon. We would stay all night at the hotel and drive back the next day. I saw my first Oleander bush in bloom in a tub in the lobby of the hotel, and my thoughts return to my childhood when I see one now.

Most of the cotton was taken to a gin at Reed to be baled, but some was taken to Vinson across the river, and southwest from the farm. Reed was southeast and about half way to Mangum.

I once had a picture of about 6 bales of cotton (500 lb. each) brought back to be sold later when prices were up. It was dry enough out in the open (uncovered), but far enough from the house not to be a fire hazard, should lightning strike.

They had 2 cultivators to till the soil and keep it moist so the soil would not blow away. Daddy drove one of the teams, and mother usually drove the other. Quails built there nests under cotton plants, and Daddy was always sure not to disturb their nest.

Field crops such as corn, maize, feterita and hay were grown to feed the horses. An early garden gave us a few vegetables, but they didn't last very long, since only about 15 inches of rain fell there yearly.

Milking time interested me and my sister so much that we would sit on the calf shed while Daddy milked the cows. We then took the milk back to the house so mother could strain it and run it through the separator to separate the cream from the milk. It was then hung down in the cistern to cool.

Daddy wanted to be sure we had a good education, since he had only had about a 4th grade one. He bought a house in east Mangum across the railroad when I was 7 years old, and Grandma Haston stayed with us during school time, and we went home for holidays and summers for a couple of years.

Then Daddy realized he was getting older, for he was 48 when I was born, and he felt he needed lighter work. He applied to deliver mail on a Star Route from Mangum through Reed to Vinson. He was accepted, and mother then learned to drive a car as she knew she would have to pick him up in the event of car trouble. Once he thought he was about to go over a steep bank, so he turned the car to go over it straight, but he never got a scratch, only a shattered windshield.

The postmaster at Vinson would let him go home early when bad storms were coming from the west, so he could beat the storm to Mangum. Then he bought a feed store in town after his time on the route expired, and they ran that for many years. In season, they bought turkeys, hired pickers and sold the birds to markets in larger cities. Last, they put in some groceries in the front of the store, for sale on a small scale. Mother worked on it after Daddy passed away.

I had always assumed I would go on to college to major in mathematics, which I did and received a B.A. degree. Somehow, along the way I took an interest in botany. After teaching one year at Hester Okla. High School, I had a scholarship in botany, so went back to the University of Okla. and earned an MS degree in botany. I was interested in flowering plants, and wrote my thesis on those of Greer Co.

I taught mathematics 34.625 years for retirement in W. Va., and taught at Morris Harvey College for 1 year, plus the 1 year in Okla. and two years on O.U. for masters. I have worked the past 9 years for H & R Block in Summersville during the tax season.

Rotha lived near the school complex until she retired, then after the death of her husband she did some traveling, going to Europe in 1973. One of her sons was a forest Ranger and the other one was a doctor.

Marvin Easley was the retired superintendant of schools at Weatherford, Okla. when he died. He received a B.S. degree from Southwestern State College in 1932, and an M.Ed from Okla. University in 1937. Mr. Easley had taught at Prarieview School, was high school principal at Bessie, the superintendant at Liberty Center Schools, and Berlin Schools and was a Capt. in the Army Air Corps during World War II. A graduate of Snyder High School at the Indiahoma area in 1925, he moved to Weatherford in 1965 serving there until 1975 when he retired.

Marvin enjoyed photography, sports, and quail hunting as his hobbies, and was active in many civic and professional organizations. A member of the Rotary Club, The State Curriculum Commission, the OEA Legislative committee, and as chairman of the Task Force, worked to draft a new finance bill for Oklahoma schools. He was a member of the Western Star Lodge No. 138 of the A.F.& A.M.

In addition, Mr. Easley served on the First United Methodist Church of Weatherford official board and was the president of the Methodist Men of Weatherford. He received many awards and was honored at numerous banquets when he retired. The Easley's were outstanding citizens, who celebrated their Golden Anniversary before his death. He is buried at Greenwood Cem. in Weatherford.

Through the past several years I have kept in contact with Ona, and she has been instrumental in giving me a lot of family history to pass down. She too had many hobbies, not the least of which was china painting. I have a picture she sent showing some of her work, and it is beautiful. She and Marvin quit farming in 1977 after the last wheat crop was harvested, and rented it out. It was about 85 miles from where they lived in town . They had a farm sale of all the farming equipment, and most other household items. The old two story farm house originally belonged to her step-father (and uncle, Jake Bull). Ona taught school 31 years, and her sister Zada taught about 20 years. Ona's daughter is also a teacher (music).

Marvin did the farming of wheat at the farm until it was sold. They had a lovely 3 bedroom home at Weatherford, and it became too much after his retirement to keep up two places. They had 2 oil wells on the grassland at the farm, but I don't know if they were producers or not. I thought they were.

JAMES GAN BULL
By Ona Easley (1974)

Saliney Belle Underwood and James Gan Bull grew up in the neighborhood of Chalk Mountain, Paluxy, Grandbury, Morgan Mill, and Dublin, Texas. The most often mentioned families were Keahey, Underwood and Bull. Several of the family members intermarried as they grew up. There were 9 children in my mother's family, and 11 in my father's family.

Their childhood homes were furnished with home- made tables, cupboards and quilt boxes plus most other household items. Everyone had feather beds or shuck beds. The feathers came from their own flocks of geese. chickens or ducks, and the shucks from the corn. Each fall when the corn was gethered and shucked, the tickings were refilled, giving them a fresh new bed. They had wood burning stoves for cooking and wood burning fireplaces for heat. The lights were kerosene lamps with wicks and globes. Their clothing was hand made, from the cotton that was picked and the seed then picked out of the fiber, then the cotton was spun into thread on a spinning wheel, woven on a loom and dyed. The dyes came from berries, pecan hulls and other plants. My grandmother gave me her spinning wheel, but I was unable to bring it home at the time and I never learned what became of it.

On wash day the soiled clothes were all gathered up and taken to a spring at the creek, where there was a big black kettle or pot to heat water in, and a flat stump. Also a board that they called a battling stick. They made their own lye soap, and then soaped the wet clothes, placed one garment at a time on the stump and batted (or hit) with the flat board (battling stick), which helped to remove the dirt. The white clothes were always boiled in the large pot that was heated by burning wood around and under it. When the wash was finished, things were spread on bushes to dry, then folded and carried back to the house. Ironing was no easy task with the big heavy irons, made with handles on them that had to be heated on the wood burning cook stove.

The women made beautiful patch work quilts. I have three that were made by my mother before she married, and one that Grandmother Underwood made and one made by Grandmother Bull. My grandmothers pieced the quilt tops, and my mother quilted them.

The fences were mostly rock or rail fences, some of them still standing. When my parents were growing up, they either walked or went by horse back to church, parties, picnics and other gatherings. The girls rode side saddle. My sister had the old side saddle of our mother's.

My parents were married May 21, 1895 in the evening at home. They had what they called an Infare (much like a chivaree as some of the generation who followed theirs called it), which was a celebration that lasted three days. Friends and families attended. Mother made her wedding dress and hat, all by hand. Although they could buy material when she married, it was when she was small that grandmother Underwood made the material.

After my oldest brother died at death, and the two smaller children came along that mother brought them to Day Co., Okla. in the Indian Territory. Zada was not a year old yet, but my father was already in Oklahoma some time before mother went with the children.

Pressure to open the Territory to farms increased until at noon April 22, 1889 the area became open to settlement. This was the first "Oklahoma Run". As I remember it, none of the Bull family made the Run, but came soon after, seeking free range for their cattle. Grandma and Grandpa Bull, with Aunt Rosamond who lived with them, my father's brother Uncle "Ance", Uncle Ran, Uncle Luther, Uncle Jake, my father Jim, and Aunt Mary and Uncle Henry Keahey. They settled close together at first , and later sold their holdings and moved away. I think my father bought Grandpa Bull's place, but as to all of the transactions, I don't know.

I was born Dec. 4, 1905. A mid-wife (Aunt Mary Flewelling?) delivered me while they were gone for the doctor, and from that time on as long as she lived "Aunt Mary" called me her baby, although she was no relation, just a good neighbor.

We lived in a 2 room house, a short distance from where the two story farm house now stands. It was built in 1909, but has been completely modernized. It was first plumbed and wired for modern conveniences in 1926. The same bath tub, lavitory and stool are still there. New sinks and kitchen cabinets were put in in 1946.

Although it was about 2 and a half miles to school, we walked the entire school term, of five or six months. One teacher taught grades one through eight, and the children carried the water in a bucket. We all drank from the same tin cup. There were two outdoor toilets, one for the boys and one for the girls, locate about a half city block from the school itself, and were the only other buildings on the school ground.

We had spelling bees, box suppers, literary, public Christmas Trees. The stage curtains were sheets put on wires. I remember how embarrassed and yet how thrilled I was when I was to say speeches and be in dialogues. But I got to wear my new big bows of ribbons and my best dress. On very bad days they would come to the school after us in the wagon, and sometimes in a sleigh when there was a lot of snow. Several teachers roomed and boarded at our house until a family who lived nearer to the school could keep them.

The doctor was the only person who had a car. When some of the neighbors were sick, and the doctor came to see them, we children would run as hard as we could go, to see the car pass a half mile from our house. My brother and sister made me stay inside the fence so the car wouldn't run over me.

We all worked in the fields as soon as spring came, and until fall when the crops were harvested. Then school changed from the one-room to consolidated. We had to go away to school, since there were no high schools near. I was very homesick at first and always looked forward to going back home to be with my mother. It wasn't always easy to find the money for us to go to away to school.

I met Marvin when we were both in college at Weatherford. I taught school 31 years, and Marvin was in school work for 44 years. Our only child Marvona has her masters degree and teaches music . She attended college at Oklahoma City University, where she met her husband who is a lawyer and was admitted to the bar in 1973. He is with the I.R.S.

After Jake's death she married OLIVER BLURTON, b 2 Oct. 1873

Written to me in 1973 by A.D. Bull (step-son)
"Uncle Jake's marriage to mother was a very long time ago, about 2 or 3 years after father's death. The three of us kids were home. We had a Buick and when the top was down it was rather arish, and mother and Uncle Jake would peek around the side of the windshield. One day they drove away to Cheyenne and came back to tell us they had just gotten married. We were all furious, but I guess it was a blessing in disguise, because if it hadn't happened I guess I never would have gone to college." Actually, it was only about 7 months after A.D.'s father died that his mother married Jake Bull.

WILLIAM GARRARD BULL

When he was first married he lived across the road from his father Elijah. They later bought a place about a half mile on the road that leads to Mutton Hollow. Here the children grew up, and attended school at Dumplin and at Chillhowie Academy. Uncle Billy (says Mary Perry) then bought some fine stud horses, and his father signed a note to help him purchase them. Someone in the neighborhood set the barn on fire and the horses were destroyed. To pay off the note, his father Elijah had to mortgage his farm, and he died heavily in debt. The mortgage was finally paid off by Dr. Watson, Kettie Bull's husband. The farm homeplace was in their possession until sometime in the 1930's. Billy moved his family to Black Oak Ridge in Knox County and after living there for 2 years, they too moved "west". He returned to Tennessee after the death of his wife Emma and lived with his daughter Mary Humpston at the time of his death.

MELVIN ELIJAH BULL

Adelia was in her teens when she went with her mother and two brothers to the Elijah Bull home. She and "Mellie" promptly fell in love and were married. They lived most of their lives in the Dumplin Community, but were living in Knox Co. near Huckleberry Springs when he died. Mary Perry remembered him visiting her family once while the Perry's were at Black Oak Ridge. Mellie was very frail and suffering from T.B. at that time. He was a favorite of his sister Mahala, and there always seemed to be a different tone to her voice when she spoke of him.

DID YOU KNOW

That the town of Centennial as featured on TV, the focal point of James Michener's best selling novel of the same name, was Orchard, Colorado? Located 70 miles northeast of Denver, the only eating establishment in the town was Ruth's Cafe, which became "Ruth's Centennial Cafe", operated by George and Ruth Bull. It catered to Orchard's 66 townspeople, area farmers and an occasional truck driver, who turned off the road after wandering off of state highways 144 and 39.

I wrote to George and Ruth, and he called me. We had a nice conversation, and he invited me and my husband to come see them sometime. I regret that we never were able to go. Recently I called him, and he said he knows very little about his family. His father was MARVIN COLUMBUS BULL and his mother was NINA LILLIAN JAMISON. Marvin had a brother John Bull, who had done a lot of research on the family but he is now deceased. His son William may have the information, but has been reluctant to pass it on.

George and Ruth sold the cafe in Sept. 1984 and bought an old house with about 3 acres of land in Orchard, and George has been busy doing some remodeling on the place which they hope to move into when it is completed. The woman who sold it to them had lived there 50 years and she was in her late eighties. It had no indoor plumbing, so there is much to be done. George and Ruth have 3 children, two sons and a daughter who live in Wyoming.

ALMOND DERRILL BULL

My mother always called him Derry Bull, although I referred to him as A.D. which most people did. I recall that as a child there was an item in Ripley's BELIEVE IT OR NOT about a " Derry Bull, state cow inspector of Okla." I never saw the item, but evidently my mother did, for I remember her talking about it. Mother thought of him almost as a brother, and although she was four years older, they had lived in the same community growing up. I have a beautiful letter from A.D. after mother passed away, giving me some insights into her life as a younger woman, and I cherish it very much.
From a letter to me (Lola) in 1973 before A.D. died.
"Mary Emaline and myself were married in El Reno by a Methodist minister, and I remember we went to the farm to see mother and show her off, then to the State Fair and up in the grandstand to see the Fireworks and the big time show. We returned to Konawa where I had been transferred from Wynnewood where I met her. You see, I was stationed in a CC camp and was doing soil survey work for Wiley Post CC camp. Mary was the daughter of a veteran enrolee and we met there. Seems like it was right for us to get married, and we never regretted it. She is a wonderful person and has been very good to me, especially when I had a heart attack on a four lane highway just outside of Houston. I was in St. Joseph hospital 43 days, but she came and stayed with me and never let me out of her sight. No one could have been better to me. Since my retirement I make out by doing some paper work connected with selling of some devices I have patents on, and doing the dishes for her. She works a half day at Culligans soft water and has for about 20 years. We are interested in Eastern Star. I have been Worthy Patron for 3 terms, and Mary was a member of the Grand Family the year of my heart attack and held the station of Grand Ruth, but gladly dropped out to see about me. She has been Worthy Matron of the local Eastern Star chapter twice and is presently Conductress in Amaranth.

I graduated with a BS degree from Okla. State University and a MS degree from Kan. State University, finished in 1929 and took a job with Lawton in charge of water, milk and sewage treatment, kind of a public health job. Later went to Texas with U.S. Public Health Service with headquarters at Texarkana. It lasted 2 years and in 1931 I returned to farm and endured one of the droughtiest conditions ever to exist in Oklahoma...endured 4 years of it. In 1935 I went to work for the Soil Conservation Service and stayed there 30 years, and retired in 1966 at a. During my stay with SCS I developed several patents and was given full ownership with government overriding interest for US Govt. purposes. I have the machines made at a shop in Woodward, and I ship them to all parts of the world and also inside the U.S. It hasn't made me wealthy, but it substantiates my retirement pay and helps out.

NOTE: A.D. Bull, while working with flood prevention of the SCS, it was necessary to take soil coring(which was a tedious job), so he invented a power driven coring machine for which he held patents on. It is used by SCS field crews, highway departments and others who want an accurate core of soil structures. Sold to the government he received no royalty on them, however in recognition for his contribution to SCS and saving the government an estimated one million dollars, in 1967 he was presented with a plaque and a check for $5000 by then U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville E. Freeman. This "Outstanding Service Award" was the largest of its kind ever made by the federal department of agriculture, up until then.

Noah was a Baptist preacher. Mary Perry said that she once rode with her mother and father in the buggy to the Beaver Dam Baptist Church in Knox Co., to hear him preach, but Mary went to sleep instead, and didn't hear him. However he later became Pastor of one of the largest churches in Chatanooga, remaining there as such, until his death.

NOTES

ALLIED FAMILIES

Capt. William Bean came from Pittsylvania Co., Va., and built a cabin on the banks, near where Boone's Creek empties into the Watauga River, so said by historians. But as to the exact spot where Capt. Bean made the first settlement, written history seems to leave the reader in much doubt. It is a very generally accepted and well authenticated fact among the old citizens living in that immediate neighborhood that Capt. Bean first settled on the farm now owned by Valentine Devault, on the north side of the Watauga River, and about one mile above the mouth of Boone's Creek. The cabin, or little fort, stood very near where Mr. Devault's home now stands; and on this side of the river are high precipitous cliffs. It is said that the Indians used to come from down the Nolla Chuckey river, following the old trail that ran near this place...the remains of which can be seen to this day...up to the Watauga River, and would secrete themselves on the high cliff opposite Bean's cabin and watch for a chance to shoot at some of them when they came out. One day as one of the girl's was going to the spring an Indian lying high up on the opposite cliff, picked her off with his long rifle (Capt.Bean's daughter Jane). Bean determined to have revenge, and on going down the river to the shoal he waded over, and getting ahead of the Indians, lay in ambush by the side of their trail; and when they came in sight, marching in single file, he fired at the foremost warrior and killed him. The Indians gathered up their brother and continued their march to the Nolla Chuckey. Bean ran off to one side and as he ran, loaded his gun and then came in ahead of them again, and getting a good chance fired and this time killed two at one shot. Four dead out of a band of perhaps eight so demoralized the remaining Indians that they broke and fled, leaving their dead to bury their dead.

On another occasion some of the boys told Bean that they had heard a turkey gobbler over on the cliff and asked if they might go over and shoot it? He said no, that if they went over there they would not get back alive. Bean, himself, went down the river and crossing over at the shoal, came up on this side, and guided by the peculiar "gobble" of the turkey, he slipped up toward the cliff with the stealthiness of a cat, and there behind a log lay an Indian with his bead-like eyes fixed on the little fort across the Watauga watching for someone to come out so he could shoot them. Bean put an extra charge of powder in his big rifle and "took a good dose himself" to steady his nerves, then fired with deliberate calm, and there was one more "heap good Indian" gone. He then cut off the warrior's head and took it back over the river to the boys, telling them "here is your wild turkey".

Bean afterwards moved on this side of the river, and built a house near Boone's Creek. It was a double cabin that had a very deep cellar, and when the Indians were around he would remove the puncheon floor, and when they came rushing in at the one door, they would tumble down into the cellar. Then his wife (Lydia Russell) and the boys would shoot them or he himself would stand on the edge and knock them in the head. And it is said that the old man used to laugh and tell what fun it was to break their heads while they were hopping around the cellar like so many rats in a tub.

Capt. Bean did a good service there for a number of years, fighting Indians, and ridding the country of Tories in 1778. He was at King's Mountain and his sons were Watauga Riflemen under Col. Sevier, the first governor of Tenn. and were referred to as the "Sharpshooters of the Watauga". They were among the volunteers who in the Battle of King's Mountain Sept. 25, 1780, wearing buckskin or homespun, with their long hair tied in back and a wide brimmed hat, came with their own long rifles.

The Beans as a family were noted for their good common sense, and many, if not all of them, were men possessed of remarkable skill and ingenuity, and could manufacture almost any article in first class style, that it was possible to make with tools. Some excelled as Gunsmiths, their guns being reknowned for their beauty of finish as well as workmanship.

William Bean and Daniel Boone were companions and it is said that they hunted together in the vicinity of Boone's Creek.

The feeling that it was getting too crowded perhaps, may have been the reason Capt. Bean moved on down the country and founded Bean's Station,in Grainger Co. on the Holston River near a sulphur spring and a salt lick that attracted game. Established by Robert Bean, few places in Tennessee history are more significant than Bean Station. Located near Bull's Gap, it was a small community (no more than a few houses) the point on the Wilderness Road where practically all travel turned north toward the Cumberland Gap for the entrance into Kentucky, and the northwest. As a postroad and stage route, it was an important unit in the rapidly developing system of American highways. By 1857 trains were running from Knoxville to Bull's Gap, and for a distance of about 20 miles out of Bristol, Tenn.

Russell once immortalized himself by resisting arrest, the sherriff summoning his Honor Judge Andrew Jackson to himself get down off the bench and go out and take Russell. Jackson went and took him there on the hillside , south of the Courthouse. When Jackson was President years after that event, along in the 30's he stopped in Jonesboro and held a reception to which pretty much all of the people came. Among them was Charlie Bean (son of Russell who had no prejudice against the Judge.) Charlie was wearing a coon-skin cap and came up smiling with a very familiar greeting of "Why Lord Jesus Christ, General, I am might glad to see you".

William Bean, Jr., b 1745 Pittsylvania Co., Va; d 1799 Grainger Co., Tenn.; m/1 RACHEL BALL. She died when son Ahab was born.
He then married the widow Shaw (Elizabeth Blair), who had a son of her former marriage, by the name of William Shaw.
William is buried at the Bean graveyard near Bean Station on the Lee Highway. It is less than a quarter mile from the old fort established before 1787. His grave is identified by a pile of loose rocks. No burials have been made there in over 150 years. Only one stone bears an inscription , made on a local field rock and rudely hand carved: "Jane Bean, Nov. 24, 1798". She was killed by Indians while doing the washing at the spring.

NOTE: There seems to be 2 different opinions concerning the burial place of William. I have 2 accounts. One as shown above, and another that states that he is buried at Weaverville Cem. in Grainger Co. I regret that I do not know which is correct, as a great many of my records are out dated, having concentrated on the Bull family.

He had a land grant in 1790 on the north side of Boone's Creek adjacent to his father, and sold 225 acre of it to Jacob Bull in 1792.

BILLINGSLEY

Captain Samuel Billingsley, was born in 1747 in St. Mary's Co. Md. and moved to Baltimore Co., Md. with his parents William and Elizabeth (Crabtree) Billingsley. William's great grandfather Francis came to America prior to 1649 from Holland with his parents settling in Nansemond Co., Va. Captain Samuel Billingsley, served in the Revolutionary War. He married before 1772 to Mary Griffith, according to tradition and moved to the Sequatchie Valley in Tennessee before 1816 where he died at the age of 69 on June 10, 1816. Although we do not know the maiden name of his wife for certain, some records say that she was born in 1753 in N. Carolina. When Samuel and Mary were married, he was given a portion of his father's estate, and is mentioned in his father's will as having "been already portained", thus was bequeathed of a six pence and two shillings. Before going to Tennessee Samuel moved with his family to Onslow County, North Carolina and received a grant for 300 acres of land on both sides of the Second Creek. This was issued March 29, 1780. In 1781, Samuel enlisted under Captain Sharpe's Company in Colonel Francis Locke's Light Horse Service. With the rank of Private, Samuel was listed on the payroll of this unit on March 11, 1781 as having served 12 days.

Samuel Billingsley entered a claim for 100 acres of land in Sullivan Co., North Carolina (now Tennessee) on August 3, 1779. He moved his family here in 1787 and was issued a patent om the land in August of the same year. Some time later the family again moved to Bledsoe County where he remained. He was a firm believer whose sentiments he followed as a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, and was a charter member of the first Masonic Church.

Because this family is probably in all likelihood part of the same branch as those who married into the Bull family, I give you this brief accounting of their organization. I suggest you read more about them in the 1983 publication entitled SEQUATCHIE FAMILIES, written by James L. Douthat. You can write to him at 2504 Kell Road; Signal Mountain, Tennessee 37377.

BOYKIN

The name BOYKIN means "an endearing diminutive of Boy."
Their Coat of Arms: A Leopard's face or a pillar sa.
Motto: Crom a Boo. Mr. Henry Harwood, an authority on Heraldic Art and Genealogy from Richmond, Va. gives this Irish Arms from Earls of Desmond, 1316
From published material at the Library of Congress in Wash., D.C. found in Ewen's "Surnames" from Huntingdonshire, England A.D. 1327 is a list of tax payers in the 20th year of King Edward 3rd, listing "Joh'n Boykyn". Evidently Joh'n stands for Johann, and gives us a link to the continent from whence the Boykin family came. From several authoritative sources it is believed that they were of Flemish origin, and were established in the neighborhood of Bruxelles (Brussells, Belgium) as early as 1286. An even earlier habitat of the BOYKIN family evidently came from the Celtic tribe that inhabited the territory now known as Bavaria, and certainly some of them migrated to Flanders at a very early date. It is quite possible that the descendant who came to America before 1676, was from Johann Boykyn of Huntingdonshire, however the name is definitely continental, not Welsh.

From records of Kent Co., England...BOYKIN is a very old family. A Jarvis (Jervase) Boykin came to Charleston, Mass. from Charing Cross, Kent, England with one servant about 1635. He was a carpenter and moved to New Hampshire in 1639, where he married and had children: NATHANIEL, b 1641; bapt. 11 Sept. 1642; BETHIA, bapt. 30 Apr. 1643; SARAH, bapt. 18 Jan. 1646.

Jarvis died Jan. 1662 leaving a widow and the above children. His daughter Bethia married 25 Nov. 1662 JAMES DENNISON (from records at Milford, Ct. 1699). Nathaniel Boykin took the oath of Fidelity at New Haven, Ct. 1 May 1640 (from New Haven, Ct. Hist. & Gen.Reg. Vol. IX). NOTE: This seems unlikely, since Nathaniel was said to have been born in 1641. Jarvis Boykin is mentioned in the Colonial Families of the U.S., Vol. IV p. 546 as among the Founders of America in the early 17th century.

From an article I found in The Rocky Mountain News, Denver (1984)

"COVERED WAGONS RECALLED"

Mittie Newberry celebrated her 103rd birthday on Friday in Childress, Tex. She took time out from cooking and housekeeping to reminisce about her family's migration to the Lone Star State in a covered wagon. County treasurer Tommy Newberry said he eats two meals daily with his mother who was born near Cleburne in 1881 and came to the Panhandle with her family at the age of 9.
Mrs. Newberry said her family's trip in a covered wagon took about a month as they traveled a trail between Johnson City to a spot between Silverton and Happy.

She married W.H. Newberry in 1902 at Canyon, and they moved to Childress in 1917. Newberry said his father died in 1968, and added that his mother a Democrat, reads the newspaper daily and enjoys keeping up with politics. She offered no opinion on President Reagan... "they're all my presidents once they're elected," she said.

Mrs. Newberry's three sons and daughter planned to take her out to dinner for her birthday. Her children live in Austin and Borger. She has one grandson and four great-grandchildren.

NOTES

Hiram Brinlee was born on Christmas Day 1808 and died in his 77th year on July 28, 1885 at Collin Co., Texas. His place of birth is not known since many of the records disagree. He is listed on the 1840 census of Red River Co., Tex. with 1 poll, 4 horses and 1 stallion. On the 1850 census of Collin Co., his birthplace is shown as Tennessee. In 1867 he is listed as a registered voter in Collin Co., and his place of birth as Kentucky. Other records say Virginia. There is also reason to suppose that he might have been born in Alabama, since he appears to be related to the Brindley's of Cullman and Blount counties there. It is my thinking that the place most likely is Kentucky, since his brother George stated on the 1830/31 census of Wavell's Colony in Texas that he himself was born in Kentucky. I believe a search should be made at Mason Co., Ky. IF Hiram is related to the Ala. Brindley's, I think he may be the grandson of Richard Brindley who was born about 1740 (called Grandpa Dickey), and who came from northern Ireland about 1750 as a stowaway. Others seem to recall about the Brinlee's, and how the earliest known to this country was a stowaway. We do know however that Hiram's father was married twice, for in the account of George Brinlee, it is said that he left home at age 17 because he couldn't get along with with his step-mother.

Hiram went to Texas in the late 1820's (George went in 1824 with the McKinney's). He settled in the old Mexican Municipality, which later became Red River Co., in 1836. He owned a league of land there (4,428.4 acres), an ideal spot to homestead and to engage in farming with the river being an abundant source of water. Hiram and Betsy were married 14 Sept. 1832 by Judge Jacob Buzzard as shown in Book A of the Records of County court, Miller Co., Ark.

The family was happy with their means of making a living there on the Red River, when their dreams turned into a nightmare. It was about 1838 when the river overflowed, flooding the land and destroying everything within its path. Hiram and Betsy with their 2 children, Margaret age 4 and Richard about 3 months old, were able to make their escape from the raging torrent in a log trough, which was used for tanning leather. Reaching safety, they managed to bring along 40 mares, 1 stallion and 1 calf...but this was rather short-lived for the stallion broke loose and killed all of the mares. Needless to say they left the lush valley and moved west, never to return again.

In the Stony Point area, near Melissa, Tex. they began anew in Fannin County, which later became Collin Co., in 1846, of which McKinney, Tex. is the county seat. Hiram lived here the remainder of his life raising his family. He owned a great deal of land (old timers say all of the land southeast of Ana, Tex.). But it couldn't be ALL, for the original survey listed 9,158,870 varas which is equivalent to 1,625 acres. Of course much of this land possibly came through the settlement of the estate of Betsy's father Daniel McKinney, although Hiram was considered a wealthy man in a sense. He owned numerous slaves, and a general store made of logs. The foundation of this store still stands at Stony Point just north of foundation of this store still stands at Stony Point just north of the Stony Point Community Church, which holds services there yet. He also shipped freight from Shreveport to Jefferson, Tex. with his son Richard later becoming the freight boss. Closer to Melissa is the Brinlee Cemetery for which Hiram donated the land, and also Brinlee Creek is named for him. He is buried at this cemetery along with some of his sons and a daughter, as well as numerous nieces and nephews, and his slaves. It is a peaceful spot shaded by large cedar trees.

Betsy McKinney was the daughter of Daniel Younger McKinney and Margaret (Peggy) McCLURE. She was the niece of Collin McKinney for whom McKinney (Collin Co.) Tex. is named. He was one of the signers of the Declaration of the Independence of Texas, and there is a great deal of history written around him and his descendants.

Daniel Younger McKinney was of Dutch descent and came from New Jersey, and was one of those who took part in the Boston Tea Party. Betsy's sister Amy McKinney married George Brinlee. After the death of Hiram, Betsy went with her son Richard and family to Oklahoma. They settled at Roff, where she died in 1899 and is buried at Lightning Ridge Cemetery there, although there is no headstone.

Hiram and Elizabeth raised a family of seven children. Five sons served in the Civil War. Their descendants boast of all professions of life. Undoubtedly some may still own some of the original land which belonged to Hiram, but as stated to me by the wife of one of the grandsons "the boys were not interested in land, they were happy only if they had a good fast horse and a gun." As a result, a great deal of tragedy followed some of them.

The stories and traditions are numerous and interesting, often filled with sadness, mystery and intrigue. But to those of us who are connected to this family, no matter how insignificant, we can be proud of our heritage.

RICHARD MASON BRINLEE

was the oldest son and the 2nd child of Hiram Brinlee and Elizabeth McKinney. He was born in Red River Co., Tex. between 1836 and 1838. Since census records do not agree with his stated age, nor does his military record establish the exact year, we can only hazard a guess. Even the pension record of his third wife does not give the date of his birth, only his date of death on 23 July 1911 at Roff, Okla. in Pontotoc County. He is buried at Lightning Ridge Cemetery at Roff along with his 2nd wife, but they have no headstones. Though there are some who believe they are buried on the old farm where they lived, as well as Richard's mother, Una Lippincott wrote me and said she visited their graves as a child at the cemetery as mentioned. She is Richard's granddaughter, and I believe she should know. Records at this place were not kept, and it is a shame, for he is entitled to a headstone, at no cost, for his military service.

Tex. to Ann Elizabeth Simmons, by George Younger McKinney, J.P. who I believe was an uncle (his mother's brother). Ann was born in Kentucky and was age 17 on the 1860 census of Collin Co., making her birth about 1843. They had one child, a daughter Mary who was a year old in 1860. Ann probably died shortly after this census was taken, and she is buried at Brinlee Cemetery. Richard then married the 2nd time on Apr. 15, 1861 to SARAH ELLEN PETIT,at Collin Co., by Zeke Coffey, J.P.

Richard and Sarah had 4 daughters and 3 sons. She was born about 1843 in Indiana (probably Clark Co.), and died Oct. 22 1905 at Roff.

On July 5 1862 Richard enlisted with the Confederate Army, of the Regiment of Capt. Leonidas M. Martin Texas Cavalry, with the rank of Cpl. in Company K. He stated his age as 25, and had a valuation of one horse @ $160 and equipment valued at $25.00.

From old record books at Collin Co. courthouse he was in charge of a road gang, building roads from Sister Grove to Bonham, Tex. He farmed most of his life. He evidently did a lot of moving during the years 1860 and 1880. In 1860 he was in Collin Co,; in Erath Co., in 1869 where son John was born, then back to Collin in 1870 and in Hood Co. in 1877 where son Charles was born. It is not known just when they went to Oklahoma, but Deed records of Collin Co. show him there in 1889, and his mother died in 1899 in Okla. where she lived with him, so they left sometime between that ten year period. I believe they might have made the "Run of 89" to where he homesteaded. I have no land records for them in Okla. but they could be found I feel certain, with a little more research.

After the death of Ellen (his 2nd wife) he married NANCY ANN HERRELL on June 26 1906. The marriage license states that it was issued at Roff in Indian Territory, and that he was 69 years old, and she was age 64. Further she was MRS. Nancy Ann Herrell, so she was a widow. She filed for a pension on behalf of his Confederate service giving her address at that time as Wilson, Okla. stating that they were married at Ada, Okla. and that her own physical condition was "weak and nearly blind." The pension was eventually granted in 1922 after 7 years of waiting, from the time she first filed.

Information above from several people, primarily Mrs. (Grace) Mowdy, the granddaughter of Ann Elizabeth and Herbert Jones. Grace lives at Coalgate, Okla. Lewis Brinlee of Pasadena, Tex. a great grandson of Hiram, and his wife Bonnie too have made searches and traveled to places locating some of the family members. They visited us a few years ago, and we had a wonderful time. We correspond often with them.
Also Una Lippincott of Los Banos, Ca., daughter of Charlie Brinlee. And Mrs. Guy (Mattie) Logsdon the librarian of the Okla. Pontotoc County Genealogical Soc. She also helped me with some Bull records. I also consulted several census and marriage records of Tex. and Okla. and got a lot of help from a distant cousin Bessie Sims Sheppard of Chico, Tex. whose grandmother was a sister to Richard M. Brinlee.

NANNIE PAMELIA BREWER, b 4 Sept. 1900 Vernon (Wilbarger Co.) Tex.; of John Hampton Brewer and RACHEL CRAWFORD. This uncle I called Blackie, and can't remember if it was because he was always so blackened with coal dust, or if because he called me Whitey as a young child...I had such blonde hair. He hauled coal and would come in after a hard day of work all dirty and black, but would grab one of us and rub his face on ours and loved to hear us squeal from the whiskers that would sting, and turn our cheeks red. Loyall and I had a lot of great times with his kids when we went to Florence where they lived. We picked cherries (for a cent a lb.) and beans, and strawberries. Cousin Lydia could out-pick us city kids, by a mile and a half. After their children married and left home, most of them moving away, Evard and Nannie eventually moved to Akron, Co. to be near Lydia, and where Evard died. Lydia lives there, and her mother is also in Akron in a nursing home. At 85 her memory, and her smile have continued. I haven't seen her in a long time, but my cousins keep me informed.

She settled at Long Beach, Ca. after retirement, and moved to Colo. in 1983 to be closer to her sisters. "Aunt Tim" is very special to me. She took care of me during the time I spent in the hospital after my accident in 1940. I owe her a lot. Although her health is not the greatest, she never complains Roger Nats managed the Blue Flame Coal Yard in Colo. Spgs. for a few years for his brother-in-law Erwin Brinlee. He had been a car salesman prior to that in Denver. Later they moved back to Denver and working with Lyle Crites learned the ceramic tile trade, which he continued until retirement. He was one of my favorite uncles.

Edith was a graduate of Barnes Business College in Denver, and worked as a secretary for many years. They were enroute home from California when Roger had a fatal heart attack. They lived with my parents during the war years before I married, and we became close. After Roger died, Edith moved to Loveland, Co. to be near her son and family, recently giving up her apartment and moving in with them. I miss her a great deal.

JOHN WILLIAM AND FETNAH ANN (BULL) BRINLEE

Some of the fondest memories I have of my childhood were the many summers my sister Loyall and I spent with these our grandparents who lived at Florence, Colo. Now that we are grandparents, and our daughter lets her children spend time with us, we are happy that they too can know some of the joys I knew.

Fetnah was named after her grandmother Fetnah Bean. She had 3 cousins also named thus. Most of the relatives that I was around called her Aunt Fetney. I suppose it should be noted that she was a devout Christian, and attended the Nazarene Church. We sisters often went with her to prayer meetings on Wednesday nights. While they prayed, we would sneak out and go next door to the fire house to visit with the firemen. They would us let us set up in the driver's seat and ring the bell, and often we would have to hurry back in case we might be missed. I don't remember that we ever were as they were still praying or singing. Sometimes we would be called upon to stand up and give a testimony, but we would hide behind grandmother in fear.

Her day began early and ended late...up building a fire in the cook stove (a large range with a blue enamel warming oven). She would sing and praise the Lord while getting breakfast. No rolls and coffee were these meals. They were biscuits and fresh honey with home churned butter, sausage, eggs and "grandpa's gravy." It wasn't gravy as we know it now. Using the grease from the meat, she would add water and let it boil a few minutes. I never could make it, though I tried. Can you imagine what our nutritionists would say today? The noon meal was "dinner", not lunch. There was always corn bread or home made bread, fresh most every day and again there was gravy. The good old cream gravy that I could never duplicate either. I see her with the cast iron skillet, tossing a handful of flour in, reaching for the salt box on top of the stove, then pour in the cream. It would sizzle and pop as she stirred with a long spoon, always tasting it before it went into the gravy bowl. If we wanted to snack during the day, we could go to the side board and help ourselves to cold biscuits and honey, still in the comb. My grandfather raised bees.

Grandma, like her father before her, read her Bible daily. She talked to the Lord as she worked "Praise be His Holy Name", or "one day nearer to Jesus", she would say each morning. In the evening she would sit down in her rocker and doze off with her Bible open on her lap. I always felt that if "my grandmother didn't make it, then nobody would."

How well I recall the soft feather beds, and the big heavy comforters, that were made of wool and scratched your chin, and the out house that us city kids found fascinating. While we "sat" we would go through the catalogue and tear out the pages of women's clothing and the models, to cut out later for paper dolls. Grandmother canned most of the things they grew. She had a very large pressure cooker, and would screw the lid on with about four clamps.

They always had company in the summer from out of town, usually Texas, and enjoyed whoever dropped in. Grandma was a good neighbor, and they were well thought of in the community, where they had lived many years. On grandpa's 90th Birthday, many of the towns people gathered at the park to honor him as the oldest living person there, and I believe also having lived there the longest period of time.

Grandpa was a man with set ways, but let us kids do whatever we thought would be fun. When he planted his garden he would let us plant a few pennies, and some bottle caps from soda-pop. Then when he visited us in the fall, he brought us lots of pennies and pop, saying that this was the result of the harvest. I think we believed him. Then he would go to the grocery when he visited and bring us a bunch of bananas. They were a special treat for us.

He was a blacksmith, and farmed at one time. For recreation he went fishing and hunting as the years passed, setting traps for small game, and once caught a coyote and tried to make a pet of it. I have a picture of him with it. Evidently it got too risky, so although I have no idea what happened, the coyote disappeared.

We loved them both, and after I met my husband and we were dating we often went to Canon City and the Royal Gorge, stopping to see him, after grandma had passed away. My husband would play horse shoes with him. After he married the second time, we visited both him and his wife. She would welcome us, though we never really got to know her. I wish all children could know the joys we did.

GRANDMA'S ROCKING CHAIR

I learned a lot about Jesus, around my Grandma's rocking chair.
She would tell a Bible story, then have a word of prayer.
She would read the Word while rocking, and never lose her place;
I knew God was alive and well for I saw Him in her face.

At night as I lay sleeping, or was supposed to be...
I could hear my grandma praying, and she always mentioned me.
She never did have favorites, she loved us all the same,
But when my grandma prayed, she called us each by name.

Grandma's gone to heaven now, but I'll meet her over there,
Because of all those prayers she prayed, in that old rocking chair.

ETHEL MARY BRINLEE

Ethel Mary Brinlee was the oldest child of John William Brinlee and Fetnah Ann Bull. She was born at Erath Co., Tex. on 31 Oct. 1893 and died at Beverly Manor Nursing Home in Englewood, Co., on 7 Oct. 1971. After suffering a major heart attack about 1965, Ethel never fully regained her health, although she continued to do her own work and drive her car, plus keep a beautiful yard with lots of flowers. There must have been times she must have been lonely during the 14 years after she lost our father, but she never said a word. We took her with us on Saturday's if we went anyplace, and she was always ready if I called on brief notice. I can't ever remember seeing my mother not dressed and waiting for anyone to show up, make-up on looking eager to get out. She went with us to Church after she had attended her own church, the Englewood Methodist where they had been members for a long time. Dad had helped with the building when the new part was erected, and Mother belonged to several of the ladies organizations there. They rest together now at Chapel Hill Cemetery in Littleton, about 3 miles south of where I live. There are the mountains to the west and the towering peak of Mt. Evans, usually covered with snow. Peace at last. After mother's death I received a letter from her cousin A.D. Bull, (see BULL #359, p. 133). He told me much about her life that didn't know, for they grew up together. I will give you a portion of what he wrote.

In the early 1900's Ethel moved with her parents and brothers and sisters from Coalgate, Okla. (where they settled after leaving Tex.) to the Pie Flat Community in what was then Day Co.(now Roger Mills Co.) located near the county seat of Cheyenne. Located 5 mi. north and a half mile east of Roll, Okla. on what is now highway 283, they homesteaded on the banks of the South Canadian river. They had a Model T and would go to Bull hill to visit relatives, and to do the wash. Ethel always went along, to help her mother with the clothes, while the younger children played with the cousins, and when they "got out of line", she would straighten them up. Quoting A.D., "Aunt Fetnah was a big woman and could not move very fast, so that we could dodge her hand if she became angry with us, but Ethel was fleet on her feet and could run us down and bring us in. We were always together, come Sunday. The country was new and wide open, and me and Evard and Ervil would get the calves out of the pen and ride them...they were our broncos and we were the cowboys who practiced ropin and ridin..that is, til Ethel would stop us for hurting the innocent little calves.

Ethel was raised on a farm and knew how to ride a horse. If the horse was a bit skiddish, it suited her better. She knew what it was to take a hoe down the tall rows of corn to cut weeds, or to pick up the cotton sack and pick the fluffy bolls, weigh it and dump it into a wagon with high sideboards on it. She could take the milk buckets to the lot and milk 5 or 6 cows, and carry the milk back to the house, strain it up and put it in the water cooler. Since we did not have ice boxes they put a cloth over a frame with the ends stretching downward into water which kept the cloth wet to cool the air and keep the milk cool inside. Being the oldest, Ethel became the cook. She could chase down a fryer, ring its neck, dip it in hot water and pick it clean. Then she would dress it and fry in hot lard, or make dumplings. We went to church together. She was the leader of the prayer and taught the Sunday School class. We rode horseback to school. She went 3 miles and I went 5, and since she was older she rode alone on a side saddle. I had to ride along with the teacher. The name of the school was Pie Flat with one room and about 20 pupils, taught by a Miss Stewart. She was a worldly woman who boarded with a family of 6 or 7 children, and stayed with them while the parents took a trip. Ethel had a school chum by the name of Maude Barber, whose brother Claude later married Earnest Rowe's sister Edythe.

One evening while I (Lola) spent a few hours with my mother, she began to reminisce, and tell me stories. This is what she related to me.

I met Earnest when he was 15 years old when he came to school the first day. He was wearing a black sateen shirt and a Stetson hat. My father strongly objected to our relationship. He was opposed to my being serious about anyone, who might take me away from home, as I was needed there to help with the younger children. Earnest and I met in secret and often sent notes back and forth by my brothers when they went to town. My father would have none of it, and at one time even threatened to kill Earnest. I assured him if he did, "to get me too", for I would most certainly have killed my father as a result. The day we went to tell my parents of our intentions to marry, I prayed all the way, for I didn't know what would happen. My prayers were answered. My father met Earnest half way, shook his hand and gave us his blessing.

We were married at my home with about 20 guests. There was a large double doorway between the front room and my parents bedroom, and we took our vows beneath that doorway. I made my wedding dress. It was a shell pink chiffon with white rusching trim. Papa, Evard, Ervil and Earnest went to town the day before to get ice so we could make ice cream. I stayed home and baked 7 cakes. Earnest got the license while there at the county seat of Cheyenne. Our attendants were a man and his wife, James and Ruth Bull. He was my cousin. (Note: I have never been able to learn which cousin this was.) After we were married we went back to Earnest's and slept under a tree, it was so hot (July 28, 1914).

We moved to Colorado in Apr. 1915 and filed a claim 30 miles south of Las Animas (near Ninaview) on the Las Animas Co. border, but it was in Bent Co. Out first home was a half dugout with dirt floor about 14x16 ft. I used newspapers to cover the walls. Snakes would run between and rattle the paper at night. We had a lot of unwelcome bugs and spiders, but we were happy and it mattered little.

A year later in 1916 I returned to Okla. to my parents, and was there when Hope was born at the old Reddin place. The following Feb. when she was 8 months old we returned to western Texas and drove about 20 head of cattle and horses back to Colo., travelling in a covered wagon which took about 3 weeks on the open range."

The claim land description is as follows: The east half of the west half, also known as the West half of section 31 in Twp. 27 south; range 51 west. This land was sold many years after Ethel married the second time, but she retained the mineral rights which are still held in trust.

In the fall of 1917 Ethel's parents left Okla. and moved to Colo. They came with their family in a Model T and 2 covered wagons driving 35 or 40 head of cattle, and were on the move 22 days. A.D. recalled the day they left. After sharing their last meal with his family he said, "It was a sad sight with tears flowing, like a family being split up, and it really hurt".

They stopped at Ethel and Earnest's, then moved to Las Animas that winter and rented a house. Evard, Ervil and Earnest worked in a sugar factory there. It was here that Earnest thought he contracted the disease of tuberculosis, so mother said. But his own mother died when he was only 3 years old of the same disease, as well as others in the family, so it might even have been hereditary.

Early in 1918 the Rowe family came to visit while Earnest and Ethel and Hope were at her parents in Las Animas, and Harmony was born at their home on Feb. 5. The Brinlee's then moved about 6 miles west to Riverdale where they rented a farm and raised alfalfa and corn, but they did not stay long, for they again moved late in the year. This time they went to a little town about 130 miles further west, called Barnes City, near Coaldale. On their way they camped near the Arkansas river east of Florence for a couple of weeks and were there when the Armistice was signed. This was a joyful day for the family, as Evard was in France at the time serving his country and it meant that he would be coming home. But again they were not long at one place. They moved from Barnes City shortly before Christmas east to Rockvale. It was a coal mining town near Canon City and Florence. They stayed there until 1922, moving to Florence where our grandparents remained the rest of their lives.

While in Rockvale (early 1919) Earnest and Ethel and the girls joined them. He was by then terminally ill. Although he was unable to talk and could scarcely walk, they lived in a tent in the yard of Ethel's parents. Evard and Nannie lived close to them since his return from France, and Nannie was expecting her first child.

Earnest failed rapidly and his wish was that he might be able to return to his home in Okla. knowing that his days were near an end. The four went by train. Hope was almost 3 and Harmony about a year old. Earnest died shortly after they arrived, departing this life at the age of 24 on 13 Apr. 1919. Following the services held in the Rowe's old home (mother even sang the hymns at the service), he was laid to rest in the Pie Flat cemetery, nearby.

Ethel and the girls returned to Rockvale where she opened a boarding house to support her children. It was here that she met my father Walter Crites who was working at the mines there as a carpenter. They soon fell in love. Mother said "he was different from the other boarders. He was a gentleman." He loved the children and they needed a father. On 28 Dec. 1920 Ethel and Walter went to Canon City and were married at the county courthouse by the county Judge. One reason that they married at that time was that they felt the money they would save on Income tax before the year ended, and use the saving to buy mother a new winter coat.

Although Mother often spoke of the "girl's father" through the years, I never saw my father show any jealously. Hope and Harmony were as attached and devoted to him as any daughters could be. He never legally adopted them, mostly due to the expense but until they married, they used the Crites name. My sisters never called him their step-father, nor did my own sister or myself refer to them as half-sisters. We never thought there was a difference. Mother said that one blessing that came from the loss of Earnest was that the Lord "made more than one good man."

Our father was indeed a good man, and more. He worked hard through the depression years, when there was no work to speak of, but he was too proud to stand in the bread lines. Mother did a little bit of sewing on the side for a lady who could afford to pay. Even at that she got very little. Making a dress for 2 or 3 dollars would help, but even though prices were low for food, a ton of coal cost $6.00. We girls shared one pair of galoshes in the winter, and Dad would often go ahead of us with his snow shovel to make a path so we could get to school. Mother baked her own bread, and they raised a big garden which was harvested and canned in the fall. I remember the winter they rode the street car to Opportunity School in Denver, and mother took a class in penmanship and millinery. Dad enrolled in a class of fine woodworking, and leaned how to use tools other than his usual carpentry tools. I have a beautiful desk that he made after that of mahogany inlaid with maple and walnut. Mother later worked for a lady in downtown Denver who had a furrier shop that also specialized in making women's hats. Dad later worked as the first foreman for Writer Brothers, building some of the finest homes in the Denver area. They now have many exclusive sub-division areas, and shopping malls, and are leaders in their field.

Our Daddy developed throat cancer in 1956, and died 11 months later, the first true grief I had ever known. He was a gentle and kind man who never complained in spite of the painful last months. I know of no one who ever spoke an unkind word about him, for he was loved by all, and devoted to his family and friends alike.

Mother was a woman of great courage, who seemed to bear up under stress that most people shrink from. Many years of hard work and worry finally brought about her heart condition. She trusted in her God to sustain her many times over, giving praise to Him always for whatever happened...good or bad. She tried to teach us the secret of living one day at a time, but we often find it difficult. There is one thing from which I draw strength, in knowing that God gave me wonderful parents. As I type this, it is my mother's Birthday, and she is on my mind. Although she outlived our father by nearly 15 years, I rejoice that they now share eternity together.

My Dear Daughter

Ever since the departure of Mr Jacob Bull from this country I have expected some particular instigence from you partly in reply to what I then wrote you and a general outline of your condition health and other particulars of life but I have received no letter from you since Jacob was here Elijah received one dated 2 November last saying hereby that all was well but from that time up we are in the dark respecting your condition . When you left us Jane I hoped you would never neglect us so long but take notice I am not mad about it but really long to hear from you and not having got any letters is why I have delayed mine so long which I now deem necessary to put off no longer as important changes have take place here during the fall and winter which I will try to narrate to you as concise as possible but as Malinda has wrote to you some time ago she may have given you my account of things up to the date of her letter. On the 29th of October last Galen was married to Kiziam Zates he has not commenced housekeeping yet she stays part of her time with us and part at her fathers he is repairing the Loomhouse to live in Kiziam is truly a pleasant girl and will make Galy as happy as a jew. On the 15th December Elijah and Susan cut out from here to their tenement at Sam Hoffmasters where he has rented and on the 18th she was brought to bed and had a fine son and both her and child are doing well they name this boy Alfred James to be written Alfred J. Bull and on top of all this your cousin Caleb W. Easterly got married about 10 days ago to Miss Rebecka Jane Jacobs daughter of Mr Jacob Jacobs the Blacksmith he came right over with his bride he is truly proud of her and so are we she is truly an interesting inteligent and pleasant girl. Elbert was down at this weding and was with us awhile all well at uncle Casper Lewis A. LETTER # 5

Marshalls Ferry, Tenn. 2nd July 1847

Dear Jane

Near 6 months have now passed since you have had a direct communiction from me tho we have still kept a tolerable view of important occurances at both places as the young folks have wrote you several times, but the last news we had from you was perhaps dated in January or sometime early in the year giving us the important news of the birth of your son his name &c and though you have got several letters it still remains due that you should again see the mark of pops pen. The sorrowing excitement that naturally rests upon us all in consequence of the loss of that lovely lamb of our fold. Our dear Susan has had some tendency in prolonging the time of my writing. I must now go more into particulars then, as has been done in former letters. She remained at our house till the 15th December. Elijah had engaged a tenement from Hoffmaster. he put the house in order and they loaded the waggon and moved up. I saw that she was near her being brought to bed and inquired how long She expected to remain on foot, and she allowed to be up till after Christmas and consented for her to move, but alas they had not more than got the house warmed and the beds up till she Sent out and the child was born on the 18th. I had noticed that She had a cough for some time but made no more of it than to use some simple means to help her, and I being in bad health did not go to see her till near a week after her confinement , and on going to see her I thought she and the child were doing well, excepting some difficulty with her breasts, but it wa soon discovered. She had a bad cough, gave but little and finally no milk for the child. it had to be supported with a bottle and cows milk and became very puny. I took up Dr Rhoten and he commenced using means for her cough and to give her strength but little or no good was done and finally Dr Harris was called and shortly Dr Massengill, but all to no good..... she kept sinking fast and as before began to fail. She had a great desire to be brought home to our house and we chose a pleasant day in March and brought her safely home we laid her bed in the bedsted with boards between but covered with sheets, and left open below like a marriage bed, and then a pole was put under the bedsted at each end, only. men at a time took hold and walked steadily on in this way we got her home in about 3 hours tho carrying faster excited her and she seemed to enjoy some comfort for several days. The gentlemen who helped us home with her were Edmond Jackson, Mr Conn, Samuel Price, Galen and John and Elijah and Erskine Patterson. in addition Mr Morris and Russell Riggs sent a black man and I will always remember these favors but poor Sooky was not to remain long with us. in about a week or more after She got home Dr (can't read,I think it may have been the name of some medicine).....a large and very painful sore on one of her (can't read) and a very sore mouth Dr Rhoten became discouraged. Dr Massengill being one, but in vain, consumption was bearing her off now speedily and all hope of her recovery was gone I made her condition, and her prospects beyond the grave the common Subject of conversation, even some time before she left. at first She contemplated the subject with gloom and sorrow till I directed her mind to the boundless goodness of God as manifested in the gift of his son and his holy spirit. that when she was ushered into the mode of being Gods caring...home and parents solicitude guarded her infantile helplessness and led her up to years of reflection and enjoyment and at Sulphur Springs gave her a view of her high and eternal destiny in a home of Eternal love wher she flies with extatic delight in my parental embrace filling the ears of all her friends with shouts of his peace on these remarks of mine her glooms wer quite dispersed and as she directly declared to me the world's great redeemer again stood forth the fairest among ten Thousand, and all together lovely, and our conversation between our selves and alone. but she called for all to come to her, and her glory and love was her theme. I told all to come to her and as they came in the scene became more interesting. Elijah came first. I told him to look on his wife now as a Saint of heaven. her appearance was lovely, dignified and sublime. She said death had lost his sting and she bid him welcome, and such a meeting as we had I never before witnessed, and joined in the general joy. Galen and Kozeann were sent for. they were somewhere then, John and the girls were of course in tears which Susan declared was all that gave her pain. To see them in grief. To me she said I had always been good to her, had spent a toiling life caring for her, and the rest. that I must only look for my reward when we all meet again in heaven. She remained in this state of mind for several days, and conversed freely with all. I asked her what shall I say to Jane when I write. She gave this short answer. Tell her I have gone hone to glory and to God. Louisa was with us a greater part of the time. after we moved her home she breathed her last 30th March 1847. At Susans request Mrs Bull took charge of the baby and Elijah moved his things there again,but the scenes of sorrow are not met yet, all told. Aunt Lydia took care of the child for a while till her health became feeble and the task was too burdensome, and we had it brought here, and I and the girls gave our united attention to it, and Elijah frequently, but the baby from the want of a mother (can't read) and perhaps constitutional defects grew more and more puny growing none in size and on the 25th of June he closed his eyes in death, thus bereaving us of Susan and her lovely babe. he was a beautiful child and I feel greatly the loss of the little pet to whom I had promised myself much comfort in declining life. I think the child also had consumption. It is now the 19th of July and I began this letter the 2nd and after (can't read) days ago we got your letter of the 15th of June. I was much relieved by its arrival as I had not heard from you so long. Thanks be to our God that both of you and Russell are so well, long may you continue &c I regret that you cannot come to see us but as I am something of a judge of your situstion, all your means are now called into action for a stand in this life which requires all your time. but when I hear of your all well I am resigned, but how bad I wanted to see that little chubby grandson, you dont know. I hope I will see him yet. take care of him and for God's sake never flog him or give him medicine for crying, for crying is the life of him. Jane was one of the squawinges baby in the world and it was music to my ear. It may be that Elijah can come to your Country this fall or winter, but we are all bound in difficulties from debts incurred last winter. I have work harder than I wish. Our health is as common.

A few words for our neighbors and I close. Betsy Price has long been sick, but is getting over it, and is now with us using the mineral spring. Old Tommy Robertson, Marthuslia Read, Jane Read and Hannah Morris are dead. Hannah married Washington Cunningham last winter but now is gone. My cousin George Brunner died last winter. Our friends in Greene and Cocke are well last account Caleb has married Jacobs daughter and has moved to his fathers. Lewis A. is at Montgomery Ala. has not wrote me. Got a letter from Uncle William Scruggs in June, all well. Our new meeting house done. a splendid house.

I will not wait so long next time but I will write you again in a few months. be good children

LETTER # 8

Marshall Ferry or Morristown, Tenn. 23rd September 1852

Dear Children, grandchildren and friends

On yesterday I received your letter from Thornhill of 27th of Aug. and immediately reply. We are all in common health and so at Johnsons and at your Uncle Elishas. But East Tennesse has been awfully visited with afflictions and death this summer with the flux and fever that the like has not been known and many of our friends and neighbors (chiefly young ones) have bid us the long farewell and I will name all these you was acquainted with; your cozin William Bull...Aunt Lydia's son...and about a week ago three of Solomon Coxas sons Nathaniel, Rice and Gale...W. Hugh O.Young Taylor Boatman and Newton Shannon at panther springs. John Garretson Young Hannah Cox and Preston Cox are sick with fever but are getting better and the flux has abated as I hear of no cases for 2 weeks past. I had looked with much anxiety for news from you and Uncle Elishas got his letter first and come down with it and gave us the news and I am devoutly thankful to hear of your all being well and feel gratified with your letter in giving many facts I was ignorant of and you may quit all apology about scribbling or bad composition. Just shake down facts and a good many of them and that is the letter for me. I can read you like a book. Your moving to Texas is entirely with yourselves as I can say nothing to influence you in any way and as you have been there in winter spring and summer you have become a proper Judge of the country and whatever course you pursue and deem for the best I will be reconciled to it and am much gratified that you still have the benefit of the experience and counsel of Mother Bull and that she will go with you to Texas. Your description of Texas adds to my information on that Country. You will be on Latitude 32 North and in Alabama you are in 34. In Texas where you are going you will be 2 degrees south of where you are now. Your soil will be a good deal like S. Carolina. You said nothing of the water. And I am not yet informed how land is got in Texas and what the nature of land tiths and I have not been informed how far up the principle rivers are navigable for steamboats. If you move I hope frequently to hear the particular of the Country I am aware that the country is vastly large and possesses many varieties of soil, climate and productions. I am pleased with the description you give me of the children and hope in 7 years more Russell V. will write his grandpa a letter should he live. A line to you Jane about us here. My health was not very good in July and August but since then I have had good health. I had become Dyspeptic but by spare and carefful dieting have got over it. We are still here as formerly. John L., Malinda, Sarah and little William F. are well. All three of them devoted much to nursing the sick and dying at Coxes but continue well. poor Nathaniel he was one of the Cherokee best ornaments and is much missed by all that knew him. Louisa and family are still at Shieldses in good health., the girl about grown. Mary's here drying apples for the family. My garden is dry. I must now say to Mother Bull that I feel myself under the most grateful obligation to her for the kind maternal care she is bestowing on my daughter and grandchildren especially learning Russell V. let the babe be named for her. I cannot tell you where Janiken's post office is but will give it below as I shall be at Elishas and know before I can close this but I think they stopped in that region east of the Trinity River perhaps about 80 miles from Shreveport and Adeline is reported to have died of fever.

And now a few more thoughts on your Texas move...you have me much in the dark on many points. You say you will move this fall if you can and you say your mother and sisters are for moving, and will they move with or near you and where you go I hope Mother Bull may still be with or near you and your sisters. You say Russell and Jacob will not move this fall but you say nothing of Mr Underwood who went with you to Texas What became of him...and his lady...did he come back with you. Will you move by land or water. My feelings and solicitations on this subject are entirely for your best possible welfare in a country where you can be healthy, live plentiful and raise your family respectably and in good society and I hope that you will at all times have the society of your Mother and sisters and other virtuous and pios persons. Write me again soon and let me know what is the shape of things exhorting you and Jane and all of you try to do for the best and remember with thankful adoration that you are in the great Jehovah's empire and that the wings of his love are hovering over us, let us meet at a throne of grace.

Your father John Easterly

Mr. John W. Bull
Mrs. Jane S. Bull

Postscript: Janikens, Kerr and Riggs wrote their last letter to Uncle from New Danville, Texas dated 25th July last Uncle Elisha will write you shortly.

(note: the envelope had a return address of Morristown, Tenn. Sept. 27 and was addressed to Mr. John W. Bull; Thornhill, Alabama.

John Johnston, left Ala. ca 1882 and went to Tex. in search of homestead land, he located a place at Grayson Co., Tex. then sent for his wife and family to join him. Mary packed what few belongings she could in 2 teams and left with her 6 children. She was at the time expecting her son Charles.

CHARLES TIMMONS JOHNSTON

Charles Timmons Johnston, who is engaged in real estate, loan and banking business in Tupelo, was born at Whitesboro, Grayson County Texas on the 24th of April 1883, a son of John F. and Mary (Bull) Johnston. The father was born in Georgia, while the mother was a native of Alabama. John F. Johnston was a veteran of the Civil War, having run away and enlisted when he was under age. In 1882 he went to Grayson County, where he engaged in farming until 1889 and subsequently moved to Baylor Co.. He has since engaged in farming and stock raising there and was one of the prominent citizens of the county. His religious faith was that of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He gives his political allegiance to the Democratic party. To the union of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, eight children have been born, Charles Timmons, whose name initiates this review, being the seventh in order.

In the acquirement of his education Charles Timmons Johnston attended the common schools of Baylor County and at the age of sixteen years put his textbooks aside and started out into the world on his own account. He was for several years employed as a cow-puncher by the XIT ranch, the largest cattle ranch in the world, and there is no phase of ranching with which he is not familiar. In 1909 he enrolled in the Metropolitan Business College at Dallas and after completing his course he taught bookkeeping in that school for a short time. In 1910, removing to Oklahoma City, he entered the employ of F.C. Finerty, as an inspector of farm loans and he was active in that connection until 1914, when he went with Dickerson, Reed, and Ronderson. His duties as inspector for that concern brought him into close touch with farm values in Oklahoma and in 1918 he came to Tupelo and started into business on his own account. He is one of the most reliable real estate dealers in the county and he likewise has an extensive loan business. He is progressive and enterprising and is not only active along these lines but is a director of the State Bank of Commerce here and a dominant figure in financial circles. He has always been interested in farming and owns considerable land in Coal, Carter and Johnson counties.

On the 20th of Dec. 1910 was celebrated the marriage of Mr. Johnston to Miss Elizabeth Allen, daughter of B.F. Allen. She was born in Texas, where her parents lived for many years. Her father was engaged in the contracting business at Waco and was one of the substantial citizens of that community. To the union of Mr and Mrs. Johnston were two daughters; Reo and Charlie Jean. Mrs. Johnston is one of the leaders in the club and social organizations of Tupelo and is active in the democratic party. She is a woman of much culture and refinement, and is possessed of a magnetic personality. Mr. Johnston is one of the leaders of the democratic party in Coal Co., although he has never sought nor desired political preferment. He is a Mason in Tupelo Lodge No. 273 A.F. & A.M. and a steward of the Methodist Episcopal Church. For recreation he turns to the outdoors, and is particularly fond of hunting.

Written by Zula Langham

My father was M.L. Langham. He was born Dec. 17, 1859 in Blue Ridge (Collin Co.) Tex. He married Eliza Jane Smith Aug. 27, 1887. To this union was born 2 boys and 7 girls. The boys died while young. When the Indian Terr. was opened for filing in 1894, Papa and Mama lived on a claim at what is now Vinson (Greer Co.) Okla. They sold out there and moved to Lefors Tex. arriving there Dec. 8, 1908. It took them 4 days in two covered wagons to make the trip. The first night we spent at Eric Okla. with Grandpa and Grandma Smith. We spent the second night at a wagon yard at Shamrock, Tex. There were three families who spent the night there, and no room for us to sleep so the man that owned the yard let Mama and us girls sleep at his house. The man slept in the wagon yard. The next night we spent at a wagon yard at McLean, Tex. and the last night at the Bruce Bull home at Lefors.

The weather was quite cold and our house, a 3 room frame building didn't have all the weather boarding on the north side. Papa nailed a wagon sheet up to keep out the wind until he could finish the house. We had a well for water but no pump, so the 3 older girls had to carry water from the spring at the river which was a quarter of a mile from the house. The Shoenail Ranch joined us on the north and it was stocked with longhorn cattle. The fence was down and the cattle had never seen girls on foot, and when we saw them coming after us, we would run and spill half the water before we reached the house. Needless to say, Papa soon got a pump in the well.

We burned wood in the stoves as there was plenty of cottonwoods along the river. There were wild grapes and plums from which Mama made butter and jelly. Papa farmed and raised chickens. The baby Rosalie had pneumonia in Jan. after we moved. The doctor from Pampa, Dr. Von Bruno, had to make 2 trips in the deep snow to tend her.

Papa owned one of the sorghum mills in Gray Co. The neighbors grew their own cane, stripped the leaves by hand when the stalks were fresh and green and full with juice. Papa's mill ground the sorghum and pressed out the juice into huge vats where it was boiled down to molasses. Power to operate the mill was furnished by a mule going around in a circle.

In the Spring Mama ordered material from Sears Roebuck and made all six girls white dresses for summer. These dresses had to be washed, ironed and starched each week. Mama made lye soap for the washing. Papa was trustee of Lefors school for a number of years. Among the duties he had to perform was helping to furnish wood for heating the school house. We all participated in community activities, such as literary society, box suppers and an occasional party and taffy pulling. My sister Ola was assistant teacher at the school for awhile until she married and moved away.

My parents bought a fruit farm at Springdale, Ark. and moved there in 1919, and lived there until August 1929, moving back to their home at Lefors. Papa built a new house on the east side of their place. They celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary Aug. 27, 1937. Papa became ill soon after and died Nov. 28, 1937. Mom lived on at her home in Lefors until her death July 24, 1940. They were survived by 6 daughters, 23 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren. One daughter Addie Koschesky preceded them in death in Apr. 1922.

The remaining daughters were: Bertie Duffy of Okla. City; Ola Skinner, of LaVernis, Tex.; Zula Langham of Raton, N. Mex.; Nellie Lewis of San Antonio, Tex.; Edna Miller of Taos, N. Mex.; and Rosalie Mills of Springdale, Ark.

HAD A SAD CHRISTMAS
To the Semi-Weekly Farm News

Here I come again, this time from Texas I last wrote from Springdale, Ark. I lost my husband Nov. 28. He would have been 78 Dec. 17. He had been ill more than a year. He attended the Greer Co. Old Settlers Reunion at Mangum, Okla. last June and enjoyed himself fine.

In August we celebrated our golden wedding anniversary. All of our six girls were present, also our dear dead daughter's husband and son. They gave us a nice dinner under the trees in our front yard.

It was a sad Christmas Day; my oldest boy died on Christmas Day 1900 at Vinson, Okla. My closest child lives 125 miles away. I have a girl staying with me and going to school. I will not be sad and lonely long; I am 69.

Laura Duke and Parlee Bradley and Sarah Wilson, please write to me. We have taken The Farm News forty years. My father was Dan Smith, and grandfather was John Bull of Erath Co., Tex.

Dear Cousin

I will answer your kind and welcome letter which I received yesterday. This leaves Fayette and myself well and enjoying our selves with the greatest of pleasure. I wish I could of been with you today as I had no company today.

I would be glad to see any person from Erath though I have many good neighbors and friends here. I have a fine garden considering the late spring.

Tell your Ma I want to see her. Tell Mrs Adams and Gramma I want to see them too.

What has Ance named his new boy. Where is Jim and Green. How is Grandpa and Grandmother geting along. I will send you and Mary a wild rose a peace.(note: the dried petals are still in the envelope)

Well Fetna Perlie is amusing himself lying in bed with the mumps. I must quit for I dont think this can be read.

Write soon

Your cousin Jennie Langham

THE LEE-PEACOCK FEUD

From the book "The History of Leonard, Texas" 1880-1890. It was published by the Leonard Centennial Commission, of Leonard, Texas in 1980. You can contact them if interested, as noted. The zip code is 75452. The following was taken from this book, and written by W.W. Sherrell. Anyone who has ties to the Fannin County area and those adjoining counties should own this book. It is well written, with a vast amount of history and family lines. See SMITH page 207.

In the southwestern part of Fannin County, in the northwestern part of Hunt, in the southeastern part of Grayson and the northeastern part of Collin counties, there was an area covered by thickets of various names. They were known as Mustang Thicket, Black Jack Thicket, Wildcat Thicket, Jernigan Thicket and sometimes as the Big Thicket. As late as 1877 there was a dense thicket about seven miles long and a maximum width of four miles south of the present town of Leonard, Texas into which few people had penetrated and through which only one man had ever gone. During the Civil War these thickets were the rendezvous of army deserters, slackers and fugitives.

In the northern part of one of these thickets whose southern boundary was the Fannin/Hunt County line Daniel W. Lee patented a tract of land and there built his home and raised his family.

At the beginning of the war his son Bob Lee, joined the Confederate Army and served in Tennessee and Louisiana. Bob Lee was "tall, dark and handsome." He generally wore a black suit, a black felt hat with the brim turned up and a black plume in it. He held the rank of Captain. At the end of the war he returned home with better clothes and a better horse and some gold coins.

The Union League, an organization led by the Freedmen's Bureau, carpetbaggers and skalawags, with Federal support, had its North Texas headquarters at Pilot Grove, about seven miles from the home of the Lee families. The leader of the Union League was Lewis Peacock, whose home was south of Pilot Grove on the Fannin-Grayson Line. He had arrived in Texas in 1856.

It was not long until the news of Bob Lee's return was known everywhere in the Red River Valley. The Confederate veterans were happy about it, for now they felt they had a leader. To Peacock, Capt. Bob Lee, the cavalry man, with his good clothes, his plumed hat and gold coins, were too big for the "Corners" and would have to go.

Peacock and other members of the Union League conceived the idea of extorting money from Bob Lee. They came to his house one night and arrested him and started to Sherman with him, but stopped in Choctaw Creek bottoms. They took Lee's watch and $200 in gold and he and his father, Daniel W. Lee, were to sign a note for $1000. Bob Lee was released. The Lees refused to pay the note. Suit was brought in Bonham and the Lees won the case.

The robbery in Choctaw Creek bottoms started the Lee-Peacock War. During the latter part of 1867, all of 1868, and until June 1869, the war raged. All told something like 50 men would be killed. By the summer of 1868 the war had gotten so hot that the Union League called for help from the Federal Government. On Aug. 27, 1869, Gen. J.J. Reynolds issued a notice of a reward of $1000 cash to be paid for the delivery of Bob Lee to the Post Commander at Austin, or Marshall, Texas.

Bob Lee did what many others had already done: he built a hide-out in the brush. In late Feb. 1867, Bob Lee was in Pilot Grove. In a local store he ran across Jim Maddox, a Union man suspected of being in the party that had kidnapped Lee. Bob Lee offered Maddox a gun so they could fight, but Maddox declined his offer. Later in the day Lee was standing on the street and Maddox slipped up behind him and shot him in the back of the head. Lee was knocked unconscious. He was taken to Dr. William H. Pierce, who treated him in his home until he was able to return to his own home. On Feb. 24 1867, the doctor was called to his door and shot to death by Hugh Hudson, a known Peacock man.

Hugh Hudson, who according to a theory by Dr. W.C. Holmes, who had taken over Dr. Pierce's practice, was killed at Saltillo, a teamster's stop on the road to Jefferson. Dr. Holmes had been called on to identify a man said to be Hudson. The description met that of Hudson.

One day early in the spring of 1868 Elijah Clark, a Peacock man, called on Hester Ann Dixon to invite her to go with him to a dance. She refused him. In his frustration and disappointment, he ran out of the house without his gun which he had left on a table. He met Hester Anne's brother, 16 year old Billy Dixon, a Lee man. Elijah grabbed Billy's gun and shot at him. Billy ran in the house, grabbed Elijah's gun and ran back out and shot Elijah dead.

In less than a month Billy Dixon met death on the Jefferson road. Enroute to Jefferson with a load of cotton, his wagon broke down about 20 miles from home. His cousin, Charlie Dixon was with him. They were repairing the wagon when suddenly a dozen men appeared and surrounded them. They told Billy to march ten paces with hands up. On the count of seven, a single bullet split rang out, and Billy slumped in his tracks.

The Lee crowd was not inactive during this time. At one point two of Peacock's men forced the Lee women to feed them. The men were only able to get a few hundred yards into the brush before their saddles were emptied by shot gun blasts.

In mid-May, at the Nance farm there was a meeting in which 3 men were killed. Peacock and some of his men were holding a meeting at the Nance farm, and messengers had reported to Bob Lee in the Wildcat Thicket about the meeting. Lee and a possee of his men made a raid on the horse lot where the meeting was being held . In the fight which followed three Peacock men (Dow Nance, John Baldock, Dan Sanders) were killed. There were no Lee casualties.

The $1000 reward for Bob Lee, dead or alive, was attracting bounty hunters to "The Corners." Three Kansas "Red Legs," dressed as citizens, laid plans to capture or kill Bob Lee for the reward. It was in the early spring of 1869. The Lees had reason to suspect the "Red Legs" were ready to make their move, so were ready for them.

When daylight came the scene appeared calm. In the kitchen of Bob Lee's home Dorinda Pierce and Melinda Lee (Bob's wife) were chatting about the day ahead at the Lee school where Dorinda taught. Suddenly the serenity was shattered by the sound of shots. They hurried down the road toward Pilot Grove, and found 3 dead men who were strangers. The bodies of the three "Red Legs" laid all day where they had fallen. Peacock's men were afraid to come get the bodies for burial. Later the two women buried them.

Lewis Peacock planned retaliation and revenge. He asked for, and obtained, more troops. The troops under Capt. Charles Campbell, had orders to settle the feud in Northeast Texas by capturing the leader of the Southern sympathizers.

Lee's loyalty ring was broken by a neighbor and erstwhile friend, Henry Boren. The Lees and Borens had come to Texas together, yet Henry was to betray the secret trails to Lee's hide-out in Wildcat Thicket.

On the morning of May 24, 1869, Bob Lee, dressed in his black suit, boots and black hat with plume, and with all his side arms, said he was riding to a neighbors home not more than 3 miles away. If his secret plan was to ride south to Mexico, he had waited too long.

His journey was short. Less than half a mile from his home and before he reached the outside, he was caught by the flash of Federal musket fire from the guns of Capt. Campbell's 6th Infantry. Between 8 and 15 shots were fired and Bob Lee slid from his saddle without a word. As an after math to Lee's death, Bill Boren, a nephew of Henry's, rode up to his uncle's house the next morning, called to his uncle to come out. Henry came out, and was instantly killed by his nephew, who silently turned and rode away. "Death to a Traitor" was evidently the opinion of some of the Borens.

After the death of Bob Lee in June 1869, his followers scattered to other parts of the state and the Peacock gang broke up, but a few of them stayed together. Peacock was the leader of the force.
Dick Johnson, a Bob Lee lieutenant, had gone out to west Texas to keep out of trouble. Peacock and his gang had killed his three half-brothers, Simp Dixon, Bob Dixon and Charlie Dixon. Charlie was killed at Black Jack Grove, now called Cumby. Charlie and his father had started three lumber mills near Winnsboro for lumber; Peacock and his gang followed them to Black Jack Grove and shot Charlie to death. Dr. Dixon brought his son's body home in an ox wagon and buried him. Dr. Dixon soon died and left three daughters. The Peacock gang sent them word that they were going to burn them out of house and home and they would not have a rail left on their farm. The girls wrote to Dick Johnson in West Texas to come and protect them. He came in a hurry and the news soon reached Pilot Grove that Dick Johnson was back home.

When Peacock heard the news he was in the drug store of Dr. Kuykendall in Pilot Grove. He remarked, "Some morning when Dick gets up and comes to the door for wood to make a fire, I'll be laying for him and will get him." The remark was carried to Dick Johnson without delay and this remark cost Peacock his life.
Joe Parker was another of the Lee crowd who was still in the country and he and Dick Johnson were both anxious to have the honor of slaying Peacock. About the first of July 1871, one of them climbed a lone tree on the prairie in sight of Peacock's house and hid himself in the thick foliage: one writer claims that this was Dick Johnson, while others claim it was Joe Parker. Whichever it was made little difference, for they were working together and with the same objection. Peacock was seen approaching his home, and Johnson and Parker made preparations to kill him the next morning. They put Peacock's threat into action and waited until early the next morning when Peacock came to get wood to make a fire. He was slain in his own yard. Dick Johnson was never arrested, and he and his wife moved to Missouri, where they lived many years. He was seen in Fannin County in 1920 and was last heard of in Red River County, Texas.

Melinda Lee, the widow of Bob Lee, married in the early 1870's to Jack Bradley. They had one daughter named Emmy.

NOTES

THE PEVERELL'S

The Peverell's were known in England before William The Conqueror. Their long descent beginning in the eighth century. William the Conqueror was born 1027, and reigned between 1066 and 1087. He was the first of the Norman Line and the illegitimate son of Robert the 1st, the Duke of Normandy. William was married to Matilda of Flanders, and their son William II became king at the death of his father. I give this brief part of history so that one might have some idea how far back the Peverell family could be traced. I have made no attempt to do so, but perhaps it would be something to do at a later date. I am only able to trace back to Babusk Peverell who came to Harford Co., Md in 1680, having been given a land grant by King Charles located North of the Potomac. It is possible that Babusk was the father or grandfather of Daniel.

A book written by Sir Walter Scott (no date) is written around the Peverell's and is interesting reading. It is entitled "PEVERIL OF THE PEAK". The following is from this publication.

"William The Conquer of England was (or supposed himself to be) the father of a certain William Peveril who attended him to the Battle of Hastings, and there distinguished himself." As the illegitimate son of William the Conqueror, William Peveril obtained a liberal grant of property and lordships in Derbyshire and became the erector of that Gothic Fortress which, hanging over mouth of Devil's Cavern (so well known to tourists),gives the name of Castleton to the adjacent village. From this feudal Baron descended an opulent family rank, in the the County of Derby, and although the Fortress had been forfeited in the days of King John and was no longer possessed by the descendants of William Peveril, they were long distinguished by the proud title of "Peveril Of The Peak," which served to mark their high descent and lofty pretentions.

One of the most celebrated English Dwarfs lived during the reign of Charles the 1st and his son, and is the little hero particularly brought forth in "Peverell of The Peak." This tiny man was born at Oakham in 1619 was named Jeffrey Hudson. He was 18 in. tall at age 7, and was taken into service of the Duke of Buckingham. At an entertainment given to Charles and his queen, little Jeffrey was served up at table in a cold pie! The Duchess later presented him to the queen who kept him as her dwarf. From age 7 to age 30 he did not grow taller, but later grew to 3 ft. 9 in. in height.

Hannah Ruff was the daughter of Richard Ruff and SARAH PEVERELL, and the granddaughter of Daniel Peverell, who may have been the son of Babusk Peverell.

Inscription from the tombstone on the grave of John Nash Read, Revolutionary Soldier, near Old Jefferson (Tenn.)
"Here lie the mortal remains of John Nash Read who was born in Charlotte Co., Va. on April 25 1763, emigrated to Rutherford Co., Tenn. in 1806 and departed this life at "Templeton Grove" on Jan. 6 1826 in the glorious triumph of a living faith, leaving a large and affectionate family to lament their loss.

Phelps Read was the father of Mary Read , Jane Read who m 16 Oct. John Thompson, George Gideon Read, (below), Adeline Read who m 20 July 1816 Ellis Riggs), and namesake Phelps Read.

George Gideon Read m 29 June 1820 CHARLOTTE JARNAGIN. They had 4 children. Noah Phelps Read who d in prison and was buried at Annapolis, Caroline Read who married 1843 John Morris; Mary Adeline Read who married Elijah Bull, and Sydney Jane Read who died at the age of 15 on 18 July 1847.

CHARLOTTE JARNAGIN was the daughter of Noah Jarnagin (who was born 9 July 1768 and d about 1849/50). Noah was married to Mary Russell, the dau of George Russell whose sister Lydia married Capt. William Bean. Noah Jarnagin was the oldest son of Capt. Thomas Jarnagin and HATTIE SHIELDS, and is credited with having been a revolutionary soldier at the age of 16. He was a brother of Preston, Spencer, Chesley (who m MARTHA BARTON) and Lavinia (who m MAJOR LEA)

Capt. Thomas Jarnagin was born 25 July 1746 and died 26 Feb. 1802 and was the son of Col. John Jarnagin and MARY BYNUM, the daughetr of Charles Bynum and LaVinia WITT. I also have a marriage record for a Capt. Thomas Jarnagin who was married to MARY WITT. She was born 4 Apr. 1753 and died 7 Aug. 1830 at Jefferson Co., Tenn.

NOTE: Use caution when using the above record. Others have done research on the Read/Jarnagin line which is more complete and may be more up-to-date. I would be happy to hear from others who can add or correct what is written here. These came from various publications, namely TENNESSEE COUSINS, by Worth S. NOTES

Many have worked at the relationship between Daniel Hales Smith (husband of Mary Rosalie Bull) and John C. Smith (husband of Amelia Lillian Bull), and after all sorts of ideas it seems to be settled, thanks to the help from Loretta McBride of Okla. City. Her great grandparents were Daniel and Mary Rosalie. Through a contact she made, Loretta was able to locate a book entitled,"The History of Leonard, Texas 1880-1890", containing an article written by a Calvin Smith (no date), which gives an account of Martin Smith and his family. I wrote to the (now dissolved) Leonard Centennial Commission, and was able to purchase this book. Because of information therein, I wrote to Tom Hymer, not being aware that he is the mayor of Leonard, asking permission to use some of the material it contained. He replied and I was given this permission, for which I am grateful.
We still can't draw a true relationship, although Loretta suggests that John Smith, the father of Daniel, and Martin Smith the father of John C. Smith may have been brothers. Thus the two (Daniel and John C.) would have been cousins.

While looking through old records of those who served in the War between the States, I found a D.H. Smith in the Confederate Army with the 14th Regiment Brigade, with the Rank of Pvt. He enlisted on July 25, 1861 in the Volunteer Cavalry of the Oakhill Home Guard of Fannin Co., Tex. No age was given. I don't know if he was the same person as Daniel Hales, but probably was.

As told to me by Grace Sievers is the following:
Wesley was cared for after the death of his mother by his uncle Webb Smith (15 years older than Wes), until his father married again to Rena Watson. John and his young wife who was only 14 years old fought so much that he had scars on his legs from where she had cut him with a cane knife. When his aunt Emily learned of this she took him to live with her and her husband Dr. Watkins, at Sipe Springs. He stayed with them until he married.

DANIEL W. LEE

Daniel W. Lee was born 5 June 1810 and settled in Lamar Co., Tex. His first wife was Polly Davis whom he married in Arkansas, and by her he had 10 children. She died in Lamar Co. Later he married Betty Ward. In 1859 Daniel Lee patented 157 acres of land on the line between Hunt and Fannin Cos. and there established his stock ranch and lived until he was killed by Will Smith in 1877. His children by his first wife were: Manerva who married Martin Smith; Susie who married Frank Mahan; Bob, the Civil War Capt. who was the leader in the Lee-Peacock Feud, and who married Malinda Mahan, sister of Frank; Bill who died in the Civil War; John who married Jane Eby; George who died in the Confederate service; Henry whose wife was Nancy Brown. Names of the other 3 children are unknown.
The children of Daniel W. Lee and Betty Ward were: Mary who married Pete McClanahan; Nancy who married Bill Freeman; Jim who die single; Danny who married Celia Durham; Amos who married Mattie Durham, Celia's sister; Lucy who married Elijah Miller; Marcha; and Francis, who died young.

On account of the Union League the Lees were ever on the defense. Daniel W. Lee would come to Bonham and do trading and buy his merchandise from the leading merchant there, T.R. Williams. He would buy powder by the 25 lb. keg and buckshot by the 25 lb. sack. He always informed Mr. Williams that he wanted to kill his hogs.

Between Mustang and Wildcat Thickets there was a broad prairie, north of the present town of Leonard, Tex. It was the custom in those days for people to stake out hay land by driving 4 stakes at the corner of the tract they wished to mow. It was known as "staking out their grass" and these temporary titles were respected. Will Smith, son of George Smith, who lived six miles north, and Dan W. Lee had conflicting rights in regard to the claim of some hay land on the Leonard Prairie. Old Dan Lee got the "drop" on Will Smith in the summer of 1876, forced him to dismount, and crawl on his all-fours over the prairie and bark like a dog. Later Smith was released, but he went to Bonham and had Dan W. Lee (the father of the Lee Clan) indicted for assault to murder. The trial was held in Bonham and Lee was cleared.

On March 18, 1877 about the middle of the afternoon, the Lees started home. Fortunately, White Ragsdale was standing on the corner of the street and noted the time by his watch. A bit later Will Smith and Billy Skipwith found the Lees loitering along the highway near the Bowie place. As soon as Smith and Skipwith caught up with the Lees, Dan Lee began upbraiding Smith and one word led to another. Dan Lee finally reached in his saddle bag and Smith concluded that he was reaching for his pistol and immediately fired, shooting him in the right side. Smith at this time was off his horse with his gun out. Lige Miller ran toward the horse of Dan Lee and Smith shot at him and hit him on the shin bone, which succeeded in stopping Miller. By this time the Lee boys had rushed to the help of Dan Lee. Smith escaped into the woods and made his way back to his home and neighborhood that night. Dan was taken to the Bowie Place a few hundred yards distant where he lived til the following morning, on March 19 , 1877 when he passed away.

Aunt Rosamond Bull
Grand O K

Well aunt this leaves us all well. Hope this will find you and connection enjoying the same great blessing. Aunt you must not think hard of me for not writing sooner I have so much I have to see after that I neglect my duty toward my corrispondants Father were up Xmas. John and Geo were aiming to come up but Jake was not very well so they never came. Joe and Bean is aiming to start to Okla. in a few days W.B.s cattle is all at W.J.s and are needing attention badly. J.H. got a letter from Geo and Emer. They have a new boy at their house. all was doing very well Well Aunt it is raining tonight has been rainy all day sloly from the north though it is not freezing yet. Aunt out Gardin is as green as if it was spring excep the tomatoes they are dead. we have leek, collard, cabbage, mustard, and two patches of turnips, that is just as tender as can be Well Aunt I wish you could see our little baby boy he is blue eyed and looks sorter like Howard looked when he was a baby We call him Dennis. I will send you one of his pichurs that I have made with my Codac. Also an exposure of Prewitt and Aubrey as they sit,....Prewitt with Book and Aubrey looking from the opposite side of the bureau near the door. If you will observe closely you will recognize some of the articles in the scene. first, the bureau is the one that mother left. and it was set apart for us to care for. We taken the two little boxes off the top so you could use a spread on it. On the right side of the bureau you can see a molasses stand that was given to Stella and on the left a sugarbowl that was given to Eula. they use to sit on Mothers table. but they are only keepsakes now. also other little trays that belong to the girls. and the little rabbit that Grand Mama Hatter gave Stella is sitting on the left side of the mirror, which shows the heeting stove near where I stood when I taken the picture

Well Aunt it is getting late so I will close for this time hoping to hear from you soon.

Yours as ever
N.P. Underwood

Aunt I will send the pictures under a separate cover so they may not get there as soon as this letter does. N.P.U.

Dear Old Aunt.
I thought I would write you as Papa is going to write. I would of written sooner but I have been at work pulling Johnson grass every since school is out. well aunt we are all well and hope you the same grandpa Underwood was up at Morgan Mill a week or to ago. he said they were all well and that Lena hadent missed but one day of school she stayed all night at her grandpas and it rained so she never got to go to school aunt. stella stated in her letter that grandma Tandy was dead. she was at Ruth Halls when she died. Annie hamic is at her sisters agoing to school Mollie Hamic left here the other day for memphis Tennisee where she will be marred to Mr Ridgway. Mr George Hamie is marred. he marred Abbie Walton. They are living with Mr. Hamie. Mr Earl Stigler has gone off to sell buggys and hacks aunt. I wish you could see our baby he weighs 21 and a half pounds he has blue eyes fair skin and ball headed his name is Dennis he can sit alone but cant crall. Aunt how do you like those pictures we sent you aunt we may have a group of all of us childrn taken some of these days and send it to you. grandpa and grandma Renner was babtised the first sunday in April they joined the christian church. grandpa and grandma Howard has gone to Okla T Aunt Rosy we have got a little mule and a calf. the worms is eating up our guarden. we need a rane down here. we havnt got but 6 little chickens and hens a sitting. Aunt our school was out about 2 weeks ago we had a Picnic. Aunt we are going to have a debate at Chalk Mt in June Mr Bently a christian and Mr Numan a babtis aunt Rosy we have bin to town and got our summer goods we all got new hats. well aunt I will close. I will rite again soon.

Monday morning 2.20 a.m.
Aunt I will give you a few items I left out last night Baxter Underwood & wife is living in the Dr. Hickay house he married Miss Montie Lackey the School marm that taught the Rough Creek school 3 terms. Aunt I would like very much to see you and all the connection and your new country but I am fearful I can never find time to take such a long trip Aunt if you ever want to return let me know and I will be at your services. Good Bye

N.P.U.

Note: Annie Hamic previously mentioned was married at Chalk Mtn. on Nov. 12, 1905 to Will West. He was born in McClennan Co., Tx. and moved to Chalk Mtn. Community where he met Annie. She was born and raised at Chalk Mtn. Will died May 18, 1977 at age 92, and Annie died Aug. 4, 1979 at age 90. They farmed all of their lives, and at age 91 Will would walk 3 blocks to town every day to the drug store for coffee. Annie was almost blind at the age of 86, which handicapped her greatly, for she loved to read and do handwork. They had 2 sons and 5 daughters. Will and Annie are buried at Mt. Carmel Cemetery at Wolfe City, Texas.

Dear Aunt: After some delay I will answer your last letter which I received in due time and was glad to hear from you. Aunt this leaves us all well, and I hope when this reaches your aged and feeble hands it will find you all well. Father was up to see us one day last week he said he was aiming to take a three month trip to Okla. I don't know where all they will go. Small grain crops are neding rain. but all indications are favorable this morning for a general rain. Well Aunt have you got those pictures I sent you yet I received a letter from Anderson a few days ago and he said nothing of you getting the pictures. If you have not received them please let me know in your next letter and I will send you more. Well Aunt I am very busy most of the time. I have 8 acres of land for my cotton crop this year and you see if I attend the shop and the crop I have my hands full. It is mail time so good by Dear Aunt

Rosamond A. Bull Streeter, O.K.

My aged and kind old aunt I hope you will not think hard of me for not writing to you sooner. My intentions are good I think. I was very glad to get your letter which arrived in due time. and I intended to answer at once, but at this time half past-nine P.M. while all the neighbors of the burg is on their beds of rest...I adjust...my glasses and try to answer your welcome and long looked for letter. Well Aunt this leaves us all well as far as I know, and I hope when this reaches your distant home it will find you enjoying the greatest of all earthly blessings "good health" Aunt I hardly know what to write first. Mrs. Eden the lady that was at Fathers when Mother died departed this life in the last week in last May and was laid to rest in the same graveyard with mother. Also Aunt Pollie Cowan died the 16th of last month and of course was laid to rest at Rock Church graveyard. Uncle John Shipman was buried one month ago today. he died of lung trouble after a long lingering case of three months. Aunt I think we are in the swim this year. oats and wheat was very good corn is simply fine and cotton though late is speaks fair for a good crop. My renter has about 10 acres in corn that is now too hard for roast. And about 20 acres in cotton with 5 acres in cane. Then I have me an additional crop of cotton of 10 acres and all is looking well. We have a fine gardin Beans, Peas, Beets, Potatos, Turnips, Tomatoes, Cabbage, Colards, and cucumbers all as fine as you ever saw. We have never suffered ten minutes for rain this season. we had a fine rain last sunday evening, and it is looking like rain tonight. Well aunt I am very busy at present and have been all this spring. so I hope you will not think hard of me for not writing oftener. You tell Ran I am ashamed of the way I treated him about his letter...but before god I meant no harm. I thought I would find time in the near future to write him but I did not. I am due a letter to Andrson & Ran also to "Wes", George and Jess. Well aunt the season is here for big meetings there is one in progress over at Dotsan(?) schoolhouse now and one will begin at Chalky next week then there will be one continual service for perhaps one month. We are going to build a shingle arbor 40x50 commencing this week. So if you was here you could go to meeting any day. Well aunt it is time I was in bed all is sound asleep so dear aunt Goodbye.

Write soon
Yours as ever

Dear Aunt: I expect you think at times that I am silent on purpose; or that I have forgotten you. but that is not the case, I would have written sooner but for the children. You wanted them to write and we all cannot get ready at the same time. I will have them write to you soon. This leaves us all well and hope when it reaches you it will find you and the connection enjoying the same great blessings. Well Aunt brother Jess has moved and father is keeping house again, I have not been down to pay them a visit yet but I intend to soon. I wish you were here to go with us. then the old home would seem more like it use to in the happy days that are gone. Father was up the other day. he is not very well. he has rheumatic troubles. Bro. J.H. got a letter from Wes yesterday stating that all was well and getting on very well. J.M. and W.B. are at W.J. I have not heard from them direct since they left although I wrote to W.B. once. he did not answer me. Well Aunt I am collecting only Tolerably yet. I think I will be able to divide with you if my customers settle up as they should I believe you told me to settle your Drs. bill. and I told W.B. to let you have some money when you left, and I would settle with him. How much did W.B. let you have. He told me $25.00 Let me know about how much you will need and if I can I will send it at once. Aunt I was in hopes that I would be able to make a full settlement this year but I cannot tell you how my collections will be. my farm you know made me nothing above running expenses for the last two years but I will get a little off of it this year for the first time since I bought it. I would like to see you very much but dont know if I can ever find time to make so long a visit. It seems that I have more to do than anybody. As my family is large and no help to me scarcely. You can see that I have my hands full. Aunt we have got a shingle arbor 40x50 ft. Built just 100 yds. from our yard. and it is a nice improvement to our little town. and is so handy. Aunt I dont expect you are acquainted with the parties or I would try to tell the particulars of a very dark deed. A man by the name of Long shot and killed a man by the name of Anderson. both are our neighbors and is a sad thing. Long is in jail. Anderson was buried at Duffaw.

We are picking our third bale of cotton. I believe I told you about Baxter Underwoods marriage. He married a Miss Lackey of the town of Glenrose. I think she is a fine woman. Baxter is living in the Dr. Hickey house. Hickey is played out and left Chalk Mt. Well Aunt my letter is growing long so I will close by asking you to please excuse my long delayed letter and answer soon. And I will try to be more punctual in the future. Well Aunt if you ever want to visit us let me know and I am at your service. Give my respects to all. As ever your Nephew

Ephraim Bull, b 1806 in Md. went with his father to Richland Co., Ohio in 1817. The census of 1830 shows Ephraim and William in Richland Co. (Washington Twp.) The 1820 census shows no Bull in Richland Co. although early deeds indicate that a Hezekiah Bull bought land there in 1817 and 1824. Probably the Hezekiah who later settled in Stark Co. (see #67 on page 238)

Who was John Bull from Baltimore who married JANE PHILLIPS, b ca 1796, and who went to Cooper Co., Mo.? He had sons George and Thomas, b ca 1824.

Who was William Blackwell Bull, who m TINA BELLE THOMPSON? They had a daughter Mary Lois Bull, b in Nashville 18 Sept. 1898, a librarian once listed in "Who's Who of American Women."

From the 1890 1st Territorial census of Okla. is listed Pleasant Bull, age 28 born Ala. I believe this may have been the son ofJacob and Margaret (FREDERICK) Bull. Although Pleasant was born in 1851, making him age 39 in 1890, there may have been an error in reporting.

WILLIAM BULL, an early settler in Ala. was married to ANN TURNER. Two of their 11 children were JACOB AARON BULL, b 1810 in Va. and MARTIN TURNER BULL. William was killed by Indians.

From GOODSPEEDS HISTORY of South Ark. 1890.MARTIN TURNER BULL, (son of William and Ann TURNER Bull), m MARTHA GRAY. He lived in Ala. and d at Cherokee Co., Tex. in 1882 at age 74 (making his birth ca 1808). His wife d 1848. They belonged to the Presbyterian Church. The couple had one known son, JOHN G. BULL, a native of Talladega Co. Ala. b 8 Mar. 1843. At the age of 18 he joined the Confederate Army serving 2 years when he was promoted from Pvt. with Company K, 10th Ala. Infantry, to Sergeant. There he remained until the close of the war. He was in the Battle of Seven Pines, both battles of Fredericks, Va., the Wilderness and other important engagements. Although receiving 3 slight wounds he was never taken prisoner. When the war ended he returned home to Ala. remaining a short time, then moved to Union Co., Ark where he made his home. JOHN G. BULL m FANNIE J. GRAY Mar. 24 1867, they were parents of 9 children. WILLIAM W., JAMES S., MATTIE S., MARY F., and SUSAN C. All born in Ala. (other children unknown).

Mrs. Bull was the daughter of E.M. Gray and SOPHONIA ROGERS. John G. Bull was a Democrat and in 1874 was elected to office of Magistrate . They were members of Missionary Baptist Church.

From Mr. Ben M. Bull, Jr. of St. Louis, Mo. who wrote me a nice letter in 1974 (when we could still mail a letter for 10 cents), and gave this account of his family.
"My father would have been a great help to you as he knew not only a great deal about his Bull relatives, but knew many unrelated Bull relatives. I know so little about the family . My grandfather was JAMES MORGAN BULL, b in St. Louis during the Civil War. He married KATHERINE MAY, and my father was one of 4 children. My father BEN MAY BULL, SR. was born at St. Louis June 26, 1898. He d Sept. 14, 1969. I Ben May Bull, Jr. am one of four children having been born Jan. 15, 1942.
I recall my father speaking of his uncles GORDON and CHARLES BULL, also my uncle Gordon apparently was named after some offshoot of the family whose last name was GORDON-BULL.
I also remember hearing the story about one of the great grandfather Bulls being the gardener of King George Of England One of his primary duties was to obtain the Queen's mail before she received it and deliver it to the King for censoring purposes. I have always had the impression that the Bull's came to this country during its infancy from England. Our particular branch apparently came to St. Louis many years ago directly from the east coast and Baltimore may well have been the place.

Mrs. Howard Bulls of Reedley, Ca. wrote to me in 1972. A friend of hers was searching for his Bull family. He is ALVA BULL of Orosi, Ca. He knows that his grandfather WILLIAM FOSTER BULL, m MATILDA BURNS about 1855. They were located in Miss. before they moved to Ark. They were found on the census of Fayette Co., Ala. in 1840 and 1850. From Mrs. J. Paul Jones; 52 Chester Place Asheville, N.C. 28806

Who was the JOHN BULL who was perhaps the son of Burnaby Bull, b 1754? Is this the John who married MARGARET DANTZLER(1782-1805)? IRENE BULL, (1805-1876) the daughter of John married WILLIAM HART (1784-1854). Tradition says that William and his brother Hamilton Hart went to S.C. from Virginia as young men, and they left a married sister in Va. named Zanetta. William Hart married first ELIZABETH MURCHEY, daughter of William.

It has also been stated that Burnaby had a brother Stephen, they came from England on the ship "Caroline" March 15, 1670, going to Charleston, S.C. Burnaby died without issue, but Stephen had 3 sons from whom the Bulls of S.C. descended. I have the complete lineage of this S. Car. family, if anyone needs more information.

Maurice (aka) Morris S. Bull, m SALUDA CHILES. They went to Missouri in Maries Co. before 1860, where they had land and lived on the "Big Road". Covered wagons often camped on their land enroute west. They evidently left at the end of the Civil War and were later located at Morgan Co., Ill.

Morris S. Bull was age 58 on the 1880 census of Morgan Co. and his wife was age 51. He was b N. Car. and her in Va. At home on this census was the following: A. Sarah, age 28; J Martha, age 26; S.

Mary, age 17,(who m W.Thomas Todd) and a child named Henry Laymans who was age 6. All were born in Missouri. There was also a Solomon and Elizabeth Bull in this census (ages 49 and 42) who may have been related, and also Madison and Eliza Jane Bull (ages 39 and 37) Before 1894 Maurice and Saluda Bull were back in Mo. owning a farm in Pulaski, Co. Their oldest child William Bull was also living in the area in 1880 and later. It is possible that the parents of Maurice Bull were Moses Bull and ELIZABETH FULLER. of N.C. and later of Macoupin Co., Ill. They were said to be parents of Solomon Bull.

The following family was sent to me by Mrs. (Marilyn) Leon Cowell, Rt.#1, Memphis, Mo. 63555. I have corresponded with Marilyn off and on for over 10 years, trying to make a connection between her William Bull as being a son of Abraham and Martha (Wyle) Bull. I do not think this is the case. Family of #12 Abraham and Willamine BONTA Bull

Abraham Bull, b 1764; m 1786 WILLAMINE BONTA (Willamine here is only one form of the numerous spellings given for her). He was born in Pike Co., Ohio. Willamine was the dau of Capt. Abraham Bonta and MARY DERMOTT. Abraham went to Ky. in 1781 with his sister Anne and family . In 1782 with his brother-in-law Jake Duree and a number of their neighbors Abraham joined Col. George Clark's expedition into the Northwest Territory (Ohio); The Blue Lick Massacre. In the compamny from Virginia he was reunited with several relatives. This expedition proved disasterous for the family, as it took the life of his brother John, brother-in-law Jake Duree, cousins Luke Amos, John Grillon (Capt. of Lincoln Co., Ky. Militia 1782) and John Walter. Abraham returned home and stayed with his sister Anne to help care for her and her 2 children Samuel and Winnefred, until she remarried to Daniel Bonta. In 1785 Abraham returned to Ohio with the Galloway boys, to survey land for himself. He staked out in Ross Co. along with James Galloway, Sr. They received their warrants 1797/98 and here Abraham built his home in Pike Co. (Pike Co. taken from Ross Co. in 1815).

After the death of his father in 1915 E.G. and Myrtie bought the homplace homeplace and farm in 1920 where they built a 2 story house where they resided until his death in 1956. E.G. was elected and served as Probate Judge of the Scotland Co., Court 1922-1926, and was a member of the Methodist Church. He held a 50 yr. membership in the A.F. & A.M. Memphis Lodge #16, was a member of Eastern Star, Royal Arch Masons, and Memphis Commandery #41 Knights Templar. He received many awards for his farming practices and was honored in 1952 with the Skelly Oil Co. Agricultural Achievement Award. When their son Chandler's wife Velma died, he moved in with his parents so they could help care for the small children, and although they were in their eaarly sixties they bore the burden of three motherless children with strength and courage. With the help of a hired girl in the winter and the help of their daughter Abbie in the summer (she taught school), they raised the children with loving care.

Who is T.D. Bull? A marriage record from Denton Co., Tex. says he married SARAH BROWN on 6 Feb. 1879. On the 1880 census of Collin Co., Tex. is a T.D. Bull age 30, b Ark. and both parents born Tenn. His wife is shown only as N.J. age 20, also b Ark. and parents b Tenn. and one daughter N.J. age 2 born Tex.
I also have an article from Crowell, Okla. (no date) about T.D. Bull who was there visiting a daughter Mrs. J.W. Jonas, while renewing an old acquaintance with his friend during the Civil War Days, by the name of C.B. Garlinghouse. T.D. Bull was at this time a resident of Sulphur, Okla. He joined the Confederacy 10 June 1861 when he was 16, thus making his birth year about 1845. and the article mentioned being written in 1933, as also he states that he was now age 83, thus his birth year from this account makes the article written around 1928. A great deal of discrepancy seems possible. Following the war, he had a lot of experience fighting the Indians, especially in 1807 1nd 1808. The last Indian to die in battle in Denton, Tex. was killed by Bull.

Which William Bull married Elizabeth Ruff? See page 15 (#54) and page 24 (#92). I have been told that either or both. Another mix-up on a William Bull. Surely someone, somewhere will be able to clear this all up.
I am almost convinced that there may have been two Bull lines from the beginning (perhaps brothers) which accounts for much of the confusion, as to who belonged to who.

It is difficult to straighten all of this out, and althought I have been as accurate as I could be in putting together the loose threads, I can't swear to everything as being absolutely correct.
I have made obvious mistakes and corrected as many as I could. My typos are there, but it shows my imperfections, and the meaning remains.
